Youth Fatally Injured In Tragic Highway Accident Near Farmville

Willie Thomas Eason, Jr., 19, member of a prominent family of this section, succumbed Thursday morning at 2:15 to injuries sustained Tuesday afternoon when the car he was driving smashed into a truck between Farmville and Lizzie.

Eason's car and another, driven by Harry Albritton of Lizzie, were being driven side by side on the highway, with Eason's on the left hand side, when the vehicles met a truck driven by David Dixon, Negro. Eason's car crashed into the truck. His car caught fire but the young man was pulled from the wreckage before flames reached him. Little hope was held for him from the time he was rushed to Pitt General hospital in Greenville immediately after the accident.

Eason's car was totally demolished and was said by many to be "torn up worse than any wreck I ever saw."

Eason, a young man of good habits, was a graduate of Maury high school and had attended the University of North Carolina. He was living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Eason, and was engaged in farming.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of his parents near Lizzie. Services will be conducted by Rev. J. D. Young, Methodist minister of Snow Hill, assisted by the Rev. Z. B. T. Cox, Christian minister of Farmville.

Interment will be made in the family cemetery near the home.

In addition to his parents, the young man is survived by one sister, Lula Lee Eason of Snow Hill and Greenville; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Lula Eason of the home; and his maternal grandfather, Gardner Jones of Snow Hill. Several uncles and aunts also survive.

Farmville Faculty Now Numbers 30

Sam D. Bundy, superintendent of the Farmville school, states that several changes have been made in the faculty since Christmas.

Mrs. Rose Graham Johnson, commercial teacher, and Mrs. Myra Tucker, science teacher, resigned effective at the Christmas holidays. Miss Beatrice Player of Conway, S. C., and a graduate of East Carolina Teachers college, was secured to serve as commercial teacher. Miss Player is living with Mrs. G. M. Holden. Mrs. Sam Bundy substituted in the science department for three weeks after the holidays and then Darwin McCaffity of Edwards, a graduate of Atlantic Christian college, assumed the duties as science teacher. Mr. McCaffity is residing at the home of Mrs. C. L. Beaman.

Mr. Bundy also stated that at the present time three practice teachers are in the school. Miss Harriet Hooker, a student at ECTC, is living with Mrs. Holden and is doing practice teaching in home economics under the supervision of Miss Ruth Parker. Richard Ricks and C. C. Lee, who also attend ECTC, are doing practice teaching in physical education and health under the supervision of Elbert Moye. They commute from Greenville each day.

Not including the three practice teachers, the staff of the school now stands at 30.

COMMUNITY CONCERT TICKETS ON SALE

Plans calling for 16 concerts in Wilson, Henderson, Kinston and Goldsboro next fall and winter were mapped at a banquet given by the Wilson Community Concert association Monday night. Mrs. Charles E. Fitzgerald attended and was named Farmville's representative.

The aim of the national concert association, of which the Wilson and the other groups are members, is to bring Carnegie Hall artists to the smaller communities. The Columbus Boys Choir and the Revelers proved so popular with members of the Wilson association during the past two seasons that a request has been made that they again appear on the program. Among other entertainers, from whom the list for the four associations is made up, are Lily Pons and Nelson Eddy.

Adult season tickets are priced at $6 and children's tickets are $3. Admission is by membership card only. The drive for memberships in Farmville will end at noon Saturday and Mrs. Fitzgerald has asked that all who are interested contact her.

Mona Paulie will give a concert at the Charles L. Coon high school, Wilson, March 7. Holders of next season's tickets will be admitted free of charge to the performance.

NOTICE

This is to notify the public in general that I have sold my interest in the Farmville Sea Food Market to Elmer Hinson and that I am no longer connected with the operation of the market.

At The Kiwanis Club

Jim Joyner had charge of the program at the Kiwanis club Monday night and presented Howard, the Magician, who entertained for half an hour. Howard, who is affiliated with the Salvation Army in Greenville, delved into the mysteries of magic and sleight of hand. Frank Allen was his capable assistant.

Lt. Gov. Ralph Tapp of Stantonsburg gave a brief talk and presented Louis Williams with a certificate honoring him for his work as past president of the club.

John Arthur Collins of Greenville was the guest of Hubert Joyner. W. C. Murray of Washington, D. C., was the guest of Jim Joyner. Newton C. Maenhot and his son, Harold, were guests of Louis Williams.

Bobby Brock and Jack Turnage, junior Kiwanians for the month, were also guests of the club.

School Band Develops Rapidly; To Appear In Raleigh Parade

Organized in September, the Farmville high school band is rapidly developing into a polished outfit. The band gave a concert 7 weeks after practices were started and just before Christmas the band paraded through the business section of town, "drumming up" support for the drive to purchase uniforms.

The uniforms arrived a few days ago and the band made its first full dress appearance Wednesday night at the gymnasium in a program which featured basketball games between the Kiwanians and Rotarians, and another game between the Jaycees and the G.I.'s. The band will play Friday and Saturday night of next week at the Pitt county basketball tournament in Greenville.

On Friday, March 11, the band will give a full length concert in the high school auditorium.

About two weeks ago 20 members of the band participated in a band clinic at East Carolina Teachers college, Greenville, and several of the local bandmen played in a concert presented by band members from all over eastern North Carolina.

The band has accepted an invitation, presented by Frank I. Watson, potentate of the Sudan Temple of the Shrine, to participate in the Shrine parade to be held in Raleigh on Thursday, May 19.

Principal Sam D. Bundy states the school is grateful for the cooperation of the individuals, clubs and all who have generously supported the band.

The 60 boys and girls in the band have worked hard and have shown an unusual amount of interest. N. C. Maenhot, the band director, has been diligent in his efforts to produce a band here. Much of the success of the band can be attributed to the time, talent and efforts he has expended.

All in all, the organization and development of the band have been a splendid example of cooperation on the part of the townspeople, the pupils and the faculty.

1949 CARPET OPENING TO BE NATION-WIDE

As during as Barnum was in show business, even the master of the razzle-dazzle never dreamed of seeing his show presented all across the country at one and the same time.

That's what's going to happen March 1-10, when the carpet industry, through their retailers, raises the curtain on the first annual consumer Carpet Fashion Opening. The new 1949 "models" in wool carpets and rugs will be shown to the public for the first time in stores across the country exactly as they were shown to buyers at the winter market previews held for the trade only.

Every year carpet manufacturers introduce exciting, dramatic new textures, weaves, designs, patterns and colors in floor coverings which follow the latest trends in design for good contemporary living arrangements for the home.

Bob Graham, representing the Motor Vehicle Department, will be at the Farmville Furniture company next Tuesday, displaying the 1949 line.

During the social hour, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. G. S. Nichols, served sandwiches, iced cakes and lemonade.

Greene County Adds Car of Corn To Relief Train

With the various churches of the county acting as collecting agencies, Greene county donated one carload of corn to the State Friendship Train, which several weeks ago started in western counties and rolled eastward across the state, gathering up food and grain contributed by persons in rural sections. The cars were taken to Norfolk, Va., and then transported at government expense to war-torn countries abroad. The overall program was under the direction of the North Carolina Council of Churches and was known as the Christian Rural Overseas Program, or CROP.

Pitt county failed to perfect its organization in time to participate in this particular project, although the county has given generously to other relief campaigns.

CROP headquarters in Durham reports that 1,440,907 pounds were collected and 47 carloads have been shipped. At least five more carloads will be shipped, making a total of 52 carloads of food sent from North Carolina farmfolk in this one drive alone.

During the Christmas season 1500 carloads went out from 24 states. At least 500 more will be sent.

In terms of cold figures this is what North Carolina and the nation have accomplished through CROP. The meaning, however, of this national gift to our neighbors overseas is inestimable. It will mean health and gain to children dying of tuberculosis. To displaced persons, wandering across Europe, homeless, without food, and without hope, it will mean a warm bowl of soup, a nourishing bun, and cheer in a cheerless world. To thousands dragging themselves from task to task by sheer effort of will, it will mean the restoration of life's energies. In millions who participate in the giving and in the receiving across the world, the spirit of brotherhood will be quickened anew. Through the love and the humanitarian concern expressed in this gift many will be brought to exclaim, "God has not forsaken us!"

D. A. R. CHAPTER HOUSE HAS MORE MEMORIAL GIFTS

Augmenting the memorial portions of the structure and furnishings for the D. A. R. chapter house are two handsome gifts received by the Major Benjamin May chapter during February.

Mrs. John Oliver Pollard presented an imported chandelier, prismatic in its exquisite rainbow hues, to be commemorative of the pioneer mothers whose spiritual light gave integrity and beauty to their characters; who made homes in the wilderness and produced leaders guided by that "kindly light" that leads to eternity. This chandelier has been placed in the center of the spacious drawing room.

Mrs. Harry Keel of Winston-Salem contributed a beautifully designed antique corner cupboard enhanced in its beauty by the satiny patina of age and fitting perfectly in the banquet room, the walls of which are paneled with North Carolina knotty pine, which, during the years, has taken on an exquisite honey color. This gift will memorialize Mrs. Keel's father, the late Frank Griswold Hall of New York City.

GREENE COUNTY FARM NEWS

Joe Arthur of R-3, Snow Hill, is putting in 1400 feet of six inch tile in a tobacco field. Mr. Arthur says this is some of the best land he has for tobacco, but in wet years it will flop from too much water. By using the tile, he hopes to drain the land so it will be good for tobacco.

Thirty tons of A. N. L. nitrogen topdressing have been available to Greene county farmers to demonstrate the value of using ample topdressing with other good corn production practices. This material will be handled through a county merchant and will be distributed through the County Agent's office on a one-acre basis to farmers who will cooperate.

A Soil Conservation Speaking Contest will be sponsored by the North Carolina Bankers Association. High school students between the 9th and 12th grades may enter. Each contestant must write a speech on the subject "Proper Land Use and Treatment—Its Effect upon the Economy of North Carolina."

To familiarize high school students with soil conservation practices, a tour is being conducted Feb. 25 when soil conservation practices will be observed and discussed in the field.

Approximately 35 speeches were written by Greene county students last year on a similar soil conservation subject.

BERNICE TURNAGE ATTENDS DEALER TRAINING SCHOOL

Bernice B. Turnage of the Turnage company leaves tomorrow for Chicago to attend a two-weeks sales and management course conducted by the International Harvester company for its dealer organization. Mrs. Turnage is accompanying her husband. They will travel by car and will be away two weeks.

As a member of a class of 50 Harvester dealers from all sections of the United States, Mr. Turnage will have many opportunities during the two weeks for open forum discussions and an exchange of views on problems pertinent to dealership operations.

The course at the training school is designed to give the dealer a broader understanding of the changes taking place today in the farm equipment, motor truck and refrigeration fields and thus enable him to better serve the needs of his customers and community.

The two-weeks school is classified into four areas of instruction—orientation, personal development, human relations, and sales and management. The orientation area gives him a brief historic review of the Harvester company, its organization, its policies, and plans for the future. In the personal development area, subjects are pointed toward self-improvement and development.

In the sales and management areas, detailed work is done in all the various phases of sales and management. In lectures, classroom work, open discussions, problems pertaining to all aspects of dealership operation are gone into thoroughly.

The human relations area points the way to true leadership through advanced knowledge of human behavior—how men act and why. It gives a thorough understanding of human nature and a common sense approach to man-to-man relations.

The school is staffed entirely by Harvester personnel working under the guidance of adult education and industrial training authorities from the University of Chicago.

Under terms of a contract between Harvester company and the University of Chicago, the entire facilities of the University are placed at the disposal of the training school to use in developing courses, training instructors and devising methods of teaching and evaluating results. In return the University avails itself of the company's education and training set up as a vast laboratory of adult education.

CORRECTION

In its February 11 issue, The Enterprise inadvertently gave the impression, in a story about the new Methodist church at Meary, that the building had been donated by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Prizella. The statement was not fair to the many other good people who worked to make the building possible and full credit should be given to all members of the church.

Local Merchants Plan Special Dollar Day Sales For March 3, 4, 5

At The Rotary Club

The program at the regular meeting of Farmville Rotary club Tuesday evening was in charge of Elbert Moye, athletic coach of the Farmville school, who spoke briefly on the athletic program of the school the coming year, as well as bringing to the attention of those present the success of events up to the present.

R. L. "Dick" West of Fountain was welcomed as a new member.

Upon recommendation of the Board of Directors, it was unanimously decided to hold the March 1st meeting at the Community House in Bell Arthur.

The attendance prize, given by Frank Williams, was won by Madly Liles.

Eastern Basketball Semi-Finals Will Be Run-off In Local Gym

Four of the best Class B high school basketball teams in the north-eastern section of North Carolina will compete tonight and tomorrow night in a tournament, to be held in the Farmville gymnasium, that will determine which team shall represent the district in the eastern Carolina finals.

At 7:30 tonight, Bethel, defending champions, will meet Colerain in the first game of a double-header. At 9 o'clock, Jamesville plays Vanceboro. Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, the winners will meet in the title game.

While previous performances mean little or nothing when evenly-matched teams meet, Jamesville and Bethel are given the edge over their respective opponents.

A titular battle between Bethel and Jamesville would be a thriller. The teams met four times in 1948 and 1949. Bethel won all the games. Two of them were one-point victories. The third was won by two points. The fourth was an over-time contest and finally ended with two point victory for Bethel.

Farmville was selected as the site of the play-offs because of the size of the gymnasium and the facilities offered by the school. Selection of Farmville was made by L. J. Perry of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association.

If the tournament is well attended and proves to be a financial success, other tournaments may be brought to Farmville.

These state play-offs are the last games to be played in the Farmville gymnasium this year.

Except for a small rental fee the school will receive for use of the gymnasium, all proceeds will go to the NCHSAA, with Mr. Perry in charge. The Farmville Junior Chamber of Commerce will have charge of the concessions.

Farmville merchants, cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, are staging Dollar Day Sales next week, Thursday through Saturday, in an attempt to bolster Farmville as a town of bargains and to bolster its reputation as a good shopping center.

Several of these events have been staged in the past and merchants are hoping to make this the best one yet. Advertising matter will be gotten out early in the week and The Enterprise will carry a list of the fine bargains that are available here.

Too many Farmville people, and those who live in neighboring communities, have been elsewhere for shopping. Local merchants have just as good stock and prices as larger towns and the merchants are anxious to prove it.

MONK'S MEMORIAL CHURCH TO BE ORGANIZED SUNDAY

Dr. A. J. Hobbs, superintendent of the Rocky Mount district, has called a special conference of the Farmville church to be held Sunday night, Feb. 27, at 7:30 for the purpose of organizing the new Langa church, which will be named Monk's Memorial Church.

The meeting will be held at the new church.

At Sunday night's meeting, members having already united with the church will be recognized and an invitation will be given for those wishing to be come members, and these will be the charter members of the church.

The church is an outgrowth of the Sunday School which began meeting in the Home Demonstration building in the fall of 1944. It is largely due to the contributions of the late A. C. Monk that the building of the church has been made possible.

Located 2 1/2 miles from Farmville on the Fountain highway, the church should prove beneficial to the people in that section, for there is no other church in the immediate community.

Rev. H. L. Davis, local Methodist minister, is pastor.
