Cotton acreage in Pink Hill considerably increased.

Henry Dunn is building a new house on Caswell street, next to Disciples church.

The festival this week planned out about $70 net for the young ladies engaged in it.

Mrs. E. F. Cox and Mrs. N. Staley can boast of two of the earliest and prettiest gardens in town.

Judge Gilmer drove out to view his old battle ground on Thursday afternoon to feed on memories of the past.

Windall Taylor was convicted of horse stealing on Thursday and has been sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Major Andrews, with a corps of engineers, commenced the survey of the proposed railroad from Kinston to Snow Hill, Wilson and Greenville on Thursday.

Miss Jennie Rountree of Brooklyn is visiting Mrs. A. J. Loftin at this place. She has been visiting friends in Charlotte.

Wheat and oats are heading out near town. Your correspondent saw wheat heads on the last day of April. Pretty early, is it not?

Eq. James Herring, who married Miss Helen South side of the river, has had a very happy wedding.

Mr. Jesse Loftin, a young and promising Kinstonian, goes to Wilson next week to direct the brick work in some new stone and concrete to Mr. Williams.

Mr. Hazel Ives, who has been in Kinston for some time, now it will take about 150 tons.

The skating rink is in full blast in Kinston, and is "all the go," just now. A person can see more of the "ups and downs" of life there in one evening than elsewhere in a month.

Colonel Yates and Captain Andrews, Acting Superintendent of the Midland Railroad, were in town on Monday on their way to visit the surveying corps on the Snow Hill road. The engineers have gone over eight or nine miles.

The Magistrate and County Commissioners met in joint session on Monday, and elected J. M. Mawborn to the Inferior Court in place of W. F. Loftin, who died about two months ago; and James J. Joyner, Superintendent of Public Instruction. Both excellent selections.

The Disciples Sunday School has procured four passenger coaches for plowing, and will go to Riverdale on Friday. The coaches are just below New Berne, where the Clara Fiber Company are at work, and will be interesting to the grown people as well as the children.

Kinston is a good place for a working man. Mr. E. M. Hodges, who moved here about a month ago and opened a carriage and buggy shop near the depot is overjoyed with work and has been trying to hire additional workmen. He promises to put on a "big" show for the present, but he will not need one.

Mr. A. Slaughter of Goldsboro has rented one of the S. H. Loftin brick stores and is opening up a stock of general merchandise. Some of the boys, who have visited Goldsboro of late years, say that if he keeps as good a store as did that town, he will be sure to slaughter a good pile of Kinston money.

Some of the people on the route of the surveying party of Mr. Best's Snow Hill railroad think the survey is equivalent to a road, and are busy fixing the route and stations. Adam Bright (col.) on the Snow Hill road, when it was proposed to run the road by Mr. F. G. Taylor and the Dr. Hartfield place, is said to have exclaimed: "Laws a massy, 'it will never do to run it through that poor country. Why, it would go right through Downtown!'" Adam evidently thinks "Bright's" Cross Roads is the place for the depot.

Messrs. Miller & Canady have had one of their foundry, a lot of iron pipes to be placed around the monument erected in the Cemetery over the Confederate dead. They are cast in the shape of cannon and make a suggestive and suitable protection. The enterprise shown by the firm of Miller & Canady is worth a great deal to Kinston. In addition to keeping a general assortment of hardware their new addition of the foundry is destined to prove of great benefit. It is a great convenience to the public and we hope will prove remunerative to its owners.

AN INGENUOUS GATE.—Mr. Midaugh, of Pennsylvania, has been exhibiting a model of an ingenious and useful contrivance, called "The Champion Entrance Gate." Any person on horseback, in a buggy or other vehicle, can open and shut the gate, going in either direction without any difficulty and without stopping. It is a great saving of time and labor. The gate is of easy construction and inexpensive, and is invaluable for a farm gate, and for a gate around public high ways. The rights to use and construct this gate for Lenoir and Jones counties has been purchased by Nathan Stanly of Kinston.

Who ever heard of a lawyer paying out money for clients? Last week, two young attorneys at this Bar paid out fifty dollars for one of their clients. They had stood the bond of a colored gentleman for his appearance at Court, and at the proper time their gentleman failed to come to time. Upon intimation from Judge Gilmer that the Bond would be held strictly to account the attorneys commenced stirring, hired a private detective and sent him on the way. Before court adjourned the detective returned with his prisoner, pocketed fifty dollars, and the unfortunate colored gentleman went in jail. [Thank the Lord, Mr. Noah Allen of La Grange, will say when he reads this item.]

As I have told a joke on some of the Kinston lawyers, it will be well enough to talk of their good qualities a little. The bar here numbers six, and, con-

New Berne Items.

Strawberries sell at 124 cents per quart.

Five sturgeons were on the market wharf last evening at one time. A pair of the largest—about equal to a barrel of pork—sold for $17.75.

The steamer New Berne carried out yesterday twenty-five or thirty bales of clare fibre. A community that exports manufactured goods is bound to prosper in the end.

Mr. J. L. Lincoln of Pamlico, who was in the city yesterday, says a large acre of rice has been planted this spring. He thinks the acreage is somewhat increased over last year.

Mr. JAMES A. ERNST of Little Swift Creek on yesterday morning of Paralysis.

A Large Shad. Mr. G. N. Ives received a roe shad five days ago which weighed 7 pounds. He says it was the largest he had ever seen in this market.

The Convicts. Messrs. F. G. Simmons and C. E. Foy left for Raleigh yesterday to look after the convicts for Quaker Bridge road. Mr. Simmons, the Chairman of the Commissioners of said road, received a letter from Warden Hicks last Saturday asking him to come up and select the hands for the road.

Cost of the New Jail. At the meeting of the board of county commissioners on Tuesday, the chairman submitted an account of $5,596.66 for constructing the new jail. Commissioners Biddle, Mallison and Latham were appointed a committee to audit said account which they did in the presence of the Board.

The County Line. W. A. Jones, county surveyor of Jones county, was in the city yesterday and says he has completed the running of the county lines between Craven, Jones and Lenoir. By his survey Craven loses one tax payer—transferred to Jones—Jones loses three or four tenant houses on the Heath plantation which go to Lenoir.

New Court House. The county commissioners had before them a beautiful drawing of a new court house; but the plan has not been adopted yet. The board adjourned to meet on Saturday next to consider a proposition from the Trustees of the New Berne Academy for the sale of the lot now occupied by the police station, said lot if purchased by the board will be the site for the new court house.

War Reminiscences. We give in another column a list of the officers and privates of Co. D., 27th Regiment North Carolina troops in the Civil War. It will materially aid Major Moore in his Roster of State Troops, if others will follow the example here set and put on record their recollections of the "boys in gray." It will give us much pleasure to publish in the JOURNAL a similar list of all companies from this section of the State.

Jute. Mr. Elphinstone returned yesterday from Bay River in company with Dr. Abbott of Vandemere. Arrangements have about been completed to get the 300 acres planted in jute and Mr. Elphinstone hurries home to send on the seed. He furnishes the seed, waits till the fall for his money, and is willing to contract to pay $3.00 per ton for all jute raised. Dr. Abbott says he cultivated three acres of it last year and made on best land about 30 tons to the acre; and on some extremely poor land, with a little fertilization, 15 tons.

Jute Industry. We met on Saturday Mr. F. M. Elphinstone, of Newark, N. J., on his way to Pamlico county, to make an effort to get the farmers to plant Jute. Mr. Elphinstone will erect a Jute Factory on Bay River by the fall provided he can get three hundred acres planted. Good land will produce from 20 to 30 tons per acre, worth $3 per ton in its green state. This will pay handsomely for the crop costs no more to make than a corn crop, and is easy to house.

Mr. W. H. Oliver deserves much credit in getting up this enterprise. He has been hammering at it for years, and if it does come will prove of great benefit to this section. Everything is booming for a prosperous future for this county.

In the Enemy's Camp. A JOURNAL reporter, coming from Kinston yesterday, noticed a wagon, buggy, mules and other implements for the surveying party of the Midland Railway on the proposed Snow Hill and Greenville Railroad. On arriving at New Berne ye reporter, meeting Col. Yates and Major Andrews in the Central Hotel omnibus, inquired courteously about the survey. Col. Yates: "Don't know anything about it. Write to Mr. McClane at Goldsboro and maybe he will tell you something about it. I'll tell you one thing, we'll survey no route from Kinston. We have no information to give you. We pay our own money and keep our own secrets. Isn't that right, Mr. Andrews?" Captain Andrews: "Yes, especially when you are in the enemy's camp."

JOURNAL Reporter: "I don't see why you regard us as enemies." Captain Andrews: "I don't see how we can regard you as anything else." Col. Yates: Don't you think it would be a good idea to drive all the capital out of the country?" Capt. Andrews: "Especially Yankee capital."

NOTE.—The JOURNAL is a newspaper, with opinions of its own on all live issues. It is inimical to no one and is no worthy enterprise; neither is it the organ of any person, clique or corporation. The lease by Mr. Rest of the A. & N. C. Railroad had in it a firm supporter, as its files will show, but yet it does not hesitate to characterize some of Mr. Rest's plans as visionary, as lacking in good judgment and as destined to failure. We would like it to be always understood that the JOURNAL has no friend that it will support contrary to what it deems right; nor does it ever expect to have an enemy whom it will attack for interested or personal motives.

The Greenback Speaking.

Hon. G. Harper, chairman of the National Greenback party, accompanied by Col. John R. Winston of our State Executive Committee, reached this city on Saturday, and delivered addresses in the Theatre at 11 in the day, and again in the Court House at night.

In an interview with Col. Winston we learn that it is the intention of the Greenbackers to run a Congressman-at-large, and indeed a full ticket, in the State in the coming campaign. On being asked if this would not probably hurt the Democrats worse than the Republicans, he replied in the negative, and stated that, in his canvass for Congress two years ago in Scales' district, he drew more from the Republican ranks than from their opponents—but that the Greenbackers had nothing to do with that should be hurt; they were building on the reason and good judgment of the people.

On assembling at the Theatre Col. Winston introduced in a short, ringing five minutes speech, the HON. JESSE HARPER, of Illinois. The speaker has not a very prepossessing appearance, but he improves while on his feet, and his speech commands close attention, both as to matter and manner. With a good command of language, and with a happy faculty of grouping facts for a definite end in view, he almost forces conviction even where one disagrees with his theories. We have not room to report his speech, but it was well worth listening to.

The speech in the morning was calculated to raise alarm concerning the present system, and was directed towards pulling down rather than in building up. At night the true theory of Greenbackism was explained and illustrated. The Greenback theory has many attractions that would draw to it followers and advocates only for the strong party ties already held by the people. If a disruption of old parties should ever come, it is still problematical whether or not the Greenbackers can build up as well as tear down.

New Berne Industries. Occasionally we drop in to one of the many places of industries in this city—and right here we wish to say that we are surprised at the amount of manufacturing done here. We have already visited the Rice Mill of Mr. Elijah Ellis, which has a capacity of cleaning about four hundred bushels per day, and has already made a good market for rough rice, and the extensive Wood Plate Factory of Captain S. H. Gray, which will soon be turning out one hundred thousand plates per day, and employing over one hundred hands. Yesterday we visited Major Dennison's COTTON SEED OIL MILL, and were shown through by the Major himself. He perhaps gives more seed cotton than any other ginner in the State. His machinery is driven by a 75 horse power engine, using a 120 boiler. The seed first pass through a screen on the lower floor, which takes out the sand, sticks, rocks or any other trash, and are then carried by an elevator to the huller on the upper floor. After the hulling they go through a screen which separates the hull from the meat, the hull being blown out to one side, which are sold for $3 per ton, while the meat drops into a barrel below. The meat or germ is then taken to the press room and passed between two rollers, which mashes them perfectly fine. They are then thrown into the heater and kept twenty minutes and then go to the press—a certain quantity being put into each sack by simply turning a lever, and the sack placed into the press. There are three presses in operation now, and have the capacity of using about two tons of seed an hour. The oil goes from the presses into two large tanks, where it remains to settle, a pipe through which the exhausted steam passes keeping it hot. After it settles it is drawn off into barrels and shipped in its crude state.

"How many hands have you at work now, Major?" "I have about ten at this business at present."

"Does it pay?" "I hope to make it pay. Have not been running long enough to say—took a large amount of money to put in the machinery. If I had ten of those presses and material to work on I could make money. I have put these in to use in connection with my gin, so as to enable me to pay higher prices for seed cotton."

"What is this?" turning to a pile of honeycomb looking stuff to one side. "That is the oil cake, which is ground up and fed to stock."

"Well, the raw cotton seed are good for feeding stock, and they are a splendid fertilizer; are they damaged in this manner?" by this process; if so, to what extent?" "The manure value is not decreased at all, for the oil is not a manure, and the cake is a better food for stock than raw seed; so it will pay a farmer to let me take the oil out of his seed, no matter whether he wants to use them as feed or manure."

"What is the yield per ton?" "About twenty-five or thirty gallons."

"What is the oil used for?" "I learn that it is now used as an article of food; after going through a process of refining it is used for lard, and I understand it is hard to detect it from real hog's lard."

"What is the oil worth per gallon?" "In its crude state about thirty or forty cents."

We left the oil mill, thoroughly convinced that here is another institution that will, as it is extended, be a source of profit to the whole community; and, furthermore, we were impressed with the fact that it is an investment of Yankee capital that no one wishes to drive away.

The Major is an enterprising man. He has bought the old depot building, torn it down, and will use the lumber in making room for cotton next fall.

WALKER & MILL'S TOBACCO FACTORY. These gentlemen began this business in 1874. They now use a hydraulic Press—500 tons pressure—which runs four plug presses; and they have four box screws worked by lever power. They manufacture from ten to fifteen grades and can put up from five to six hundred pounds per day, employing from thirty to thirty-five hands.

"Where do you get your tobacco?" "We get it sometimes from Durham but generally at points along the Raleigh & Gaston Road. Tobacco is quite high; here is a quality we generally pay about 10 cents for, but now we have to pay 20 cents, owing to the drought and frost of last season."

"How about tobacco raised in this section?" "We can't make the weed down here but can't make the quality. To make fine tobacco requires light soil highly manured."

MR. EDITOR:—A correspondent of the News and Observer, "A," asks where a number of the Governors of North Carolina were born and among them Governor Spaight. I presume, of course, he means the elder Spaight, who, I can inform him, was born in the town of Newbern on the lot on the southeast corner of Broad and Craven streets, and on which now stands the handsome residence of Alexander H. Holton, Esq. Would "A" now oblige us by letting us know how many native North Carolinians were ever Governors of Virginia.

Pamlico Items.

The farmers are having a pretty rough time for their work, the reason being an overplus of wet weather. The lower part of our county was almost deluged last Thursday evening with rain and hail. One of the sufferers told me he had never in his life witnessed such large hail stones and the quantity was equal to the size, and on Saturday we had another heavy waterfall. All combined makes farming rather wet.

It seems to be gaining ground that the Second District in justice is entitled to the expression of opinion, and if that should be conceded all that I have spoken with in our section are decidedly in favor of Major John Hughes of your city. If there is a man more suitable in the District or in the State the Democrats of Pamlico would like to be posted as to who is the man.

But unless we can have a change in our mail facilities it would be a hard matter for any man in this section to ever hope to be posted on the subject, notwithstanding we have a daily mail that is wrong—a daily mail carrier instead of a mail. On the 8th day of March last the mail bag was sent from New Berne's good as empty (so it has been a time or two since) but upon complaint, Mr. Hubbs, the Postmaster in New Berne, endeavored to put the blame upon the Postmaster at Grantsboro, and Saturday last the mail arrived at our place void of even a newspaper, and on inquiry Mr. Brinson, the mail carrier, states that the Jones county mail was sent to us and stopped at Grantsboro, and he further states that he could form no idea of what had become of our mail, whether it had been sent to Hades or some other seaport. Now what I want to know is whether Mr. Hubbs should be kept in the office at New Berne under such miserable management, when I am aware of the fact that you have Republicans in your place that would discharge their duty promptly as has been heretofore; I will state one, Mr. E. R. Dudley; though he is a little colored, I am sure if he had charge of the office in your place we would have no more such troubles. All we want is our mail, not an empty bag nor Jones county mail.

Swansboro Items.

A heavy fall of rain and considerable hail, accompanied by a severe wind—almost a tornado—visited this section last week, which did some damage to the crops. Luckily the hardest winds did not strike the crops and fences of the farmers or they would have been blown to atoms, as the severe winds twisted the trees to pieces and filled the air with limbs, leaves, and pieces of wood for miles around.

Mr. Nathan Gorman and Mr. A. Farrell think they will have to plant some of their cotton crop over again, but the weather is fine now, and everything looks well considering the snap, etc. All are done planting, and their crops look well. Mr. Farrell is chopping cotton—the first one, I believe. By the way, he has some fine stock in the shape of hogs, cattle and sheep. He lately sheared five head of sheep, and realized 45 pounds of fine wool. Four of the five were ewes; one was a ram, from which he got 131 pounds of good fine wool. They were what Mr. Farrell called the Cotswold half breed stock. I think this will do very well for wool gathering in this or any other State.

The sheep are two years old. I also saw belonging to Dr. E. W. Ward, which is certainly a fine specimen of the bovine tribe. Dr. Ward is a lively, wide-awake farmer; he has also some fine breeds of hogs; so has E. W. Fonville, A. J. Hurst, Jr., L. O. Fonville, and others in this part of the county. Marion, the merchant, is also in the farming business. He has a fish, fishery, oyster garden, and store all combined in a small compass; that is, being near the river with his store he can attend to all of them in a very short time with very little help. He has a vessel of his own running regularly to Wilmington and Baltimore, where he buys his goods, and he is doing a good business.

We have good preaching in the neighborhood every two weeks. Rev. Mr. Leary, Baptist minister (Missionary), and Rev. Mr. Warlick, Methodist minister, Circuit preacher, are good speakers; and have large audiences at their appointments. Hope to be able to send a large list of new accessions to the churches soon.

Jones County Items.

Commissioners Court to-day. Not many people present.

The town election came off to-day Messrs. J. P. Broglen, G. T. Cable and Louis Daniels were elected town commissioners. We expect the new board to perform these duties with renewed vigor and determination.

Mr. Fred Street, formerly of New Berne but now of Va, who recently married in that State was in town last week on a visit to his sister Mrs. Chas. Greene.

Union meeting at Deep Spring a Disciples church a few miles from here, last Saturday and Sunday nights a large and intelligent congregation were present.

ent. Rev. Mr. Bowen preached an able and eloquent sermon Sunday.

Mr. Burns a northern capitalist was in this county last week on a prospecting tour. He doubtless has some project in view which will be beneficial to the county.

Dr. Scarbore and Mr. P. M. Pearsell have opened their respective offices in the McDaniel building on Trent street and hold themselves in readiness to render their professional services to the public.

We failed to get our DAILY JOURNAL at this office twice last week. What is the matter? I will speak for myself as well as the public generally that we are highly pleased with your paper; it has given entire satisfaction. The recent editorials have been especially instructive as well as highly entertaining.
