

Profits From Kiwanis Carnival This Week End Will Be Used For Scholarship Loans To Local Students

The 1952 Kiwanis Scholarship Carnival has a full head of steam and will be ready to go tonight and Saturday night at 7 o'clock. The food booth will be in operation by 6 o'clock if you desire to eat earlier.

The 1952 edition of the Minstrel will be opened at 7:30 each night and the show will be repeated as many times nightly as is required for everyone to see it. The Minstrel this year will be most outstanding. Lester Barrett, the heralded piano player and comedian is being returned by popular demand. A new and most interesting feature will be Buck Jones, who will sing ballads as you've never heard before. There will also be dance acts, a real hillbilly band. Sam Bundy and his colored boys will be sharper than ever with every joke tuned and timed to make you laugh from the waist up.

A special feature this year will be a movie of the 1952 Soap Box Derby held in Akron, Ohio. It will last 30 minutes. The children will love it and the parents will enjoy it.

Vassar Fields promises that the Horror House will be the most frightful thing that has been in this vicinity since the Yankees visited us in the sixties. He has slept with one eye open ever since he thought of the ideas he will use this year.

And just as a reminder, the train, ponies, and bingo, will again be there. So will half a dozen games of skill, gallons of healthful lemonade, a lot of exhibits, all of which add up to a lot of fun for everyone. With another boy and girl going to college for a year as the result.

Farmville Football Team Preparing For Norlina Game

Farmville high school football team has been hard at work preparing for the opening game against Norlina tonight. The game will be played at Warrenton. The team has been scrimmaging most of the week with light workouts and checking of plays on Thursday.

The team has shown plenty of spirit and is eagerly awaiting the opening contest. A real battle has been going on for the center position between Wilbur Rollins and Jack Allen. Keen competition for guard positions has been in evidence also. The team welcomed Frank Moore, another letterman back from service, on Tuesday night. Frank was a starting guard on the 1950 football team.

Morale is good, and the boys have been hustling. The backs have been running hard in scrimmage with the line going down field for blocks. Charlie Fitzgerald, quarterback, has been running the team very well and has been mixing the attack up. The passing has been a bright spot. Farmville is expected to fill the air with passes on Friday and then mix in the running plays.

The probable starting line-up will find Tommy Norville at left end; Freddy Thorne or Tull Taylor at right end; Billy Shackelford and Jess Spencer at the tackle position, guards will be William Allen or Mark Owens and Carroll Wooten. Billy Baker will see some action also. The center will be either Wilbur Rollins or Jack Allen. In the backfield, Charlie Fitzgerald will be at quarterback, Sigbee Dilda at fullback, and Jess Joyner and Teddy Allen at halfback.

Many others will see action to determine what they can do. Some of these are Frank Moore, Jack Sawyer, and Stanley Tyson, backs; Jack Lewis, B. F. Bateman, Glenn Bundy, linemen. It is hoped that all the members will receive the opportunity to enter the game and gain experience.

Two Storage Houses Owned By Davis Heirs Total Fire Loss

Two storage houses owned by F. M. Davis, Sr., heirs and located adjacent to Farmville Oil and Fertilizer company, on the corner of Pine and Fields streets, were burned Sunday at noon. At the time that the fire was discovered, both houses were a fire and well underway. Local firemen answered the call and were on duty all the afternoon with some members aiding the owners during the night and through Monday.

Hay was stored in one house and lime in the other. The nature of the contents caused the fire to smolder for a long time. There was no insurance coverage and what is left of the buildings will have to be torn down making it a complete loss.

Two empty freight cars belonging to the Norfolk and Southern Railway, on a track between the buildings, were burned.

The firemen did a good job of preventing the burning of other buildings in the area.

NO PARKING AREA

The south side of Grimmersburg street, between Main and Contentines, has been designed as a no parking zone by the Town Commissioners, and signs to that effect have been posted on the street. The police department has been ordered to see that the new zone is kept free of parked cars.

At The Rotary Club

Practically all obstacles in the way of bringing Grade A Television into Eastern North Carolina have been removed, said Hartwell Campbell, manager of WGTC, as he addressed the Rotary Club last night. Campbell, who has been the keynote figure in the organization and bringing about WGTC-TV, in an informative manner outlined the progress that has been made and gave a history, from the layman's viewpoint, of what has taken place since the FCC ban on station construction in September, 1948.

On April 14, 1952, a new system of allocations was ushered in, and on May 14, 1952, the Carolina Broadcasting System, WGTC, filed its application with the FCC. Sometime later an acknowledgment was received. Although Greenville was advised that its application occupied the 821st place in the list of applications presented for approval, by one reason or another it has now moved to 92nd and Campbell stated it should receive final approval along about Thanksgiving.

Channel 9 VHF has been assigned to the station and it will operate with a video power of 100,000 watts. All the equipment has been purchased and delivery will be made when needed.

A 574 foot tower will be erected at Frog Level, approximately 9 miles from Farmville, just off Highway 262, and the plans are to enlarge the present studios of Station WGTC. Personnel of WGTC will attend a technical school at Camden, N. J., so that they will become fully acquainted with the transmitting equipment before it is shipped to Farmville. The station will begin operations with one camera, thereby enabling it to televise local talent, etc., and this incorporated with programs of the networks, will make for a well balanced schedule of programs.

The speaker was presented by Cleveland Paylor, program chairman for the evening.

Paul Ewell received the attendance prize.

Club president Charlie Rasberry presided.

However he stated that the committee had not yet given up the possibility of the tournament. Dr. A. W. Smith, Jr., chairman of the Bloodmobile, reported that all committees were carrying out their work and he was expecting a most successful visit of the Bloodmobile.

Right Key In Wrong Car Causes Grand Mix-Up

An automobile key which fits two Pontiacs, about 10 years apart from the standpoint of models, caused a grand mix-up here early this week and almost started a search for a stolen car that wasn't stolen at all.

It all started when Preston Lockamy, who lives near Farmville, went to Clifton Corbett and asked permission to use Corbett's car for an urgent visit to the home of Stewart Joyner. Corbett handed him the key to his Pontiac and told him it was parked under the trees near the bus station. Lockamy crawled into a Pontiac sedan, fitted the key into the switch, started the car and was off. But the car belonged to Annie Laurie Joyner, beautiful, and sister of Stewart Joyner. When Lockamy arrived at the Joyner home, Stewart remarked that the car was just like his sister's, but Lockamy was insistent that it belonged to Clifton Corbett. On his return to Farmville, Lockamy parked the car in another spot, placed the key over the sun visor, and told Corbett where the car was.

The grand confusion started late that afternoon when Corbett went to his car, reached for the key but found none, and the beautiful went to the spot where she had left her automobile. Failing to find it, she notified authorities but the affair was straightened out with Lockamy's help.

More Prospective Blood Donors Needed for Red Cross Bloodmobile's Second Farmville Visit, Tuesday

At The Kiwanis Club

Rev. R. G. Hanes, pastor of Greenville Christian Church, talked to the Kiwanis club Monday night about a school he attended at Yale University this summer, which had as its aim finding the best method of coping with the alcoholic problem. Rev. Hanes was the guest of Charles Quinary, program chairman. Dr. Hanes stated that the different tests were conducted, without reaching conclusions—the students were allowed to draw their own—but that he was of the opinion that total abstinence was the only effective way of coping with the problem.

Stewart McKel of Greensboro was the guest of his father-in-law, Jake Fields.

Alex Allen, Charles Edwards and others talked about the Kiwanis Carnival, and urged that the club cooperate wholeheartedly again this year.

Charles reminded the club that through money raised in the Carnival students had been given a total of nine years of college. The money is loaned to the students, repayable when they complete their schooling and become wage-earners.

Farmville Upsets Ormandville And Wins League Title

They said it couldn't happen. But it did.

They are the baseball fans, a majority of them, who have been following the fortunes of the Bright Leaf League this season. The "couldn't happen" to which they referred was Farmville's victory over Ormandville in the play-off series.

Farmville wrapped up the series, title and all, last Saturday night with a 4-0 victory in a game that was typical of the six-game series.

James Hardison, who comes from Farm Life High School near Plymouth and will enter Wake Forest this month, pitched a brilliant game, allowing seven hits but keeping them so well scattered that in only one inning, the eighth, was Ormandville able to get more than one. In that stanza, Little led off with a single, Macklin flied out to Paul Gay in right field, and Barry Jones slashed a single through the infield, with Little holding up at second base. Hardison then struck out Norman Clark, the most dangerous batsman in the league, and Tommy Cole luffed an easy fly to Shortstop Bill Kennedy. Wildness is usually Hardison's weakness, but he walked only two men in the game, both of those walks coming in the fifth inning. They created a threat that was wiped out by a fast double play—from Kennedy to Webb to Sanderson.

Farmville's runs came in the first inning. With two men away, Streeter Tugwell walked, Ralph Britt and Kennedy singled safely, Cole around Piedmont's ball, and George Gansell hit to left safely. Sanderson flied out to left field, ending the inning. For the remainder of the game, Gansell Little, hurrying for the visitors, was well high invincible. He allowed only two hits the final eight innings. These were garnered by Tugwell and Webb.

With one out in the ninth inning, Jimmy Byrd started what looked like an Ormandville rally when he tripled to right center field. However, Manager Pete Piastak of Farmville called the umpire's attention to the fact that Byrd was betting out of order, and he was called out. It developed that Byrd, Clark and Russell had been betting out of order the entire game. The Farmville manager knew what had taken place, but was waiting until one of them had hit safely before calling the umpire's attention to the foul-up in the betting order.
