

English Steamer Breaks in Two on Great Barrier

The English federal steamer Wiltshire, was recently stranded on the Great Barrier island, off New Zealand. After forty terrible hours the crew was finally brought ashore. During a severe storm while she was stranded the Wiltshire broke in half and so disabled the wireless apparatus, but the crew was able to communicate with the shore by semaphore signaling.

DOG WAS THERE, ALL RIGHT

Train Conductor Quite Mistaken If He Thought Animal Could Not Stand the Pace.

In the early days there was a railroad in Tennessee which allowed its conductors to make their own rules affecting the traveling public. Sometimes one conductor had rules to direct conduct with the other. One of the conductors would permit passengers to take their dogs into the coaches with them. The conductor running opposite would not allow a dog on his train, not even in the baggage car. One day some hunters, returning to the city, met the conductor who would not allow a dog to ride on his train. When the train left the station the dog followed tied to the train, and had no difficulty in keeping up with it. When the conductor saw what was happening he was highly incensed over the disrespect shown to his train. "Watch your old dog when we start down grade," he stormed, "and see what happens to him. You think you are making fun of my train." A little later, when on the down grade, the conductor approached the rear platform and, not seeing the dog, called to the owner: "Now, tell me, please, what has become of your dog?" "Right here," retorted the passenger, pointing to a big hole in the floor of the coach. "See him under there? He just came under the coach to trot along in the shade."—San Francisco Argonaut.

President Austin Calls For Support Of Every Member Of Association

To the Members of the North Carolina Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association:

Your board of directors has completed arrangements for handling your cotton this fall. The very best men it has been possible to find have been employed to sell your cotton.

Your board of directors have considered carefully every step taken in making arrangements. They are confident they have an organization capable of handling every detail of the marketing of the cotton delivered to the association.

As president of your association I want to invite and urge your active cooperation in putting over the biggest economic movement ever undertaken in North Carolina.

While no human organization is perfect, we believe we have as nearly a perfect enterprise for handling the cotton of our members as it is possible to get.

But no matter how perfect may be our selling organization, it will fail to accomplish its highest success unless we have the sympathetic assistance of every member.

With the earnest co-operation of our members, a very imperfect selling organization can accomplish wonders, as was demonstrated in Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippi and other States last year.

If I did not have complete confidence that this association will greatly benefit its members I would not be in it. I know that it is going to accomplish great things for our State and its people. I know that it is the biggest thing that has ever been undertaken in behalf of the cotton growers of North Carolina.

But we must have your help. We must have your loyal support, your active support, to enable this association to render you the best service.

We have placed our shoulder to the wheel; we dare not, we shall not look back, nor shall we turn aside until this job is done. We are near the goal, but there must be no letting up. Rather must we gird up our loins, buckle on our armor, and as free men go forth to battle a square deal to every cotton grower in North Carolina. We can do it, if we will. We will do it. Of this I have no doubt.

W. H. AUSTIN, President.

AUSTIN RECEIVES NO PAY AS COTTON HEAD

President of Growers Co-operative Association Nails Several False Rumors

(Smithfield Observer) Coming to this city twenty-two years ago with but fifteen hundred cotton bale receipts to his credit and sitting back today in his office, which is located in one of the finest buildings in the Carolinas, with over ten thousand bales of cotton to his credit, having been purchased off the streets on the local market this year, is a part of the wonderful success of Mr. W. H. Austin of this city. The other part of the life and success of this man, who in his early days, taught school for a livelihood, is that he is president of the North Carolina Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association, which has recently been organized in this State.

That part of his life, or better still, that of his work, remains to be seen. It will, of course, prove a success as he attained a reputation early in his career as a man who gets results. He has never entered upon anything with as much interest as he has this newly organized association. He is like a young athlete anxious to get into the fray.

Few men have done what W. H. Austin has for the town in which they live. He has built up the local cotton market until it has become one of the best in the cotton belt. There is something else about Willis Austin which many men lack, and that is he has more pep and enthusiasm than any three men in the city. He has civic pride and he is a tireless worker for the building of the town and county. This is what caused the bringing forth of this article.

It is not an easy matter to gain access to the office of W. H. Austin unless it is to discuss farming or problems of that nature. If you want to talk cotton, corn or tobacco, then he is ready to wait and talk to any person white or black. That never makes any difference with this man.

There is a rumor that the Cotton Growers' Association is paying you the handsome salary of $60,000 per year, and there is also another rumor that this salary is just $16,000, but whatever it is, the people of this county want to know it," we told him in opening our interview.

Sitting at his desk as though he never heard a word, Mr. Austin moved slowly and reached for an advertisement which he had on his desk.

"My friend, I have been here this afternoon studying over this paper," he said, turning back of us. "It was clipped from one of the newspapers in this State and has caused me to give it much consideration, and I am glad of this opportunity to answer the question you have just asked me.

"First, I do not draw one penny from the North Carolina Cotton Growers' Association. I have already spent over $1,000 of my own money on trips for the association, and what's more, I have just made arrangements with my banker to finance the clerical forces on my own credit. That is how much I think of the organization.

"I know that there has been a great deal of just such propaganda put out about me in regard to high salary, but I know well who is spreading these reports, and so do you. I want the people to decide which of us we believe in a matter of this kind, I am working for the masses of the farmers and these

SCHOOL OPENING

The different schools will be open Thursday and Friday mornings to enable pupils to settle their book fees, and also enroll new pupils. These matters can be attended to on next Monday, the opening day of school, but there will be considerable congestion the first day. We hope the majority of parents can attend to these matters on the two day mentioned above. Checks for book fees should be made payable to the Goldsboro Public Schools—we prefer payment by check.

The four additional class rooms at Walnut Street will not be ready for several days, so the arrangements we are now making for handling the pupils are only temporary. Transfers will be made as soon as these rooms are completed.

All grammar grade pupils will report at the William Street School. All primary pupils will report to Virginia or Walnut Street, selecting the nearer—excepting those children who live in the extreme northern section of the township. For the convenience of those we will have, temporarily at least, two sections of the first grade and one section of the second at William Street School."

Tablets and pencils for the year are supplied for the primary grades. The supplementary readers will be rented during the year at a cost of approximately ten cents per book. A proportionate book refund will be made on withdrawal from school before the end of the term.
