Grandson Local Woman In White House Delegation

Meck G. Barrett, grandson of Mrs. Nonnie Barrett of Farmville, head of the student council at Canton high school and also president of the North Carolina Student Council Conference, is among 39 Tar Heels who will deliver North Carolina's report to the Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth when the nation-wide conference convenes in Washington, D. C., December 3, for 4 days of meetings devoted to bettering the welfare of the nation's children.

Mrs. T. E. Joyner, Sr., aunt of Tar Heel spokesman, met her nephew in Raleigh Thursday, where he conferred with Governor Scott and other state officials about the report and his Washington trip.

Barrett was appointed by Governor Scott, along with other delegates to the conference. Several state officials will spearhead the group, among them Forrest Shuford, Commissioner of Labor; Dr. J. W. R. Norton, State Health Officer; and Ralph Andrews, Director of the North Carolina Recreation Commission.

In addition to the 39 persons allotted to the State, Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, Superintendent of Public Instruction, will attend the conference as a representative of the National Council of Chief State School Officers, while Dr. Ellen Winston, Commissioner of Public Welfare, who is serving as a member of the White House Technical Committee on Fact-Finding, will attend in her capacity as a participant in the National planning for the Conference.

The governor stated that in appointing the delegation a balanced group had been sought, with representatives of many organizations specializing in services to children included. In addition he stated a good division between delegates from rural and small town areas and from cities was considered.

Midgets Defeat Scotland Neck

The Farmville midget football team looked very impressive last Thursday night in defeating Scotland Neck, 26-12, at Scotland Neck. From the opening kick-off, Farmville never gave up possession of the ball until they had scored a touchdown.

Johnny Hinson scored two of the touchdowns while Bert Warren and Jan Cayton each scored one. The excellent blocking made it possible for the team to use and complete many of its pass plays. Every member of the team played and helped avenge the defeat they had suffered a week earlier at the hands of the same team.

QUINN-COUNTY ZONE MEETS HERE WEDNESDAY

Mrs. J. Roy Wilkerson of near Kenly will preside at the Quinn-County Zone meeting to be held at the Farmville Methodist church Wednesday, beginning at 10:30.

Rev. R. W. Bradshaw, pastor of the First Methodist church in Wilson, will be the main speaker. Mrs. B. R. Fields will give the address of welcome and Mrs. Bernice Turnage will sing.

Lunch will be served at 1 o'clock in the basement, under the direction of the chairman of the six local circles. Mrs. W. M. Willis is president of the Farmville Woman's Society of Christian Service. She urges all her members to attend.

LITERARY CLUB

Miss Mamie Davis entertained the Literary club Wednesday at her home on West Church street. The home was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums in lovely arrangements.

Mrs. C. H. Fausgan presided and led the club in repeating the collect. The club voted to send $25 to the Federation fund. Mrs. John Wright was appointed to serve on the Art committee with Mrs. E. W. Holmes and Mrs. Herbert Hart.

The program chairman was Miss Tabitha DeVincenti who gave an informative talk on world government.

After adjournment, Miss Davis was assisted in serving homemade cake, nuts, rolls, coffee and other delicacies by Mrs. L. E. Watson and Mrs. C. C. Simpson.

In addition to Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. W. M. Willis, Mrs. F. W. C. H. Fausgan, Mrs. W. C. H.

ADA Delegate

DR. PAUL JONES

Dr Paul Jones Delegate To Dental Convention

Dr. Paul E. Jones, a former president of North Carolina Dentists, is attending the 91st annual session of the American Dental Association at Atlantic City this week.

The nation's foremost dental scientists took part in the four-day sessions held at Convention Hall. Business sessions were held at the Traymore hotel.

Dr. Jones is one of the five official delegates representing the North Carolina Society. Delegates will make decisions governing the course of the Association for the next year.

Other delegates from North Carolina were Dr. H. O. Lineberger of Raleigh, Wilbert Jackson of Clinton, Amos S. Bumgardner of Charlotte and R. Fred Hunt of Rocky Mount.

Youth Institute At Walstonburg Ends

On Sunday night, October 29, the Christian Youth Institute sponsored by the Walstonburg Youth Center and led by the Rev. John T. Greene was brought to a most successful close. The last session climaxed the series of meetings that had been in progress each Sunday night since Oct. 8.

Several of the more than 100 young people who had been attending each Sunday night were reluctant to admit that this was the last meeting and stayed to question Mr. Greene long after the group had been formally dismissed.

The program each night consisted of a period of worship followed by a movie, and an open discussion led by Mr. Greene concerning dating customs of the present day. Using a wheel with five spokes as the basis for his discussion, Mr. Greene pointed out how a person's physical, mental, emotional, social and spiritual development makes for a well-rounded life. He traced the growth in these five areas from birth to adulthood, and showed how immaturity in any of these areas might lead to later marital problems.

Interest and attendance not only from the Walstonburg community, but from Bell Arthur, Farmville, and the Wesley and Tabernacle communities as well, showed that such an institute has partially filled a real need in the lives of young people in this section.

Mr. Greene spoke to the young adults Sunday evening at 6:30 at the Walstonburg parsonage on "Why We Choose the Mates We Do."

Mrs. Moye Installed As Council Officer

Nine members of the Ballards Home Demonstration club and one member of the Farmville club received pins for perfect attendance at the annual Pitt county Achievement Day Tuesday afternoon in Greenville.

Bill Jones Saw Al Jolson In Concert In Korea

Cpl. Bill Jones, son of Mrs. Leon Jones, describes some of the recent activities in Korea in the following letter, written from Seoul, October 13. The letter reached here Friday and was the first news Mrs. Jones had had from her son since he wrote Sept. 27.

"I feel tonight that I must drop you a few lines to let you know that I'm still around. For the past two weeks we have been on the move and things up front have been quite rough for us. When we left from above Taegu, they put us up on the front with the infantry to build bridges for them to advance and, believe me, we had no picnic.

"Probably you have been reading about the big crossing of the Han river near Seoul. Well, we had to put two bridges in and we were under fire all the time. After we finally got the equipment across, we had to fight all the way to Seoul. We are now about 40 miles above Seoul putting in four bridges that are out. The air force really gave this place the go for ever. We will probably move up again soon.

"Today I spent in Seoul getting some supplies we needed, so I got a good look at the city. Some parts of it are torn up pretty much, but it shouldn't take long to repair. Most all the towns from Taegu to Seoul are a complete loss. Boy, what a mess this country is in now.

"We haven't had any mail in 13 days, but may get some tomorrow." In the letter written September 27, he stated that he heard Al Jolson sing the evening before, Jolson's death, which occurred Monday night in a San Francisco hotel, was attributed to heart trouble and fatigue resulting from his recent trip to the war areas.

BIRTHDAY DINNER HONORS MRS. SARA PERRY, 74

Mrs. Sara Perry of Durham, who is staying with her daughter, Mrs. J. Frank Harper, celebrated her seventy-fourth birthday Sunday.

Mrs. Perry, who broke her hip a year ago last month, is confined to her bed most of the time, but was able to be up for the dinner.

The table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a bowl of pink roses. The cake was decorated with pink icing. Picnic lunches, brought by each family, were served.

Those present were Mrs. Perry's children and their families, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Aiken and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Emory of Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Perry and Mrs. Otha Perry of Apex. Unable to attend was another son, Paul, of Apex.

New directors are Ben Lewis, Fred Moore, Roger Poeler and J. P. Jones. Old members of the board of directors are Jake Fields, Jack Lewis, Glasgow Smith, Alton Bobbitt, Lewis Allen, Carl Hicks, Hubert Joyner and Billy Smith.

The Goldsboro club met with the local club Monday night and had charge of the program. Chief feature was entertainment by Herman Joseph, former clown with the Barnum-Bailey and Ringling Brothers circus.

At The Rotary Club

Attorney Dan Jones, at the Rotary club Tuesday night explained in an interesting and informative way, the five constitutional amendments to be voted upon at the election to be held on November 7. Mr. Jones made it clear that the Bar Association was taking no controversial stand in connection with the amendments, and that his sole interest in the matter was to bring the issues to the attention of the public.

Walter Jones, program chairman for the evening, introduced Attorney Jones.

It was reported that $485.50 had been collected in the Boy Scout drive, falling short approximately $150.00 of the goal as set.

Ladies' Night Chairman, Bobby Rouse, asked that each member of the club be present with his guest not later than 6:45 on next Tuesday night so that the program could be started not later than 7.

Three members were absent and Joe Raspberry received the attendance prize and George Davis the fellowship prize.

Green Rountree was the guest of Bobby Rouse.

Walter Jones, club president, presided.

WESLEY SOCIETY OBSERVES WEEK PRAYER, SELF-DENIAL

The Wesley Woman's Society of Christian Service observed Week of Prayer and Self-Denial with a program Tuesday evening in the church. Mrs. Henry Tyson, spiritual life leader, was in charge of the program, which opened with the singing of "Take Time to Be Holy."

Miss Edna Boone, rural worker, told why such a week is observed.

Presenting the four causes for which the offering was received were Mrs. Fete Hobgood, Mrs. Claude Joyner, Mrs. Alton Brock, Jr., and Mrs. Ferrell Morgan.

Mrs. Jimmy Tyson led the closing prayer.

The society will hold a Stanley party Monday night at 7:30 in the church.

PTA Buys Curtains With Carnival Profit

The supper and carnival sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association Friday night were a tremendous success with more than $1100 being raised for this year's project, the purchasing of new curtains for the auditorium stage.

More than $370 was raised from the supper, and $730 was raised by bingo, the main feature of the carnival attractions. Contributions from merchants and friends made part of the amount raised.

The curtains will be hung and the auditorium redecorated and ready for the winter season.

Community Day Is Observed By Church Women

Church women of Farmville will meet today at 3:30 in the Christian church for the annual World Community day, sponsored by the Council of Church Women. Mrs. M. B. Andrews of Goldsboro will speak.

This year's project, which will help people in Europe, will be collecting new and used knitted garments, especially sweaters. The offering will be used for "Education for Peace" and "Relief for Refugees." Eight cents a pound is required for the garments to be shipped through the Church World Service.

Mrs. Andrews is a past president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of St. Paul's Methodist church in Goldsboro, a circle leader, Sunday School teacher, has been chairman of the mission study course for a number of years, is chairman of health and welfare in the Woman's club, has organized a little World Friendship group in her neighborhood, has five grown children and has several grandchildren. The World Friendship group is composed of small children who study about children in foreign lands. The idea has spread over the city into other groups with adult leaders.

All women of Farmville and community are invited to take part in the service built around the theme, "Love Thy Neighbor."

Mrs. Andrews served on the Executive Board of the Goldsboro council during the two years she was president of St. Paul's W.S.C.S. She has helped plan programs of the board from time to time.

Garden Club Meets

Mrs. E. P. Bass was hostess at her home on South Main street to the Garden club Monday afternoon. Potted plants, roses, dahlias and autumn foliage were used in the decorations.

Mrs. E. F. Gaynor described the colorful sweet gum tree and said that it is too little known for a tree as decorative as it is. Easy to grow, it is suitable for any property where the cultural requirements can be met.

Before the demonstration, she asked "Tree of Your Own," which described the gold and crimson of the maples, the red and orange of the sourwood which is like no other tree that grows, the dogwood that rouges itself with some of the warmer reds of the woodland and the sassafras with a golden flame coloring which is a warmer shade than that of fire flames. Foliage of the sassafras, dogwood, crepe myrtle and sweet gum were exhibited.

Mrs. Preston Murphy displayed chrysanthemums, the shade of which was deepened by fertilizer used. Even the leaves had a reddish tint.

Mrs. Gaynor conducted a lesson in flower arrangement when she transformed a highly-packed vase of flowers into an attractive arrangement. Red Cross meeting in Greenville when each member to tell what was wrong with the first arrangement. She also invited members to visit her chrysanthemum garden which will be at its best next week.

A report from the state yearbook was made by Miss Tabitha DeVincenti, who told how to plant and care for camellias. They should be purchased from a reliable nursery and set down between September and April. They do well in partial shade, but, planted in deep shade, will not produce as many blooms as those having proper light.

Fifty Audubon bird pictures, presented by Donald Bancom, were enjoyed by members.

A list of Christmas gifts requested for servicemen wounded in Korea who have been sent to Camp Lejeune was read. Members will carry their gifts to the president, Miss DeVincenti.

Mrs. Gaynor will be hostess for the November meeting. Each member will be responsible for different Christmas decorations for her home.

Assisted by Mrs. L. E. Jones, Mrs. Bass served cookies, potato chips and cocoa coffee.

Mrs. J. H. Lewis was welcomed as a new member.
