

TELEPHONE OFFICE GETS MANY CALLS DAILY ABOUT NUMBERS OF SUBSCRIBERS

Surprising is the information from the local telephone office that they receive scores of calls almost daily from local subscribers, requesting numbers. The Greenville office maintains an information operator, whose duty is to give callers numbers which are not in the book, which have been changed or added.

Many of the people who call the local office request numbers of families or firms which have been in Farmville for years. There are a few people, such as the man who said he had not thought about looking in his book, who do not bother to consult the directory, but simply call the local office.

Because the local office, set up primarily for collecting bills and receiving reports of telephones which need servicing, does not maintain a file of names, it refers many of the callers to the information operator in Greenville.
