On both occasions, Mr. Bundy used as his subject "Service Through Human Relationships."

GARDEN CLUB

An interesting talk on the history of flowers and herbs and their medicinal and food value was given by Mrs. J. I. Modgan at the Garden club Monday afternoon. The first cultivation of plants was for food. Some, such as the fox glove or digitalis, were first domesticated for medicinal properties. Digitalis is used in the treatment of heart diseases while saffron, another flower, is used for the itch.

Before anyone thought of planting sweet alyssum in his front yard, it was being used in treating mad dog bites. Mrs. Morgan told her listeners who also learned that violets and primroses were gathered by housewives in medieval Europe and cooked for "salet." Tubers such as dahlias were also served.

She concluded her talk by telling the origins of many of the plants seen today and by relating legends of flowers, white men, Indians and animals.

The president, Miss Tabitha DeVisconti, announced that the North Coastal Plains district meeting would be held November 4 in Rocky Mount. The program committee, Mrs. E. F. Gaynor and Mrs. Claude Tyson, distributed the program sheets for the coming year.

Mrs. A. J. Greene, hostess, was assisted in serving chicken, salad, pickles, crackers, olives, stuffed celery and iced tea by Mrs. W. M. Greene, who was welcomed into the club as a new member. A hostess tray on which were placed cookies, salted nuts and candies was passed. The flower arrangements of marigolds, crochets and cosmos were suggestive of the Halloween season as were the napkins.

BIRD CLUB NOTES

Tommy Bennett, a new member of the Bird club, read an article about the kittiwake at the meeting Saturday morning. Eighteen inches long, its head, neck, underparts and tail are pure white. The eyelids are red and the hind toe is absent.

One of the interesting characteristics which this bird has is pursuing its prey by hovering over the water and plunging head foremost into the sea with much dash and vigor. These gulls are often seen following whales, apparently to get fragments of fish rejected or dropped by them. Observers say they seem to know when the whale must rise to breathe.

Although it feeds mainly on fish, the kittiwake can eat other animal or refuse matter. For drinking this gull prefers salt water and is often observed sleeping peacefully on great ocean rollers, with its head tucked under wing—literally "rocked on the cradle of the deep."

A great wanderer and decidedly democratic in disposition, the kittiwake is often found in the company of other gulls and sea birds.

The nest is built on a rocky ledge overlooking water and is made of grass and seaweed.

BOOK AND BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Walter B. Jones was presented a surprise package of birthday gifts in honor of her birthday which fell on Saturday at the meeting of the Book and Bridge club in the home of Mrs. Frank E. Allen Friday afternoon. Refreshments of lemon pie, candies, nuts and coffee were served from the dining table as guests arrived.

Mrs. Irvin Morgan, Jr., scored high for the afternoon. Book awards were given to Mrs. H. S. Ryan who made highest score during the month and to Mrs. J. M. Newborn who scored second high. The books were "The American" by Howard Fast and "Silver Nutmeg" by Norah Crofts.

An arrangement of cosmos and white candles was used as a centerpiece on the dining table. Pyramidal berries and marigolds were used in the living room.

Special guests were Mrs. W. A. Allen, Mrs. George Moore, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Lee Smith.

TUESDAY EVENING BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. L. T. Pierce, Jr., was hostess to the Tuesday Evening Bridge club and had as guests Miss Martha Jefferson, Miss Ruth Spier, Miss Margaret Lee Duke and Mrs. Howard Harris.

Coca colas and mints were served during play.

High score prize was awarded to Mrs. W. T. Candler. High guest prize went to Miss Duke. Miss Mary Thorne Tyson received the consolation and Miss Jefferson, bride-elect, was remembered with a gift of crystal in her chosen pattern.

At the conclusion of the games a dessert course was served. Roses were used throughout the reception rooms.

MERRY MATRONS

Reviewing "The Christmas Story" by H. L. Mencken at the Merry Matrons, Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. J. M. Hobgood told of how the buns, who are the main characters, were invited to a Christmas dinner donated by a friend and at the conclusion of the dinner sang hymns and confessed their faith.

Mrs. L. E. Walston, hostess, carried out the Halloween motif in the refreshments of crystallized apple salad in pumpkins, crax, rind sandwiches, watermelon rind pickle, date bars and ice tea. Dahlias and chrysanthemums were used in the flower arrangements.

Mrs. E. R. Clegg, Mrs. E. S. Coates, Mrs. W. C. Holston, Mrs. Lang Davis and Miss Mamie Davis were guests.

BRIDAL COUPLE HONORED AT TWO PARTIES

Miss Edna Mills and John Erwin, whose marriage was solemnized yesterday, were honored at a party given by Mrs. J. D. Jones Monday evening at the Home Economics cottage in Bell Arthur. Dahlias and chrysanthemums were used in the decoration of the reception rooms.

Prizes were awarded to winners of contests and games.

Refreshments were served to approximately 40 guests.

Mrs. Grover Edwards, Mrs. Willie Taylor and Miss Martha Whitehurst entertained at the home of Mrs. Edwards in compliment to Miss Mills and Mr. Erwin Tuesday evening.

About 50 guests called between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock.

The bridal couple received a number of gifts of silver, china and crystal on both occasions.

ARMY NINTH AIR FORCE HAS ASSIGNMENTS OPEN

1st Lieut. George C. Blinbury, commanding officer of the Greenville sub-station of the United States Army and Air Force Recruiting Service, announces that there are a large number of open assignments with the Ninth Air Force at the Greenville Air Base, Greenville, S. C., Shaw Field, Sumter, S. C., and Langley Field, Va. These assignments call for many military occupational specialties, and they must be filled by former participants with those specialties.

Any Air Force veteran of World War II, who is interested in one of these initial assignments, should contact the recruiting sub-station or an Army and Air Force Recruiting Sergeant to ascertain if his military occupational specialty is among those listed as critically needed at these installations. If so, and he can qualify for enlistment, he will be initially assigned to duty at one of these three bases.

"WOMANLESS WEDDING"

Watch for date announcing the "Womanless Wedding" to be given at the Farmville High School under auspices of Order of the Eastern Star.
