STATE FAIR STICKS TO OLD GROUNDS

Governor Has Plan for Making
Affair Worthwhile as State
Institution.

(Special to The News.)
RALEIGH, June 5.—The North Carolina Agricultural society settled its family row over the location of the state fair by voting to retain the present site at a meeting today.
The cross-roads spot of Method, which has already attracted Meredith college and which, some Raleigh people declare, threatens to get the state capital and all the other public institutions located here, lost out on the fair grounds after three hours had been spent in wrangling and squabbling over a variety of subjects ranging from legal technicalities to Raleigh business conditions.

The 70-odd acres in the present site will receive the addition of several acres to the rear of the fair grounds, and this, the society decided today, will be sufficient to meet demands of a growing institution for 50 years to come.
Governor Morrison in 15 minutes offered a plan, adopted by the society with applause, that is expected to do more towards guaranteeing the expansion of the fair than all the three hours of debating over going to Method and then some.
Heretofore, the society has lived through the sessions of the general assembly in fear and trembling for the little $1,500 appropriation it has been receiving. With backing from the governor, however, and a concrete plan for going after aid in a business like way, the next legislature will be called upon for real, effective assistance in making the fair a statewide proposition instead of the usual central counties exhibit of farm products.
At the governor's suggestion, a committee of seven will be appointed to confer with the department of agriculture and make a survey of the needs of the fair, give study as to its possibilities as an agricultural stimulant and suggest needed assistance for its proper support. It will confer with the budget commission and then the general assembly will be called upon for financial aid of a real substantial character.

Col. Benahan Cameron wanted the governor to pledge himself to include in his annual message the recommendation for state assistance, but the governor preferred that he be privileged to use his own "methods" in getting the subject before the solons.
The governor's motion for the appointment of the committee and the suggested plan was accompanied by a short speech on the purposes of the agricultural society. He thought it ought to do more towards carrying out its general objects rather than centering so much on the fair.
There should be agricultural societies in every county in the state.
"I know there are the quasi-political agricultural societies scattered over the state," said the governor, "but there ought to be a real agricultural society in every county to lead and teach the people." He went on to explain that the purpose of the state society is to foster and promote agriculture in every way.

The settlement of the fight on the location and the inauguration of the governor's plan for state aid made today's called meeting one of the most important the society has held. Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt, president of the society, was unable to attend, having been detained at Biltmore because of trouble with her car. Col. Joseph Hyde Pratt presided. Judge June Adams of Asheville, who talked with Mrs. Vanderbilt Saturday, told the society she was neutral on the location fight, and that left the field clear for the three hour battle.

DEATH OF MISS ELIZABETH MOSES
News reached Goldsboro yesterday of the death of Miss Elizabeth Moses of Chapel Hill, who died in an Asheville sanitarium following a prolonged illness.
Miss Moses is the daughter of Mr. E. F. Moses, who resided in Goldsboro several years ago. The entire family was well known and highly esteemed here, where they had often visited since Mr. Moses' active connection with the Goldsboro public schools as superintendent, and Miss Elizabeth's untimely death comes as a genuine blow to those who knew her and loved her. The funeral will be held this afternoon in Chapel Hill.

RATE HEARING BY I. C. C. EXAMINER
Mr. Cassidy Will Sit In Goldsboro Wednesday To Hear Complaint of Royal & Borden.
Examiner Cassidy, representing the Interstate Commerce commission, will be in Goldsboro Wednesday morning to hear the case brought by Royal & Borden against certain railroads to recover overcharges on shipments of cotton linters. He will begin the hearing in the postoffice building at 10 o'clock.
There are five cases, but as the same principle is involved in all, the presumption is that it will be necessary to hear only one. The brief for Royal & Borden was prepared by Mr. R. L. Askew of the traffic department of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce, and the case will be presented and argued by him.
The attorneys of record for the railroads are as follows: James E. Gowan and Henry Wolfe Bickle for the Pennsylvania and Long Island & New York, Pennsylvania & Florida; Frank W. Goodhue and Henry Thurston for the Atlantic Coast Line and the Merchants and Miners Transportation company, and Charles J. Rixey for the Southern.
The contention of the complainants is, briefly, that since the executive order of June 25, 1918, increasing rates, the railroads have improperly classified cotton linters the same as cotton. That by reason of this increase the complainant have already paid some five hundred dollars excessive amounts. This excess they ask be refunded and that cotton linters hereafter be given the true commodity rate to which they are entitled.

A woman asked a jeweler to estimate the cost of repairing a lavalliere. "All right," she said after the price had been named. "I'll bring it back when it gets warmer. I'd take cold if I took it off now."—Toronto Telegram.
Thirty thousand dollars' worth of beer was seized in New York. That much worth of the present kind of beer would be, roughly speaking, about six Pacific oceans.—Life.
"Who is your favorite movie hero also?" "My wife—she sits through them all."—Judge.

It is remarkable how few of the discoverers of deconquerors of the New World died in peace. Columbus died of a broken heart; Balboa was disgracefully beheaded; Cortes was dishonored; Sir Walter Raleigh was beheaded; Pizarro was murdered; Ojeda died in poverty; Henry Hudson was left to the mercy of the Indians along the bay which he discovered.
