Miss Mamie Davis Wins Many Hearts By Culinary Art

Did you ever have a teacher that let you eat at Christmases all the candy you could find room for? Probably not, but a number of boys and girls who attended the junior high school, in Palatka, Fla., during the time Miss Mamie E. Davis was math teacher did. That day when at least 75 or 80 pounds of homemade candy were consumed by the 100 to 150 students in the department and the annual picnic at the end of school were looked forward to by the students. "Miss Mamie" always whipped up enough chocolate cake for each child in school to have a slice at the picnic.

Her Farmville neighbors and close friends are the recipients each Christmas of a plate heaped with divinity and chocolate fudge, peanut brittle, fondant and crystallized fruits such as only "Miss Mamie" can make. Although she never put a label on her products, her cakes and candy both became so well-known that they sold on sight. While teaching in Palatka, her Sunday School class had to raise its share of money for a new church. The teacher, Miss Davis, made candy and the pupils had no trouble in disposing of it. To make ends meet during the depression, when sometimes her salary as a teacher amounted to only $20 a month, she made candy and sold it in the Pennsylvania mountains where she worked in the summer.

How long has she been cooking? "When I was four years old, I would take the stool to get to the pots and pans on the stove." Whenever her mother was away from home, she would make cakes, sometimes forgetting the baking powder which resulted in a tough product. Being the oldest child, it befell her lot to do the cooking when her mother was sick. As she continued cooking cakes, she found, that to be successful, she must have good ingredients and a good oven.

After she began her teaching career, she would see new dishes and when she went home, would fix them as she thought they were made.

Cooking to this talented woman is not much effort because she does it in a systematic way, assembling the ingredient and utensils before she starts the mixing. If it wasn't for washing dishes, "I could cook for Pharaoh's army," she explains with a laugh.

Having charge of a cold pantry (the ice cream, fruit juice, cakes, pies, milk and fruit) at the Hawthorne hotel and cottages in the Pocono mountains during vacations, she learned to recognize good food, how to properly care for and how to make numerous dishes. At the time she left the job, she had been promoted to food buyer.

One of her colored friends says she is "what I call a good cook because she does not use a cook book but has the recipes in her brain."

Cooking is only one of her talents. Her crocheting has yielded six table cloths and innumerable chair, vanity and dresser sets as well as odd pieces. Friends and neighbors along with relatives have been fortunate. She has never sold a piece. Her first bedspread is still unfinished, but she plans to complete it some day. She chose one of the most difficult stitches, popcorn, to make the bedspread.

Starting back when crocheted bands were fashionable on sailor hats and jabots were all the rage, she picked up crocheting and soon began to copy patterns. To her, it is recreation and used to provide diversion from the schoolroom.

Learning to knit was more difficult than acquiring the knack of crocheting. During the last World War, the Red Cross appealed for volunteers to make sweaters. After sitting up several nights very late and having such a struggle with the needles and thread, she took them back to the Red Cross room. The appeal for knitted apparel was so great that she determined to try once more. Finally, she reached her goal and turned out 16 sweaters, two of which were of the turtle neck style.

Another hobby, which she no longer plays, is basketball. For several years while in summer school at the Woman's university (now the University of Florida) in Tallahassee, she studied the different stitches while taking other courses. As assistant to the teachers, few years later, she worked with the 125 in the basketball class, one of the requirements of which was the completion of five pieces. Pins needles were plentiful and were more widely used than ruffs and roods. The lady in whose home Miss Davis boarded had a pine tree cut down and the class used every needle on it in making trays, vases, baskets and mats.

About three decades ago, granddy flowers were in vogue, so she learned to make them and sold many to a dress shop. In order to fill all

At The Rotary Club

Harold Allred, manager of the Paramount theater, entertained the Rotary club Tuesday evening by humorous free hand drawings of several members.

After drawing a picture of Paul Ewell as a baby, he commented to the club that something was wrong and then added the cigar. For the thin and fat man, he made a sketch of Manly Liles and turned the cardboard over to finish the picture. A back view of James Monk completed that part of the program. Frank Williams was shown with fish and Joe Raspberry was pictured with his fist tightly closed around money.

Others whose sketches were made were Dr. J. M. Mewborn, Dr. Charles Fitzgerald, George Davis and Elbert Moya.

J. D. Joyner won the attendance prize.

orders, it was often necessary for her to sit up until past midnight. Dressing dolls was a favorite pastime before the war, which cut off the supply of the ten-cent variety of dolls which were made in Japan. Using crepe paper, she turned them into brides and other types, which were sent all over the United States to adorn ladies' dressing tables or make their appearance as centerpieces.

After completing three years at the Woman's college (which was later changed to the Woman's university, a division of the University of Florida), she started her teaching career, spending all except two years of her quarter century of teaching in or near Palatka. One of those two years she was fifth grade teacher in Farmville during the early twenties. The other was spent at Cortes, Fla., on the gulf. She liked being near the water, but did not sleep well because of the roaring of the waves.

Palatka is a river city of about 15,000 which, before the southern parts of the state were opened, was a great tourist center. One of its main attractions, built to interest tourists by the P. W. A., is a ravine garden containing every known outdoor azalea. A season ticket entitles the owner to take as many friends as he wishes and visit it whenever he wishes. Nearby the ravine garden is the Azalea bowl, resembling a sunken garden, where big league baseball teams train in winter.

Some of the other interesting points that Miss Davis described were the furniture factory, which started out making only garden furniture and later built all kinds to sell to large northern stores; the largest cypress mill in the world, dismantled after the war since it had used most all the trees in the state; the kaolin works; the raising of asparagus fern for northern florists and growing narcissus and jonquil bulbs for foreign sale. Kaolin is a white chalky substance found in only one other place in Florida. Pottery and dishes, especially the heavy ones found in hotels and restaurants, are made from it. The holes left after the kaolin is dug soon become full of water as bluish-green as that in the ocean, although in one direction the ocean is 60 miles away and in the other, it is 30. Situated in the orange and truck garden section, Palatka is becoming known for amaryllis bulbs, grown in part of a former orange grove.

First called Piccolata, meaning cow/ford, the name of the city was later changed to Palatka. Once that city boasted of the largest hotel in the state. One year, while a Tennessee academy that had burned was being rebuilt, the hotel housed the cadets, along with the regular guests. After the building was condemned, wings of the wooden structure were used in constructing new hotels in other sections.

Farmville's weather pleases the former school teacher, a native of Melrose, Fla. Here she is able to feel and see the change of seasons.

Although she does not teach a class in Sunday School or serve as young people's adviser, as she did in Florida, she is active in Baptist church work and can always be counted on to help out with such activities as plays and suppers. In September she assumed the presidency of the Literary club. For several years she served the American Legion auxiliary in that capacity and is now its treasurer. When the membership drive for the P. T. A. is on, neighborhood children make sure that "Miss Mamie" is not missed; consequently, she holds two or three memberships each year in the organization.

JUNIORS PRESENT PROGRAM ON CONFEDERATE OFFICERS

Directed by Mrs. John B. Joyner, the Junior class will present a program on Stonewall Jackson, Robert E. Lee and Fontaine Maury Wednesday morning at 10:35 at the Farmville high school. Sponsoring the program is the Rebecca Winborne chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Parents and friends are invited to be present.

Dedication Committees Appointed By D. A. R.

Local Chapter Meets in Greenville; Contribution Made To National Project

Mrs. Travis E. Hooker, Miss Eunice McGee and Mrs. Vance Perkins were hostesses to the members of the Benjamin May chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Saturday afternoon at the Hooker home in Greenville.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Henrietta M. Williamson, who expressed her pleasure that Mrs. T. C. Turnage, regent, was present after a long absence. In the absence of Mrs. E. B. Beasley, Fountain, chaplain, Mrs. Turnage conducted the devotional and presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Ellen Lewis Carroll read a prayer given by chief of chaplains, Rear Admiral Thomas, of the U. S. Navy.

Leading the flag salute was Miss McGee. A rising vote of appreciation was given to Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti for a donation to the chapter and the group voted to make a contribution in her honor to the National Grove committee for the presentation of California redwood trees, a national D. A. R. objective.

In her report, Miss DeVisconti, registrar, stated that papers for Mrs. T. E. Joyner had been completed, that Mrs. Eric Copeland of Fountain had transferred to the General Davis chapter, Durham, and Mrs. Earl E. Forbes had come into the chapter from the Samuel Davies chapter of Bowling Green, Ky.

Appointed to the committee to secure a piano adequate for concert use were: Mrs. Haywood Smith, Mrs. M. V. Jones and Mrs. J. B. James. Mrs. Carroll reported the donation of box bushes by Mrs. E. R. Wooten of Falkland and Mrs. Turnage stated that Kenneth Sprunt of Orton plantation, Wilmington, had donated camellias in memory of Capt. Samuel Nash.

Mrs. T. E. Hooker, Mrs. E. B. Beasley, Mrs. P. M. Murphy, Mrs. S. T. White, Mrs. D. S. Morrill and Miss Huldah Smith were selected as the furnishings committee for the chapter house. April was designated as the month of dedication.

Relative to the dedication, the regent named Mrs. C. R. Townsend, Mrs. U. H. Cozart, Wilson and Mrs. C. H. Mazing to the grounds committee.

Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. W. C. Holston and Mrs. Jack Lewis were named a committee to secure members for the Children of the American Revolution.

Delegates to the state conference in Asheville were chosen. They are: Mrs. J. O. Pollard, Mrs. Hooker, Mrs. Sam T. White of Greenville, Mrs. James, Mrs. Forbes and Mrs. G. A. Rouse.

Miss Christine Smith presented a comprehensive survey of approved schools sponsored and supported by the national society.

Members and guests were invited to the dining room where the table was spread with a lace cloth and centered with a bowl of pink snapdragons flanked by pink tapers and flowers in harmonizing colors in an centerpiece.

Mrs. White served a beautifully molded salad from one end of the table and Mrs. James presided over the silver coffee service. Guests helped themselves to minced ham sandwiches, potato chips, orange cake, cheese wafers and cookies placed on the buffet.

Dan Von Holt, accompanied by Mrs. Karl V. Gilbert, both of the E. C. T. C. music department, sang two folk songs by John Jacob Niles, "I Wonder as I Wander," and "Hills of Home."

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Von Holt, Miss Janie Leyerly, Mrs. A. M. Moseley, Mrs. Owen M. Marshburn, Mrs. J. D. Messick, Mrs. W. W. Howell, Mrs. Hurlbert, Mrs. W. Smiley, Mrs. I. Willman, Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Leo Jenkins, all of Greenville, and Mrs. Frank Davis, Jr.

CHURCH WOMEN PLAN FOR DAY OF PRAYER

The Farmville Council of Church Women met at the home of Mrs. R. V. Fiser with Mrs. Howard Moya as co-hostess Monday afternoon.

The meeting opened with prayer by the chairman, Mrs. H. D. Johnson. It was announced that the World Day of Prayer would be held at the Presbyterian church on March 4. Members of the Christian church will direct plans for the program.

The following officers are to hold office for the coming year beginning in April: Mrs. Howard Moya, chairman; Mrs. R. C. Copenhaver, vice chairman; Mrs. R. D. Harris, secretary; Mrs. M. E. Pollard, treasurer; Mrs. J. E. Shearin, reporter.

Curtis Flanagan Heads Firemen For Second Consecutive Year

The Eastern Carolina Firemen's association, largest of its kind in the state, defied tradition Tuesday by re-electing Curtis Flanagan of Farmville as president. Heretofore, the custom has been for the association to limit its tenure of office to one year.

The meeting was held in Beaufort. Mr. Flanagan was asked to stay in office because he is in the midst of a campaign to get fire fighting apparatus for rural communities and his work along this line has been accorded state-wide recognition.

Yesterday morning, he left for Salisbury to attend a meeting of a five-man executive committee which is drafting legislation for presentation to the 1949 General Assembly.

Other members of the committee are Chief Burkett of Salisbury, chairman, Captain Gibson of Charlotte, Chief Brinkley of Fayetteville, and Chief Cox of Durham.

Farmville has another distinguished citizen whose ability has been recognized by the state firemen. He is Richard A. Joyner, a former president of the association and at present a member of the executive board.

Farm Bureau Asks County To Buy Fire Fighting Equipment

W. Alex Allen, president of the Pitt county Farm Bureau and a member of the Farmville Board of Commissioners, appeared before the Pitt county Board of Commissioners Monday morning and requested that fire fighting equipment be placed in the different towns in the county to be used in fighting rural fires. The suggested plan would be to provide trucks with larger tanks and keep them with town equipment until a call comes.

Fire Chief George Gardner of Greenville, at Mr. Allen's invitation, accompanied him to answer questions of the commissioners and furnish additional information. The board, of which Brown Hodges of Grifton is chairman, appointed a committee to further investigate the proposal.

Both the Farmville and Greenville town boards last week asked that the county purchase fire equipment for rural use.

HIGHWAY BEING WIDENED, HOUSES ARE MOVED

The widening of U. S. Highway 264 between Wilson and Farmville is progressing due to favorable weather conditions. This week the construction force is building a section near Toisnot swamp to do away with a curve and working on the road in that section of Wilson county.

A number of barns and several houses have been moved back from the highway recently in Pitt county in preparation for the widening.

CHRISTIAN LAYMEN MEET IN KINSTON

Laymen of the Christian church will meet in Gordon Street Christian church, Kinston, Sunday at 3 o'clock. All men of the Hookerton district are urged to be present. Dr. McKimsey, national secretary of men's work, will speak. He is a speaker of force and will bring a worthwhile message.

PREBYTERIAN JUNIORS

The Juniors met with their leader, Mrs. J. M. Stansil, Wednesday afternoon with six members present. The Lord's prayer was repeated and Clarence Bundy read I Samuel 13:14 and Acts 18:22. Ann Pollard told two stories.

After Clarence Bundy closed the program with prayer, pepsi colas, ritz, pickles, marshmallows and Graham crackers were served.

NEW Y. W. A. MEMBERS ENTERTAINED AT SUPPER

Monday evening at the Baptist church, the outgoing Young Women's auxiliary members entertained at a supper honoring the girls who were promoted from the Intermediate Girls auxiliary to the Y. W. A.

The menu was composed of baked ham, string beans, salad, pickles, bread, drinks and pecan pies. Miss Myrtle Nichols, retiring president of the Y. W. A., brought greetings with Mrs. E. W. Holmes responding. Mrs. Chester Outland, young people's director, gave the invocation. Pink gladol and fern centered each table.

After the supper, Mrs. Holmes, new adviser and her assistants, Mrs. Bernice Turnage and Mrs. R. P. Whelan, met with the girls. Ruthie Tyson, who was chosen president during the officers' election, had the devotional. Mrs. H. D. Johnson, retiring adviser, said a few words about the organization of the auxiliary. Meetings will be held the second Monday and the fourth Thursday.

Marryin' Parson

The Rev. Marjo Gortner, age 4, performed a regular marriage ceremony at Long Beach, Calif., and touched off a flurry of speculation as to the ethics of a marriage performed by a minor.

The curly-haired, bearded youngster, pictured above in the Old Time Faith, Inc., Los Angeles, and the son of a minister. He has preached since he was 3.

SPECIALISTS WILL TALK IN FARMVILLE

Henry M. Covington, extension division horticulturist from North Carolina State College, and Joe Gourlay, marketing specialist with the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, will be the principal speakers at a meeting of Pitt county sweet potato growers in Farmville Friday night.

Sam Winchester, county agent, said the meeting will be held at the high school auditorium at 7:30. Main topics to be discussed, Winchester said, are production and marketing of sweet potatoes.

PERSONAL ITEMS

Rev. and Mrs. W. I. Bennett and family moved last week to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Sutton spent the week end in Conetow with relatives.

Maynard Thorne, student at State college, spent the week end at his home.

Miss Fannie Murphy of Greene county visited Mrs. W. B. Carraway Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Ruffin spent the week end in Durham with Mr. Ruffin's sister, Mrs. Anderson.

Billy Gregory left last week to return to his job on the Madison, Ind., tobacco market after spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gregory.

Jaycees Make Plans For Ladies' Night

At their regular meeting Wednesday night, the Junior Chamber of Commerce decided to hold Ladies' night at the Country club.

The date will be decided upon soon. President Joe Joyner appointed Jack McDavid, Herbert Moore, and Chas. Townsend to investigate the possibilities of sponsoring a semi-pro basketball tournament here.

The Jaycees contributed $50 to the Jaycee War Memorial fund. Attendance prize was won by Herbert Moore.

Manager Wilkerson of the Pease Grove Dairy was the guest of John Turner Walston.

At The Kiwanis Club

New officers were installed Monday night. R. B. Tapp of Stantonburg, lieutenant-governor of the Seventh Division, was scheduled to have the honor of installing the new officers, but illness prevented him from being present and Sam Bundy, who as a former district governor has had the privilege of presiding over many such occasions, did the honors.

New officers are John Parker, president; Hubert Joyner, vice president; Carol Modlin, secretary, and George Allen, treasurer. Outgoing officers are Louis Williams, president; John Parker, vice president; Jim Hockaday, secretary, and Bernice Turnage, treasurer.

New members of the board of directors taking office for two years are Louis Allen, Carl Hicks, Henry Johnson and Billy Smith. Other directors are Charles Edwards, Earl Holmes, Jake Fields and Seth Barrow.

The following committee appointments were announced by President Parker:

Boys and girls work—Sam Lewis, Bill Creekmur, Lane Roberts.

Key clubs—Louis Williams, Ted Abritton, John Jones.

Underprivileged children—Chas. Quinerly, Frank Harris, Henry Johnson.

Agriculture and conservation—Jack Lewis, Ben Lewis, Jake Fields.

Public and business affairs—Ernest Petteway, Rod Harris, Billy Smith.

Support of churches—Thad Cox, Alton Bobbitt.

Achievement reports—Carol Modlin, John Parker.

Attendance and membership—Bernice Turnage, Jim Joyner, Lewis Allen.

Finance, laws and regulations—George Allen, Ferd Satterthwaite, Grady Gilchrist.

House and reception—Alex Allen, Howard Moya, Charlie Edwards.

Inter-club relations—Frank Allen, Rod Williams, Seth Barrow.

Kiwanis education and fellowship—Sam Bundy, Jim Hockaday and Carl Hicks.

Program and music—Hubert Joyner, Edgar Barrett, Glasgow Smith.

Farmville Wins Two More Games From Belvoir

(By Charles W. Joyner)

The Red Devils of Farmville high school continued their winning ways here Tuesday night by trouncing Belvoir, 56-17. Carl King led the locals in their eighth victory of the season against one defeat. Carl scored 15 points. Leggett with six was high for the losers.

The game was never close after Leggett connected on a one-hander for Belvoir. Farmville led at half-time, 23-11.

The locals bucked down to more serious conference play on Tuesday night of next week when they meet the Ayden eagles. On Friday night of next week Farmville will be host to the strong Bethel five, who hold the state class B championship.

Scoring: Farmville—King, 9; Russell, 4; Dupree, 4; Albritton, 3; Barrett, 4; Morris, 10; Windham, 3; Cannon, 8; Allen, 5; Tyson, Smith. Belvoir—Forest, 4; Barhill, 5; Leggett, 6; Morris, 2.

The Farmville high school girls bounced back into the win column by defeating Belvoir, 28-9. The visiting sextet never headed the locals in a contest quite liberal with free throws.

Minutes after the game had gotten underway, Rae Hathaway dropped in field goal. Seconds later the fast center added a free throw. Then the Farmville forwards began to connect and by half-time had built up an advantage of 15-4.

The second half progressed with the same regularity as the first and Farmville won easily.

Scoring: Farmville—R. Hathaway, 10; D. Hathaway, 10; J. Morgan, 6; J. Satterthwaite, 2—Total 28. Belvoir—Brown, 5; Dupree, 2; M. Pollard, 1; Pollard, 3—Total 11.

WALSTONBURG MEN'S CLUB HAS REGULAR MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Walstonburg Community Men's Club was held Tuesday night in the Walstonburg cafe.

Harold Bailey, presiding as newly-elected president, disclosed the members who are to serve on the various committees during the year. Sam Chandler, Earl Lang, Henry Burch and D. D. Fields were appointed as directors.

A lengthy discussion was held in regard to awarding prizes to the best students in the home economics and Future Farmer of America classes who have the most outstanding record of accomplishment in the Walstonburg high school during the 1948-49 school year.

JOINT MEETING

The literary club, scheduled for Wednesday, has been postponed until January 25 when its members and those of the Merry Matrons will meet at the home of Mrs. J. W. Parker to hear a musical program given by Mrs. E. B. Turnage and Mrs. J. W. Joyner.

Activities Of Local Church Organizations

Methodist

Circle 4 of the Methodist church had its first meeting of the new year with Mrs. Nonie Barrett as hostess Monday afternoon. Mrs. E. C. Carr, presiding at her first meeting, spoke briefly on unity and cooperation.

Mrs. J. Frank Harper took her devotional from "The Upper Room," concluding with prayer.

"Everyday Living" was the subject of Mrs. Pearl Johnston's talk.

The circle welcomed as a new member, Mrs. Fred Thomas.

Assisted by her daughter, Mrs. T. E. Joyner, the hostess served refreshments. Gladoli and carnations were in arrangements in the Joyner home.

Annies Perkins Circle

Mrs. J. W. Batchelor, new circle leader, and Mrs. A. J. Melton were hostesses to the Annie Perkins circle Monday night in the Batchelor home. After Mrs. Batchelor read from Peter and Romans, Mrs. R. P. Whelan and Miss Elvira Tyson gave the program.

The election of officers was completed with Mrs. Robert Joyner being again chosen as sponsor; Miss Myrtle Nichols, secretary; Mrs. C. L. Langley, co-chairman; Mrs. R. P. Whelan, program chairman; Mrs. R. E. Britt, publicity; Mrs. E. L. Jones, literature; Mrs. B. B. Turnage, mission study chairman; Mrs. Maynard Thorne, community missions; Mrs. Robert Fields, pianist; Mrs. A. B. Tyson, stewardess.

Refreshment were lemon chiffon pie, nuts and coffee. Five members of the Young Women's auxiliary were welcomed into the group.
