WE SAY IT AGAIN

In our SPOTLIGHT of September, 1934, the year following the breaking of the backbone of DEPRESSION, and the operation of the tobacco marketing quotas for growers, we penned Building, Greenville, N. C., where a an editorial, "The Farmer Cannot group of trained men is available to 'Plant All He Durn Pleases' and Prosper," and we herewith take advantage of the opportunity provided by the pending referendum for tobacco quotas to say it again:

"The rapidity with which the first tobacco signup campaign was carried forward in this State to a successful conclusion was the most promising sign observed in farming sections by leaders for generations, and the same fine spirit of signing of the crop limitation contracts and the strict observance of these agreements was sufficient proof that the farmer has learned that he may 'plant all he durn pleases', but he may also expect low prices to obtain in such an event.

"The farmer views the future with something of screnity in his face, this year, for though he was forced to mortgage his home, after savings of a lifetime were exhausted, it has been saved, for the government has come to his relief with its farm credit program, and the grim spectre of foreclosure no longer stares at him.

"He realizes that improvement in price for the 1933 crop, due to the tobacco marketing quotas, will save him, he will pay his taxes, his store account, the wife and children will have some new additions to their depleted wardrobes, and he will have some cash with which to meet the long winter ahead, and he is sleeping again o' nights and whistling cheerfully as he figures his tobacco allotment card and cotton contract.

"The tobacco crop in 1933, the first year of the control quota program, in North Carolina brought $76,000,000 as compared with $32,000,000 the previous year, 1932."

A HARD SCHOOL BUT

Lest we forget the fateful year of 1939, when we let down the bars and decided to once again plant all the tobacco we could, and as a reminder to those who are inclined to be in-

- TOWN OF FARMVILLE, N. C.
 - Summary of Tentative Budget for Year 1946-47

different to the pending referendum, we point a warning finger to the statistical record of North Carolina's tobacco acreage and average from 1936 - 1939:

Year:	Acres ·	Average Ib.
1936	597,000	23.0
1937	684,000	24.0
1938	612,100	22.6
1939	851,100	15.3

If a farmer can make the same money on 10 acres of tobacco that he can on 15, why in the world will he consider planting the 15 acres? There is no logical answer to this question, but "he'll do it every time." Another point in favor of the smaller acreage is that the farmer, faced by a drastic labor shortage and exorbitant housing costs, stands . a better chance of housing the 10 acres anyway.

DEDICATED TO PEACE

The war to preserve our indep dence has always been waged as one with any war to safeguard liberty, anywhere. This Independence Day finds us dedicated to Peace and to sts heard only as a dim echo.

THE FOURTH IN FARMVILLE

The Fourth of July was observed The Fourth of July was observed here by the closing of the stores, but if there was any other observance we failed to see it. The day was dark and rainy and lent itself more to rest than fun making. The steady rain-fall made it impracticable to put out the sidewalk flags. Main street was described save for car of ye editors parked outside Printery. Holidays always fall, seems to us, on Wednesdays or redays (publication days) and so Fourth to us was just another by day we can count on ob-m Easter and we certainly ody changes that from Sun-
