An offering amounting to $47.30 was received.

Activities Of Local Church Organizations

Baptist

"Dedicating our treasures to God" was the subject of the devotional given by Mrs. Manly Liles at the Eva Taylor circle on Monday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Liles emphasized that not only our material possessions should be dedicated to God but that our various talents were precious treasures also, and when dedicated to the glory of our Father sometimes do more good than money.

Mrs. B. E. Turnage brought the devotional period to a close with a beautiful and very expressive vocal solo, "All on the Altar for Thee, Dear Jesus."

Mrs. A. B. Moore, program chairman for the afternoon, gave out small booklets containing information about the history and activities of the "Baptist World Alliance." Each member present read the information in her booklet as her contribution to the program. The primary aim of the Baptist World Alliance is to evangelize the world for Christ through healing the sick, providing for the needy and preaching the Gospel. The program was brought to a close with a prayer by the leader.

At the close of the meeting, the hostess, Mrs. E. C. Holmes, invited the guests into the dining room for refreshments. Mrs. Turnage, seated at one end of the table, served individual cherry pies and Mrs. L. W. Andrews poured coffee. Guests helped themselves to cheese biscuits, cut in hatchet shapes, and to salted nuts. Mrs. Dalton Corbett was welcomed as a new member.

Christian

Mrs. Z. B. T. Cox used the sixth lesson in "The Life of Paul" as her devotional for Group 3 of the Christian Woman's council Monday night. Mrs. Arch Flanagan, chairman, reported on the executive meeting and made plans for being hostesses at the council Monday evening.

For the program, Mrs. Ernest Russell used "Hidden Answers" from the "World Call."

Sandwiches, pickles, cheese straws, brownies and coca colas were served to the 14 members present in the home of Mrs. Henrietta M. Williamson, who was co-hostess with Mrs. Frank Davis, Jr.

Episcopal

The Women's auxiliary met Monday with Mrs. John D. Dixon, the chaplain, who led the devotional program, the theme of which was "Fishers of Men," with scripture reading from St. Luke's gospel.

Mrs. G. Alex Rouse, president, presided and appointed hospitality and church care chairmen for the month of March. The United Thank offering and Thompson orphanage package to be sent during March were discussed, together with the Lenten project, supplies for Good Shepherd hospital, Negro institution at New Bern.

The Sunday School rooms project was discussed at length and the talent money plan was inaugurated with a goal of $50 to be raised during Lent. Plans were also laid for a meeting with the Executive board and the officers of the Sunday School, together with the division of the auxiliary into circles to act as grandmothers for the teachers.

The Diocesan appointment of $40 was accepted. Minutes outlining the program and endeavoring in the fields of service during 1950 were read.

At The Kiwanis Club

Stuart Carr, chairman of the board of trustees of Pitt's new $1,400,000 hospital that will be opened on or about July 1, told the Kiwanis club Monday night about the institution that will be second to none in Eastern North Carolina and for which citizens of the county two years ago approved a bond issue for its construction. The Federal Government is paying for a third of the hospital, the state is paying less than 30 percent and the balance is being paid by the county.

A nurses' school will be operated in connection with the hospital and construction will start about April 1 on a nurses' home.

The 120-bed hospital will be served by two resident physicians, the only two to be employed by the board, and no one will be accepted, except in an emergency, unless the patient's doctor sends him.

The statement that no medical consultants would be employed led to a long discussion in which Dr. Paul Jones, leading Pitt dentist and a member of the State Senate, stated that he was surprised and disappointed that the hospital would have no specialists.

Carr stated several times that the board was not doing anything to compete with doctors of the county.

Carr was introduced by Alex Allen, a member of the board. He also had as his guests Jesse Moye of Greenville, whose family donated the 17-acre site on which the hospital is located, Dr. Jones, Dr. Charles E. Fitzgerald and Mayor Walter Jones. Two members of the Key club were present, Louis Williams and Jackie Willford.

haver and Mrs. C. Hubert Joyner read excerpts from "Tell Me about the Women's Auxiliary" and "A Message to the Women of the Church," given by the triennial president in the recent triennial meeting held in San Francisco.

The weekly Lenten program will be held next Monday with Mrs. Copenhaver as hostess and Mrs. Frank A. Williams as program leader.

Methodist

"Obstacles in Prayer" was the subject of a talk by Mrs. L. P. Thomas Monday night at the meeting of Circle 3 of the Methodist church. This topic is a part of the study of "Faith in Prayer."

Mrs. Helen Horton was hostess. Assisted by Mrs. John E. King and Miss Bettie Joyner, a visitor, the hostess served green and white ice cream, cakes with St. Patrick's motif, cheese shampoos, mints, nuts and coffee, after the business session. Only three members were absent.

Baptist

The George W. Truett circle met Monday at 8:30 with Mrs. W. D. Fields. The chairman, Mrs. C. M. Paylor, called the meeting to order, after which the devotional was given, being taken from Acts 13 and 14 and Isaiah 49. The development of foreign missions in the Far East along the Mediterranean Sea and their spread to the west were traced.

After prayer, Mrs. J. R. Shearin gave the first half of the home missions book entitled, "The Prophet of Little Cane Creek" by Harold E. Dye. Her descriptive picture impressed upon her hearers this story of the mountain people of Kentucky. She not only developed their religious life, but also described their homes, food, customs and geographical surroundings. In this area are found strong and consecrated beings living simple and devoted lives for Christianity and its cause. The missionaries learn to love these simple people.

After the program was completed, visitors were welcomed, assignment of the next program made and community missions work was reported. An announcement was made regarding the World Day of Prayer and members were urged to attend. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. E. W. Holmes.

The hostess served angel food cake, topped with strawberries and whipped cream, nuts and coffee.

Free Will Baptist

The Ladies auxiliary of the Marlboro Free Will Baptist church met Wednesday night with Mrs. J. C. Brock at Marlboro with the president, Mrs. Claude Joyner, presiding.

The program topic, "Advancing through Christ with Literature" was given by Mrs. Will Baldree. Mrs. Johnnie Murphy, Mrs. G. A. Westbrook and Mrs. Clyde Brooks.

Twenty members and a visitor, Mrs. Rube Joyner, were served sandwiches, iced tea, and coffee.

SPEAKS IN SNOW HILL

Miss Edna Boone, rural worker for the Walstonburg charge of the Methodist church, spoke at the Snow Hill M.F.W. Sunday night on "Christ in the World." As an introduction to the study of "Christ in the World," she spoke Tuesday afternoon to one of the circles in the charge.

Wife Of Methodist Pastor Is Town's Sunshine Woman

Despite five operations in four years and months of staying in bed with casts on her leg, Mrs. H. L. Davis is Farmville's sunshine lady. She spreads cheer to all who visit her. "My philosophy of life is to take what you have and make the best of it" and that is exactly what she has done time after time.

In September, 1946, she fell, injuring her knee. Thinking the injured cartilage would heal, the doctor had her wear a cast. After no improvement, she underwent an operation in November for the removal of injured cartilage. Still unable to walk, another operation of the same type was prescribed. This one took place in April, 1948. A white spot showing on the x-ray was diagnosed as a tumor on the bone. Until after the operation several weeks later, Mrs. Davis did not know that it was not malignant. She was not worried. After the operation in January, 1949, she rejoiced that she still had the leg. Each operation would be successful and she could walk afterwards, the doctors thought. Each time the leg continued to pain her when she took a few steps. The next operation, in February, 1949, was for the removal of an inner layer of cartilage and the knee cap which was warped. In October of that year the bones were fused together. When the cast is removed, she will be able to walk, unless there are unforeseen difficulties.

A person with less courage would have given up hope. Her case was unlike those medical cases she encountered and the doctors were puzzled, especially when, one time, she limped into the hospital, with a more pronounced limp in the normal leg. The Davises moved into the local Methodist parsonage from Littleton in November, 1948. "Farmville has never let us feel like strangers," she says. The people have visited her, brought flowers and food and sent cards. At Christmastime the Davises received 15 cakes and enough cards to fill one wall, in addition to other gifts. "Often people's visits are like opening a barrel of sunshine. Everybody brings something different. Some come in and laugh and others don't, but you need both."

When she is able to walk, she plans to visit all the sick frequently. In a small way, she has already begun visiting, but by telephone instead of in person. Since she is often alone, a bedside telephone, installed after Thanksgiving, has given her much pleasure.

Flowers are one of her loves. When she returned from the hospital one Nov., she found sprigs of first breath of spring on her dresser, along with numerous potted plants. It was like the door to spring being opened, she recalls. Another time an orchestra of birds greeted her on her return. She has a number of growing plants at her bedside the year around.

The former Swindell Johnson, she was the eighth of nine children who grew up in Burgaw. She attended WCUNC for two years before her marriage to Mr. Davis, who was one of her high school teachers. The Davises lived in Trenton after their marriage and were later transferred to Newport. When Mr. Davis worked on Duke, Mrs. Davis completed her studies and also received a degree. After leaving Durham they were sent to Wilmington, Pittsboro, Richlands and Littleton, where they spent 9 years.

There are three children in the Davis family — seven-year-old Jean, Graham, a student at Peabody; and Harvey, Jr., who is in the Air Corps and is on his way to Hawaii.

Like Job, Mrs. Davis has borne her pain without murmur and can say with him, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in Him."

INTERMEDIATE G. A.

The Intermediate Girls auxiliary of the Baptist church met Friday in the home of Mrs. R. K. Britt with Grace Miller presiding.

Shirley led the closing prayer.

Legion Has Option On Dixon Home

At its meeting tonight in the high school lunchroom, members of the Farmville post of the American Legion will decide whether to exercise, or drop, an option to purchase the John D. Dixon home on East Church street, and convert it into a home for the Post and the auxiliary.

The 90-day option to acquire the Dixon home for about $19,000 was obtained by the Legion's building committee, of which Charles S. Edwards is chairman, and came after the bogging down of proposals to pool resources with the Masonic Lodge and construct on Grimmerburg street a structure that could be used jointly by the two organizations and their sister affiliates, the Eastern Star and auxiliary.

Ownership of a Legion home has been the dream and aim of local veterans who for several years have been accumulating funds and working toward their goal. One of the richest sources of revenue has been the Pitt county fair, which in 1949 paid the local post $7 for each member on the roll. The fair is conducted jointly by the Farmville, Ayden and Greenville posts, with the profits divided according to the number of members in each post.

Serving on the building committee with Edwards are L. P. Yelverton, Dr. Paul Jones, Dr. Frank Harris, J. W. Joyner, Bill Creekmur, Joe Joyner, Ben Hardison, LeRoy Rollins and Charles Raspberry.

Because of the importance of tonight's meeting, it is requested that a full membership be in attendance.

Final Rites For Roland Parker Held Tuesday

Final rites for Roland B. Parker, a brilliant man who had established an enviable reputation as an educator and leader of young people, were conducted Tuesday morning from the Farmville Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. E. S. Coates, and Rev. Wade A. Allison of Wilmington. Mr. Parker was found dead in an El Paso, Texas, hotel last Wednesday morning. Death was attributed to a heart attack. He was 48 years old and had apparently been in good health.

At the time of his death, he was connected with the educational division of the War department working out of Fort Bliss, Texas.

At the services in the church, Rev. Coates read Psalms 23 and 27 and offered prayer. A choir composed of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Holmes, Mrs. R. O. Lang, Jr., Mrs. A. W. Bobbitt and Arthur Joyner, Jr., sang "How Firm a Foundation" and "In the Cross of Christ I Glory." Mrs. Arthur Joyner, organist, played "Angel's Serenade" and Brahms "Lullaby" before the service and Handel's "Largo" as the body was brought into the church.

In his eulogy, Mr. Allison, a classmate of Parker at Davidson college, paid tribute to Mr. Parker as a man of intellectual and moral integrity. He pointed out the worthwhileness of his daily Christian life. The minister noted that Mr. Parker had considered the call to the ministry. "Being honest with himself, he couldn't bring himself to see this was God's purpose with him in life. Possibly it would have been an easier choice than he made. He responded for God a larger number than many ministers do." He opened the tribute with scripture reading and closed with a poem, which he applied to Mr. Parker's life.

Interment was in the family cemetery near Fountain.

Mr. Parker was the son of the late Richard A. and Lola Bryan Parker of Farmville. Prior to attending college he was an outstanding member of the young people's groups in Farmville school and the Presbyterian church. He graduated from Davidson college in 1926 and taught several years before accepting a position as dean of boys at Darlington school, Rome, Ga. While there he was urged to accept the presidency of a well-known preparatory boys' school in North Carolina, but declined, saying he felt that he had unfinished work with the boys at Darlington. He did graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, and the University of North Carolina.

He was an instructor of social sciences at the University of North Carolina in 1940. Two years later, he became dean of men, a position he held until he entered the American Red Cross in 1944, serving as field director in India.

He was an active member of Phi Delta Theta social fraternity and at one time served the organization as national scholarship commissioner. He was elected permanent president of the Class of 1926 at Davidson.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. Robert Wall and Mrs. E. P. Bothrock, both of Leesville, Mrs. W. D. Brown of Raeford; a half-sister, Faye Parker of Benson; three brothers, Billy of Richmond, Va., Leroy of Rocky Mount, Richard A. of High Point; four half-brothers, John of Farmville, James of the Army, now stationed in Germany, Charles of Greensboro and Martin of Benson.

At The Rotary Club

An interesting and informative program was brought to the Rotary club Tuesday night. The Rotarians, 100 per cent in attendance, heard Rev. C. Manly Morton, a missionary to Puerto Rico, describe some of the customs and conditions that now exist on this West Indies island. Morton, minister of the Farmville Christian church in 1908-10, outlined some of the projects his group has brought about on the island which was ceded to the United States in 1898, at the close of the Spanish-American War. He described Puerto Rico as being a half-starved, over-populated island, whose only hope lies in the future of its young people, and in these boys and girls, Morton and his associates are seeking to instill an ambition and desire to move forward to the achievement of something really worthwhile. W. A. McAdams was in charge of the program and the speaker was introduced by Rev. Z. B. T. Cox of the Christian church.

Attention was called to the fact that the date of the Inter-City meeting had been changed from March 16 to the night of Friday, March 17, the meeting to be held at 7:30 p. m. at Southwood School cafeteria, located approximately four miles beyond Kinston, on the old Trenton highway.

R. N. Freeman received the attendance prize and Frank Williams the fellowship prize.

Jimmie Darden will have the program next Tuesday night.

Club President Charlie Fitzgerald presided.
