New Residents At Home In Most Parts Of World

They met in Manchuria, were married in Casetown, lived a while in Nigeria and have been in America since 1945. J. Vernon Wilkerson is a native of La Grange and Mrs. Wilkerson, the former Frances Lyon-Mackenzie, was born in Sydney, Australia. Her father is Scottish and her mother is an Australian.

The Wilkersons and their four-year-old daughter, Teena (Frances Athleen), came to Farmville last month. Mr. Wilkerson is connected with A. C. Monk and Company.

Mrs. Wilkerson describes her marriage to a man of another nationality as part of a circle in her family. It all started when an aunt went to China to visit and married an American Army officer. Another aunt went to see her married cousin and married an American Army officer. Mrs. Wilkerson's mother went to visit her sister and married Mr. Lyon Mackenzie, who was working in the Hong King and Shanghai Bank.

On the basis of seniority, employees of the bank get a year's vacation every four or five years. The Lyon-Mackenzies went to Australia to visit Mrs. Lyon-Mackenzie's mother and Frances was born there. When she was about three months old, they sailed to Malaya where her father worked for two years before being transferred to Shanghai. Frances and her mother visited her grandmother in Sydney during the time the family lived in Shanghai, where she began her schooling at about the age of four.

From Shanghai the family moved to Tientsin, North China, where they resided about four and a half years.

The next two of her father's vacations were spent in England. They paid visits to relatives in Scotland and Italy. Frances attended nine months of boarding school in a coastal town, Eastbourne, England, and her sister was enrolled in a kindergarten in London, where their parents were staying.

Eastbourne has numerous private schools, all of which are more strict than the public schools, which allow little outside contact.

When her family returned to China, Frances was sent to Australia to study at the Presbyterian Ladies college in Sydney. Australian colleges give training from grammar school through junior college. Upon completion of an Australian college, a student may enter the university. From what little she has observed of American schools, Mrs. Wilkerson states that they are more lax in their requirements. The Australian government gives a standard test at the government schools once a year to all students who want to secure either their intermediate (high school) certificate or leaving certificate (junior college).

After completing her intermediate exams, Frances went to Harbin, Manchuria, for a visit to her parents and sister. She learned to speak enough Russian to buy groceries in the stores. The population of Harbin was about equally divided between the Russians and Chinese. In China the foreigners had many dinner parties, dances at Christmas and other social activities. There were fewer foreigners in Manchuria, since the British and American armed forces were not stationed in that country.

She and her mother and sister came to New Jersey in December, 1936, and spent three months with an aunt.

Frances met Mr. Wilkerson, who was working in Mukden, while he was visiting in Harbin. A few months later her father was transferred to Hong Kong. In the meantime her mother and sister had returned to Australia. On July 5, 1956, Frances was evacuated with many other foreigners from that city. Her father remained and was held a prisoner for four years. He contracted pleurisy and was in a hospital much of the time. Later he was interned in a monastery. "My father," Mrs. Wilkerson notes, "was healthier than many of the younger men after being interned." He is now retired and lives in Australia.

Leaving Hong Kong, Frances stayed in Manila about three weeks before returning to her native land. She volunteered for Army service and worked in a hospital.

In 1943 she sailed to Casetown and was married in an Episcopal church to Mr. Wilkerson. The wedding was held together a month before Mr. Wilkerson sailed for West Africa and

About Farmville People

Mrs. Annie Lee of Greenville is spending the week with her son, Gordon Lee.

Charabelle Flanagan spent several days last week with Faye Mewborn at Cool Point.

Mrs. J. A. Mewborn returned Sunday from Morehead City where she spent three weeks with her daughter, Mrs. George Edwards of Snow Hill, at the Edwards cottage.

Patricia Lee of Oriental is spending this week with her aunt, Mrs. Edson Moore.

Mrs. Edward Moringo and children of Snow Hill visited Mrs. C. A. Moringo Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Kelly spent last week in Maury with their daughter, Mrs. Walter Jarvis.

"Butch" Gilbert of Norfolk, Va., is spending two weeks with her cousin, Perry Faye Pratt.

Mrs. H. C. McDearman of Durham is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. Darden.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Bundy visited Mr. and Mrs. Hassell Matthews of Nashville and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Langley near Rocky Mount Sunday.

Mrs. J. W. Boykin spent several days last week in Raleigh with her daughter, Miss Anne Boykin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bradham and son were dinner guests last Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Daughtridge of Rocky Mount.

Mrs. R. C. Coward and Mrs. Wm. Langley of Ayden visited the former's sister, Mrs. Will Barrett, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Lewis Allen has returned from a visit to relatives in Decatur, Ga.

Mrs. William Q. Shaw and son, Charles William, of Hodgenville, Ky., are visiting Mrs. Shaw's sister, Mrs. J. M. Gibbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Allen and children spent Sunday in Raleigh with Mrs. Allen's mother, Mrs. J. M. Smith. Sandy Allen remained for a week's visit.

Mrs. M. E. Pollard and daughter, Ann, returned Tuesday from a visit to Mrs. Pollard's sister, Mrs. J. Darden.

It was in one of these huts that Mr. Wilkerson and his co-workers, who were teaching the natives better methods of tobacco growing, lived until the brick home was ready.

The nearest neighbors, American Baptist medical missionaries, were 13 miles away and the nearest town was 100 miles distant. Every two or three weeks the Wilkersons loaded the back of the pickup truck with baggage, the houseboy and cook and native pets and went to town for a long week end. They purchased such rationed groceries as were available.

The vegetable garden yielded most of the vegetables which can be found in America, prolifically, at certain seasons of the year. They were much larger in size than any seen here. At some seasons of the year the only vegetable that would grow was New Zealand spinach and it was monotonous eating. All the meat was strictly lean, so the couple longed to see some meat with fat.

In the first three months she was in Nigeria, Mrs. Wilkerson had malaria three times. Once she lost seven pounds in a week. Doing herself with quinine, she gradually recovered.

After 13 months of living in the bush, the Wilkersons flew to America and went to Douglas, Georgia, to make their home. Their baggage arrived six months later. The traveling couple brought back only one piece of mahogany furniture, a crude stool, which Mr. Wilkerson has since finished. The government requires a permit for bringing articles from the country, so they decided not to try to get one.

Teena was born in Lexington, Ky., where the couple were on the tobacco market.

According to Australian standards, Americans keep their houses too warm and eat too much. Mrs. Wilkerson likes plenty of heat in the winter, but she relates that her mother, during a visit a few years ago, found the artificial climate too much. She would go to her room, close the door and open the windows.

Mutton and lamb are the national meats, but beef is served frequently. Mrs. Wilkerson finds that Americans use more breads than do the Australians. They mainly use biscuits and cornmeal is not known. Americans use more seasonings than do the people of that country. Many Australians cook vegetables with soda, but never with salt meat. Since salt is no longer rationed, some use it in the seasoning vegetables.

Wood and coal are the most-used fuels. Last June, which is winter in the southern down under, Mrs. Wilkerson and Teena went to the former's home. A coal pile was on, making the ground for mud or great Robert Dixon, who is attending summer school at the University of North Carolina, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Britt of Atlanta, Ga., spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis. Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Britt are sisters.

Mrs. Lella Forbes has been visiting relatives near Snow Hill and La Grange.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore are vacationing this week in the Western part of the state.

Mrs. Ellen Lewis Carroll is taking graduate work this summer at Columbia University, New York City.

New Western Auto Store Opens Saturday

Tomorrow, July 15, marks the big opening in Farmville of one of the home-owned and operated Western Auto Associate Stores. Mr. Darius White is the owner of the new store, located adjacent to the Paramount theatre at 109 North Main street, in the building formerly occupied by the Blackwood Company.

Mr. White states that he will do everything in his power to make his store friendly and accommodating. He welcomes all old friends and customers of Western Auto, and hopes to make many new friends through friendly and courteous service. The Western Auto guarantee, "Satisfaction or Money Back," will apply to every item purchased in the store, according to Mr. White.

Mr. White is new to the Farmville community. He has lived in Newport News, Va., for 15 years, with Mrs. White and one daughter, Rebecca, age five. Mr. White is anxious to be active in any civic program for the betterment of the area.

A tour of the store will show that stocks have been selected according to the needs of Farmville and the surrounding rural area. Thousands of items for car, home, farm and recreation will be offered.

Mr. White added that his merchandise comes from the Western Auto wholesale house at Greensboro. The nearness of the warehouse makes it possible for him to get quick delivery on items needed to replenish his stock.

Mr. and Mrs. White are members of the Methodist church. He is a native of Elizabeth City and is now making his home at Davis Hotel until a house is available. Mrs. White and Rebecca will continue living in Newport News until quarters are obtained here. Mrs. White is a native of Greensboro.

Rotary Sponsors Drive To Assist Stricken Areas

The Farmville Rotary club voted Tuesday night to sponsor a drive for relief funds for the farmers of the Shamias section of Nash county, whose crops have been totally destroyed by hail, rain and wind. Hail adjusters who have been into the section say that not more than 40 per cent of the crop was covered by insurance, and even this would be only from $100.00 to $200.00 per acre.

Many families are completely destitute, without food, clothes, credit or employment.

Relief contributions may be made through the Red Cross or the Nash county welfare agent and forwarded to C. S. Bunn, Route 2, Spring Hope, N. C., Relief Chairman. Such contributions are deductible from income tax returns.

Joe Rasberry, Manly Likes and John B. Lewis were appointed as a committee to direct the drive in Farmville. An effort will be made to send a solicitor to each store or other business house; however, if no one contacts you, please send your contribution to one of the committee members or to Mr. Bunn.

A plea is made for assistance and cooperation of all other civic clubs in Farmville and for the generous support of all the citizens of the town and community.

New Rotary President

The Farmville Rotary club started out a new year Tuesday night, when the gavel was turned over to Walter B. Jones by the retiring president, Dr. Charles E. Fitzgerald.

Dr. Charlie thanked the members for the fine spirit of cooperation displayed during his administration, and pointed out that the club had achieved an average of 92% during the Rotary year, as further proof of the fact that Farmville club consists of 43 Rotarians and not merely 43 members.

Walter Jones thanked the members for the honor bestowed upon him and pledged his best for a successful term and a progressive year.

He began his term by appointing the following members to act as chairmen of their respective committees: Club Service, Charlie Rasberry; Vocational Service—Plato Bass; Community Service—Ed Nash Warren; and International Service, R. O. Lang, Jr.

Eli Joyner, Jr., will serve as vice president; Edwin Coates as secretary, and John Stansill as treasurer.

Joe Rasberry received the prize offered by Irvin Morgan for the best all-around program during the year just ended, a handsome Gladstone traveling bag; and Dr. Charlie left with the club a portable speaker's stand, bearing the emblem of Rotary.

Randolph Eagles was a visitor; Harold Allred of Washington, D. C., a former member of the club, was the guest of Arch Flanagan, and Dr. Paul E. Jones presented his grandson, "Chuck" Duke.

James Monk received the attendance prize and Plato Bass will be in charge of the program next week.

District Firemen Have Quarterly Meeting In Gym

Representatives from most of the fire departments in Eastern North Carolina assembled in the local gymnasium Tuesday night for the regular quarterly meeting.

R. A. Joyner, who served as president of the state association in 1941 and gave Farmville the distinction of being the only town in North Carolina of less than 10,000 population, except Chapel Hill, to furnish a president of the state body, served as master of ceremonies. Mr. Joyner recently retired as a member of the state executive committee.

After the invocation by Rev. Z. B. T. Cox of the Christian church, Mayor Walter Jones welcomed the group, stating that he knew of no body of men deserving acclaim, more than the volunteer firefighters. He also stated that Farmville is extremely proud of its fire department.

Principal address of the meeting was made by Moon Wyrick, chief of the Charlotte fire department and vice president of the N. C. State Fire Chiefs' Association, who explained that some important matters were to be considered at the state meeting in Hendersonville in September and asked that departments become well acquainted with them so that intelligent steps could be taken.

The response to the mayor's address was made by Mark Lassiter of Snow Hill.

Rev. E. W. Holmes of the Farmville Baptist church, one of the honor guests, expressed his pleasure at being present and his admiration for the work firemen are doing.

Curtis Flanagan, vice president of the state association who is expected to move into the presidency, according to custom, at the state convention, spoke about the convention and the important issues that were on the agenda. Flanagan's promotion to the presidency will mean another honor of Farmville.

Others recognized included Assistant Chief Lawson of the Durham fire department, Chief A. B. Lloyd of the Raleigh department, Jack Barnes of Fayetteville and Sherwood Brockwell, Jr., of Raleigh, representatives of fire fighting equipment manufacturers.

Chief Pete Hall of Williamston is president of the Eastern Carolina Firemen's Association. A. Y. Yates of Edenton is vice president and Miller Warren of Plymouth is secretary.

In the afternoon, prior to the barbecue dinner and assembly, a meeting of the district fire chiefs' association was held in the Town Hall.

At The Kiwanis Club

The Farmville club, which several weeks ago wrote the State Utilities Commission and asked that it reject a rate increase request for the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph company, heard Monday night when Jack Havens, assistant to the president of the firm, presented facts and figures which, the company claims, are sufficient proof that the firm needs additional revenue in order to maintain a continued expansion program.

Havens, a past president of the Tarboro Kiwanis club, was presented by Bernice Turnage, chairman of the club's business affairs committee.

The Tarboro official showed that his company had grown to major proportions and cited its enormous growth since 1936.

He said that the number of phones on the Farmville exchange had increased from 322 in 1936 to 968 at the close of May, 1956. He also stated that the company's investment in the Farmville area is $180,000 and that additional expansion work is planned.

Havens stated that the investment per phone had far outstripped the increases, two in all, that have been granted the company since 1936. He also stated that at the time the first increase was granted in 1945 that Farmville had the lowest rate of any town its size in the area served by the firm.

He added that operating expenses had advanced more than the increased rates had given the company in revenue. He cited the fact that the new wage and hour law was responsible for added costs and stated that the firm had given employees a raise this spring to keep the payments in line with wages paid by similar companies in neighboring areas.

At the close of his talk, Mr. Havens answered questions concerning operating items in which the club was interested.

Guests of the club were Joe Spivey, manager of the local exchange; Walter B. Jones, representing the Rotary club, and Joe Joyner, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Walstonburg News

Engagement Announced
Mr. and Mrs. Isaac J. Rouse announce the engagement of their daughter, Ramona, to Ralph C. Tucker, son of Mrs. W. A. Tucker of Greenville and the late Mr. Tucker.

The wedding will take place in the Walstonburg Methodist church on August 5. Miss Rouse is a graduate of Greensboro college and is at present connected with the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church in Greenville doing religious education work.

Bride-Elect Honored
Mrs. G. W. B. Hadley and Miss Jane Hadley entertained informally for Miss Rouse, bride-elect, at their home in Greenville Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Throughout the home and porch arrangements of lovely cut flowers were placed in colorful vases. The dining table was covered with an Italian work cloth, a silver vase with garden flowers pink and green predominating.

Upon arrival the guests were met by the hostesses, Miss Rouse and her mother, Mrs. I. J. Rouse of Walstonburg, and were introduced to the out of town guests.

They were then invited into the dining room where coca colas and hors d'oeuvres were served by Misses Phyllis Johnston, Betsy Rouse, sister of the honoree, and Marty Hadley. The honoree was given a piece of silver in her selected pattern.

Those from Walstonburg attending were Mrs. Rouse, Miss Betsy Rouse, Mrs. Henry Grey Fields and Mrs. C. H. Walton.

Mrs. Tryphena McKeel, Mrs. Ivey Smith and Mrs. W. E. Lang left Sunday morning to attend the adult conference of the Christian church in Salisbury. They will be away all week. They were accompanied by Charlie Letchworth of Farmville.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Brooks were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patton in Wilson, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lang and daughters, Frances and Beverly, have gone to Nags Head to spend a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Simpson and children, who have been visiting Mrs. W. E. Lang, left Monday morning to spend two weeks at Cape Hatteras, before returning to their home in Arlington, Va.

Mrs. J. E. Grice of Cary and Wilson spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Ray West, Sr.

Mrs. Charlie Letchworth and children of Farmville are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Gardner.

HOUSEPARTY

Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Jones entertained a party of friends last week at Greensboro camp on the Pamlico river. Guests included Misses Betsy Jones and Vivian Scott, Mrs. Annie Riggsbee, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Pinyan, all of Farmville; Dr. and Mrs. James R. Fleet of Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hussey of Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Murray of Washington, D. C.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul E. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bobbitt joined the party for the fourth.

May-Haps

(By Elizabeth May)

"Like mother, like daughter." Mrs. Preston Pate is following in her mother's footsteps in church work.

Mrs. Claude Joyner, who has been active in the work of the Wesley Community Methodist church since it was formed a few years ago, will conclude a year as president of the Marlboro Free Will Baptist auxiliary in October.

Her daughter, Mrs. Pate, who was elected president of the Young Adults in the North Carolina conference of the Methodist church, will preside tonight at her first meeting, since her selection as president of the Wesley Women's Society of Christian service. Before coming to Farmville, she was president of the Young adults in Bethel church, near Jason.

Richard Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Smith of Greensboro, is beginning his camping days at a tender age. Richard, who celebrated his 1st birthday on June 30, and his parents are at Camp Brant Lake, Brant Lake, New York, where Mr. Smith is beginning his fifth season as a counselor. For three summers while a student at the University of North Carolina, Mr. Smith worked at the camp. After his release from the Army, he returned for the 1948 season.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith.

The dinner of their choice, numerous gifts and an appearance on a radio program will make the Carl Tanner's third wedding anniversary, July 5, a long-remembered celebration. Mr. and Mrs. Tanner were guests of the Rainbow Supper club in Wilson and were on the semi-regular broadcast of the club over station WUTL.

Among their gifts were a decorated cake, which was served to the club's guests, a corsage, necktie, billiard, nurse fountain pen, toaster, clothesline and set of knives for Mrs. Tanner and lighter, flashlight, sportsrifle and matching cuff links, the pin and watch chain for Mr. Tanner.

Mrs. Tanner teaches eighth grade in Fountain. Mr. Tanner is a member of the Farmville police department.

J. S. Bohannan of Portsmouth, Co. husband of the former Tullie, wife of Farmville, was installed as one in the Quakers' church last month.

BARBECUE GIVEN FOR R. A. PARKER FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Parker of Fountain, Mrs. John C. Parker and Mrs. Nannie Hearne entertained the children of the late R. A. Parker at a barbecue dinner Sunday at the Hearne home near Maclefield.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Parker and family of Rocky Mount, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rothrock and son, John, of Leaksville, Richard Parker of High Point, Mrs. W. D. Brown and sons, Walter and George, of Raeford, Mrs. R. M. Wall and sons, Bobby and Joe, of Leaksville, Mr. and Mrs. John Parker and daughter, Whit, of Farmville and Charles Parker, a student at ECTC.

Billy Parker of Richmond, Va., Jimmy Parker, who is stationed with the Army in Germany, and Martin and Faye Parker of Bejson were unable to be present.

Others attending the dinner were Mrs. Zeb Cummings of Tarboro, a cousin of the family, Buster Webb of Maclefield, Miss Ruth Parker of Greensboro, Byron and Alan Parker of Fountain and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Newton and children of Farmville.

GRAHAM DAVIS ELECTED TO BRENAU FACULTY

Graham Davis, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Davis, will assume his duties in September as an associate professor in the science department of Brenau college in Gainesville, Ga.

Mr. Davis, who is married to the former Sue King of Essex, will receive his master's degree from Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., next month. He graduated from ECTC last summer.

PERSONAL ITEMS

Mrs. Tanner teaches eighth grade in Fountain. Mr. Tanner is a member of the Farmville police department.

J. S. Bohannan of Portsmouth, Co. husband of the former Tullie, wife of Farmville, was installed as one in the Quakers' church last month.
