Coppers A-Plenty

The government's warning a few weeks ago that the number of pennies in circulation is becoming alarmingly short has found an ally in William Nash, who walked into Billy Smith's Southern Supply Company a few days ago and handed him two quart jars of pennies in settlement of an account. There were more than 1400 coppers in the jars.

Homecoming At Wesley Church Well Attended

Wesley Methodist Church observed Homecoming Sunday with a program which started with Sunday School and preaching, was continued with a dinner on the grounds, and reached a successful conclusion that afternoon with an old-fashioned song-fest that drew friends of the church from miles around the country side.

Aaron Tyson, a senior ministerial student at Guilford college, preached the morning sermon, using "Peace" as the theme of his message. Tyson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tyson. He was substituting for Rev. Tommy Tyson, pastor of Wesley and Walsenburg churches, who preached the commencement sermon at Bell Arthur school.

Lawrence Tyson directed the musical program at the morning services and conducted the afternoon's musical program. Among the visiting singers were Rev. C. L. Turpin of Farmville and his father, from Oklahoma City; the Rev. J. C. Moye quartette of Snow Hill; the Fulford quartette, composed of Henry Tyson, R. L. Fulford, Bill and David Fulford; the Smith sisters of Greenville; the Blalock trio of Farmville; the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Nichols of near Bell Arthur; Miss Carolyn Rasberry, Jean Moore and Willa Rae Harper of Farmville. Among the scores of visitors taking part in the day's observance was George T. Nethercut of Greene county, who served as a member of the Board of Stewards while he lived in the Wesley community before moving to his present residence.

So successful was the Homecoming event and so enjoyable was it that members of the Board of Stewards, meeting Sunday night at the home of David Fulford, went on record as favoring the third Sunday of each May as Homecoming for Wesley church. Other members of the board are Henry Tyson, R. L. Fulford, William Hobgood, Ferrell Morgan, Claude Joyner, Mark Moxingo, Vernon Moxingo, Jack Russell and Nelson Fulford.

The Wesley church was organized a few years ago under the leadership of Rev. Key Taylor, who is now pastor of the Windsor Methodist church. The church has an enrollment of 62 and is faithfully serving the spiritual needs of the community. Services are held the third Sunday morning and on the evening of the second Sunday of each month.

R. J. Fulford is superintendent of the Sunday School which has experienced a steady and continual growth. The average attendance during the church year which ended November 1 was 71. Average attendance since that date has been 88.

Members of the Wesley church are grateful for the cooperation and support of those who were responsible for the success of Homecoming Day, and already these are anticipating next year's event.

FARMVILLE'S OLDEST CITIZEN DIES AT HER HOME MONDAY

Mrs. Fannie Langley Owens, 91, died at her home here, Monday afternoon following a 10-day illness.

Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday afternoon conducted by Rev. R. B. Denson, Primitive Baptist minister of Rocky Mount, assisted by Rev. E. S. Coster, Farmville Presbyterian minister. Interment was made in Forrest Hill cemetery. Rev. E. W. Holmes, Baptist minister, and Rev. Z. B. T. Cox, Christian minister, conducted the services at the graveside.

A quartet composed of Mrs. C. F. Baucum, Sr., Mrs. R. O. Lang, Jr., Elbert Holmes and Arthur Joyner, Jr., sang "Amazing Grace" and "My Faith Looks Up To Thee" at the home. "Now The Day Is Over" was sung at the cemetery.

Mrs. Owens, who was judged by many as the oldest citizen of Farmville, was born in Edgecombe County, the daughter of William Langley and Fanny Crisp. Her husband, the late J. D. Owens, died 13 years ago. She was a member of the Damascus Primitive Baptist Church in Farmville where she had resided for 25 years.

Mrs. Owens was beloved by the people of the Farmville community, who knew her as a lady of gentle disposition. Always a woman of remarkable energy and intense interest, she retained these traits to an outstanding degree in the later years of her life.

Sets New Record; Tries For Olympics

Stationed at Bamberg, Germany, he will represent the European Command in the International Shooting and Olympic matches to be held in the United States. The team picked will represent the U. S. in the matches at Helsinki in July.

Lt. and Mrs. Gregory and their two children are expecting to sail for the United States either on May 30 or June 4. Following a 45-day leave, Lt. Gregory will be stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C.

At Congressional Hearing, Local Dentist Outlines Retirement Plan

Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville, one of North Carolina's outstanding dentists who has been prominent in activities of the state and national dental associations for a number of years, appeared before the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives several days ago in behalf of proposed legislation having to do with the establishment of individual retirement programs.

Attending the meeting with Dr. Jones, and helping answer questions which might explain the dentists' attitude toward the proposal, was Bernard J. Conway of Chicago, the assistant secretary of the American Dental Association's Council on Legislation. The hearing was held in Washington.

The proposed retirement plan is designed to encourage an individual to set aside funds for his retirement during the years his capacity to earn income from his occupation or profession is greatest. The encouragement or incentive to finance such a retirement program takes the form of income tax relief.

What the dentists and various other professional and business men want is legislation which would allow them to pay not to exceed 10 per cent of his net earned income or $7500, whichever is less, into a retirement fund sponsored by an association or organization during his earning years.

The sums contributed to such a retirement program would not be subject to income tax during the year in which it was paid into the fund but would become taxable at the rates prevailing when the funds are withdrawn after retirement, according to any of several methods proposed in the legislation.

Dr. Jones' argument for the legislation, on behalf of his fellow dentists in the associations he represented, was based on the fact that members of the profession acquire most of their earnings in a relatively few years, and are unable to set aside adequate funds for retirement because of high income taxes during their limited high earning years.

The legislation, which offers partial relief to professionally self-employed, is embodied in two bills now pending in the Congressional committee. Dr. Jones told the committee that the American Dental Association would not object to any amendments designed to make the legislation more workable, just so the objectives could be achieved.
