R. H. Knott, Veteran Warehouseman, Grover H. Webb, John N. Fountain And Jack Moye Again Form Powerful Combination For Sales Service

A prominent figure in the promotion of the Farmville tobacco market since coming to Farmville in 1912, R. H. Knott has, by his superior knowledge of tobacco and sales management, contributed greatly towards winning for the market the worldwide recognition it now enjoys and has seen his ambition of the market developing into the liveliest, most progressive and dependable market in the Carolinas brought to fruition.

Mr. Knott, personable and affable in his manner, has hosts of friends also on the Kentucky market, where he is connected with the warehouse business.

Grover H. Webb, an experienced and successful warehouseman, has been an associate member of Knott's warehouse firm for several years. His reputation for integrity has grown with the years and he is widely acquainted in tobacco circles where he is recognized as one of the leading warehousemen of the Belt.

Bill Sheldon of Buffalo Springs, Va., who made many friends on this market last year, will do the auctioneering, assisted by Wyatt Tucker.

Combining his business efficiency and years of experience as warehouseman again this season with that of Mr. Knott and the other partner, G. H. Webb, will be John N. Fountain. Mr. Fountain, well known for his genial manner and straightforward dealings, is widely acquainted, which, with a sincere concern, has had a great influence on the expansion of Knott's warehouse and the Farmville market.

Jack Moye, who has had years of experience and rendered exceptional service on the Greenville, Wilson and Farmville markets, is again associated with this firm and will give a cordial hand to old friends at Knott's again this year.

The customers of Knott's warehouse and the Farmville market as a whole, recognize the initiative and ability of these men and the market has been enhanced by their association from the beginning. They are seasoned and able warehousemen with many friends and valuable contacts among the farmers of this territory.

R. H. KNOTT

They form a firm of popular tobaccoists who work faithfully to satisfy their customers with good sales and for the advancement of the market as a whole.

This tobacco sales firm operates two modern warehouses; Knott's No. 1 is on the same site on Wilson street, where R. H. Knott launched out in the leaf selling industry 33 years ago; the other, which covers an acre and a quarter, is situated on South Main street near the Norfolk-Southern railroad.

Large and competent sales and office forces have been assembled by the management, who, well chosen in the beginning, have served long and faithfully at their respective posts, and from the time a tobacco grower drives into Knott's warehouse until he receives his check, he finds a friendly courtesy accompanying every phase of the operation connected with his sale.

Members of the clerical force include: Earl Trevathan, bookkeeper; Mrs. Curtis Flanagan, pay-off bookkeeper; Mr. Kilpatrick and H. R. Acton, book men; Roy Vandiford, floor manager for No. 1; Willis Gray Allen, floor manager for No. 2; Curtis Flanagan, in charge of weighing; Sam Lynn, ticket market.

LEGITIMATE ACQUISITION

A schoolteacher tells about a little boy whose coat was so difficult to fasten that she went to his assistance. As she tugged at the hook, she said, "Did your mother hook this coat for you?"

"No," was the reply, "she bought it."

DDT To Be Offered For Civilian Needs

Limited supplies of the wonder insecticide DDT will be available for civilian use this month and during the fall, believes J. Myron Maxwell, Extension entomologist at State College.

He reports that a residual spray of this material in kerosene has proven valuable for the control of flies in dairies, and for control of mosquitoes and bedbugs.

"This material can be badly misused and the people greatly disappointed in it unless they are properly advised on the dangers and the effectiveness of it," Maxwell pointed out.

He advised against the use of a small hand atomizing sprayer in applying the material and suggested a three-gallon type garden pressure sprayer so as to apply the solution to the walls in small droplets.

"Care must be exercised in using DDT to prevent the operator from breathing the DDT mist or getting the oil solution on the skin," Maxwell warned. "DDT can result in killing many beneficial insects which may leave us in worse condition than before the discovery of DDT."

Tar Heel Labor Used In Making Atomic Bomb

Shelby, Aug. 16.—Dr. J. S. Dorton, War Manpower Commissioner for North Carolina, said here today that labor demands of the government's atomic bomb development had drained thousands of workers from the State.

Some parts for the terrifying weapon, he added, were made in plants of the State.

Under the "Now it can be told" heading, he disclosed that he had received many complaints from North Carolina industries against the assignment of so many men and women to the Manhattan Project.

Neither the manufacturers nor his office, of course, knew what the Manhattan Project was, he said. Until President Truman disclosed the secret of the bomb production yesterday.

AID FOR GIRLS

Washington, Aug. 12.—Bernard M. Baruch won't have to play Santa Claus to stranded government girls after the war.

The government has taken special precautions to see that the girls have at least the price of a railroad ticket when their jobs end.

In 1918, Baruch, financier and elder statesman, financed a trip home for hundreds of hapless stenographers and clerks who were moping about Union Station without even the price of a coach ticket.

A high Civil Service official said tonight that, for a long time, a corps of specialists has been preparing girls for peace, the end of their jobs, and the trip home.

Personnel consultants have singled out the misfits—the ones likely to blow their last paycheck in celebrations—and sent them home in advance. They also have done some long-range planning for post-V-J Day evacuations.

The official pointed out that War Bond campaigns also have helped. Even one bond may mean the difference between a stranded girl and one who will be able to pay her own way home, he said.

Dr. W. W. Garner, head of the Division of Tobacco Investigations in the USDA, has retired after 37 years of service.

HAVE YOU MADE A MISTAKE?

By installing an oil or coal burning curing system for the 1945 season that has not proved satisfactory?

There are several thousand new Super-Giant six and eight burner units, Florence-Mayo Curers in use during the 1945 curing season which have been highly satisfactory in every way.

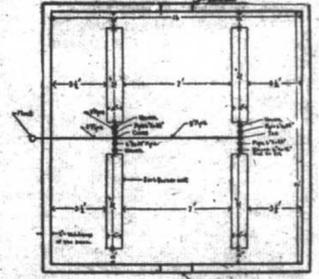

Cure Your Tobacco The Modern Way--

no furnace, no flues, no smoke stacks required when you use a FLORENCE-MAYO CURER. You save from 25 to 50 gallons of oil per barn when you use Florence-Mayo Curers instead of oil curers that require furnace, flues or stacks.

Tobacco cured with Florence-Mayo blue flame air conditioning units is from 5% to 10% heavier than tobacco cured with closed flame curing system using wood, oil, or coal as fuel.

There are over 10,000 Florence-Mayo Curers in use or 70,000 units using over 300,000 Florence Burners.

If your present curer is not satisfactory, send us your order at once and we will give it our prompt attention for an early delivery.
