MR. HUGHES TELLS CLEVELAND PEOPLE OF HARDING'S WORK

Is Astonished At What Has Been Accomplished In So Short Time

REPEATS IDEAS OF FOREIGN POLICY

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 4.—Principles of American foreign policy were described as "simple and readily stated" here tonight by Secretary Hughes, speaking before an election mass meeting in support of the candidacy of Representative Fess for the senate.

"We do not covet any territory anywhere on God's broad earth," Mr. Hughes declared. "We are not seeking a sphere of special economic influence and endeavoring to control others for our aggrandizement. We are not seeking special privileges anywhere at the expense of others. We wish to protect the just and equal rights of Americans everywhere in the world. We wish to maintain equality of commercial opportunity; as we call it, the open door. That is not a derogation of anybody else; the door is just as open to others as it is to us. Equally means equality. It doesn't mean privilege. We desire to see peaceful settlements. We are most desirous to see the world starting again on a sound economic basis, with every people inspired by hope and girded to the highest achievements in the interest of their prosperity. Wherever we have had a chance to promote peaceful settlement in this troubled world we have taken it."

Mr. Hughes called attention to the arbitral adjustment between Panama and Costa Rica; the ratification of the treaty with Columbia; the Chile and Peru negotiations; in the friendly atmosphere of Washington; and the forthcoming Central American armistice conference in Washington as illustrative of the American purpose and effort. At more length he drew the picture of the Washington conference as a limitation of armistice and the paralleling Far Eastern adjustments.

As a result of the general atmosphere of the Washington conference, Mr. Hughes said, China and Japan have found it possible to settle the serious Shantung controversy, although that question was not a part of conference proceedings.

"That settlement," he added, "is now being carried into effect."

No "cry of the afflicted" from any quarter of the world had gone unheeded in America and aid in European economic recuperation had been "lavishly extended," Mr. Hughes said, adding:

"But we cannot change the cherished policies of European states. These policies have their background in history, and have their explanation in national convictions with respect to the requirements of national safety and national aspirations. There is now an intense feeling of nationalism in Europe which is readily explained, and this in each case gives aim to national endeavor and determine national policies as to European questions."

"The American policies to which I have referred will gain nothing by being confused with others. Our potential helpfulness will be diminished and not increased by mixing in matters that are not our concern and becoming parties to controversies, and partisans of interests and ambitions that are not ours. We have a great influence for peace and helpfulness in this world and we propose to preserve it and the best way to preserve it is to maintain our own definite American position, unconfused and unobscured."

Mr. Hughes reviewed the twenty months of President Harding's administration saying he thought it "fair to say that no one would have supposed that as much could be accomplished in that period as has been achieved under the present administration." He added that he was glad of the opportunity of attributing the gains made to the "wise, high-minded, indefatigable and statesmanlike endeavor of the President of the United States." The President, he said, had "given us effective and constitutional leadership."

"What the American people wanted has been done," Mr. Hughes declared, "and they know that the credit is not due to those who have constructed but to those who have helped."

Clawson Williams Winds Up At Fremont

Clawson Williams, Democratic nominee for solicitor for this district, concluded his Wayne county engagements with an address at Fremont last night on which he dealt with the national issues, just as he did briefly in his speech at Grantham's store yesterday afternoon, and at Mt. Olive Friday. Col. A. C. Davis preceded Mr. Williams, making a vigorous speech.

NOVEMBER 15 WILL BE AYCOCK DAY HERE

Board Appoints That Day By Unanimous Vote—Langston to Address Teachers

November 15 has been selected as Aycock Memorial Day by the trustees of the Goldsboro graded schools, it was stated last night by George Kornegay and Col. J. D. Langston, members of the board. Captain N. A. O'Berry who was appointed to select the speaker selected Colonel Langston. The day here will be more generally celebrated than any of the national holidays, due to the reverence with which Aycock is held by his home folks here, overtopping his State-wide and national fame as a leader in education. The legislature is to be asked soon to make the day a State holiday.

The board by a motion and unanimous adoption set that day, and request that all the schools of the county thereafter observe in some fitting and proper manner, the day, in commemoration of the virtues and the great constructive work done for the public schools of the state, by the late and lamented Charles B. Aycock.

On that day all the teachers of the city will meet in the auditorium of the graded school and be told of the life work of Governor Aycock by Colonel Langston, with the idea that they will use this as a part of their history instruction. Another phase of the day is that it will stimulate interest in the unveiling of the monument to Governor Aycock, which is soon to occupy the plot beside that of Charles Duncan McIver in the capitol square at Raleigh.

TWO GOLDSBORO MEN IN FRESHMEN GAME

Rackley For State and Griffin For Carolina When Teams Meet At Tarboro Nov. 10

TARBORO, N. C., Nov. 4.—All arrangements are being perfected for the annual football game between the freshmen teams of North Carolina State College and the University of North Carolina which will be played here on next Friday afternoon, November 10.

Reports from the rival camps say that both teams will line up for this important game in the pink of condition. There have been no serious injuries to the State squad and of the injured on the University squad all will be ready for this game with the possible exception of Fullback Gold. Gold has a badly wrenched knee as the result of scrimmages on the Hill and it may be that he cannot get into the game. However, Underwood, the star back of the championship Fayetteville team of last year has been showing well at fullback since Gold's injury and will in all probability start the game for the Little Tar Heels.

This game should prove one of the best played in the State this year and there are many who think that it will be even harder fought than the fair week game between the Varsity of the two institutions. The first year teams at both Chapel Hill and West Raleigh are composed of experienced high school and prep-school men and at both places the first year teams compare favorably with the Varsity as to weight and size. Those who like a real football game with neither team asking or giving quarter should see this game next Friday.

The fans in Eastern Carolina will have the opportunity of seeing several of their home town boys in action in this game. Rocky Mount fans will see Bradwell and Spiers on the Carolina squad and Johnson and Herring on the State squad. Goldsboro people will see Rackley on the State team and Griffin in the backfield for the Carolina freshmen. New Bern enthusiasts will see the two Foy boys on the Carolina bench and Summerell on the State side. Fans from Oxford will see Mitchell on the State squad while "Billy" Devin, captain and quarter-back, will lead the youngsters from Chapel Hill. Tarboro people will see Mayo at end for the State team and Denson, A., at half-back and Nash at end for the Carolina freshmen. From other sections there are other men on both squads and the fans from the east will be proud of the work done by the "home town" boys on both teams.

Army Fliers Lost In Fog and Killed

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 4.—The bodies of Lieutenants Millyard and Garland, of Fort Bliss, which were killed when their plane in which they were flying from Washington to El Paso crashed to earth today at Clinton, La., were resting tonight in a local establishment. The airplane was demolished and the bodies of the two aviators badly mangled. The aviators are believed to have lost their way in a heavy fog and when attempting to make a landing probably misjudged the distance to the ground.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS ARMISTICE DAY HOLIDAY

RALEIGH, Nov. 4.—Governor Morrison today issued a proclamation calling upon the people of North Carolina to observe Saturday, November 11, as a legal holiday, in commemoration of the signing of the Armistice, November 11, 1918, when "Prussianism yielded to democracy, and victory perched upon the banners of those who had enlisted in the cause of humanity."

"I call upon the people of our State," the governor said, "to observe the day in appropriate manner, and not in the spirit of haughty pride, but with a sense of profound gratitude to Almighty God, ruler of the world's destinies."

CHARGE THAT CO-OP. ARE BULLING COTTON

Textile World Suggests Investigation of Their Activities by Congressional Committee

RALEIGH, Nov. 4.—That the cotton co-operatives are recognized as a factor in the cotton trade is indicated by a recent editorial in The Textile World, which suggests that an investigation of their activities be made by the Congressional committee appointed to look into the operations of the cotton exchanges. The editorial was given prominence in a recent issue of the Boston Transcript. Exception is taken by The Textile World to the alleged financing by the War Finance Corporation. As a matter of fact no money has been advanced to the North Carolina co-operatives by the government, although a tentative agreement was made to loan the Tar Heel co-operatives ten million dollars and so far as can be learned here no other Southern cotton co-operatives have had to call on the War Finance Corporation for a loan.

The editorial from The Textile World follows:

"The investigation of the cotton exchanges, authorized by a resolution introduced at the last session of Congress by Senator Smith, of South Carolina, should be extended to include the operations of the State marketing associations. The Staple Cotton Growers' Association of Mississippi and the eight State co-operatives that are linked up in the American Cotton Growers' Exchange were loaned more than fifty million dollars by the War Finance Corporation for the ostensible purpose of aiding them in marketing their cotton in an orderly manner. To date the co-operatives' interpretation of orderly marketing is a holding movement involving more than two million bales of cotton."

"It is common knowledge among cotton shippers, brokers, and mill buyers that the 'Staple Trust' has been holding its cotton two to four cents above the actual market, and that the co-operatives included in the American Cotton Growers' Exchange have been demanding one to one and a half cents above the market for shorter staple cottons that are handled by them. The legitimacy of such a selling policy is not questioned; in fact the organization of growers to make possible such orderly marketing of the staple has been advocated in these columns. Naturally, however, we had assumed that such a plan would be privately financed and that it would not be allowed to develop into a deliberate attempt to bull the market."

"The cotton exchanges will welcome the clean bill of health that the Congressional investigation is reasonably certain of giving them, and no doubt the cotton co-operatives will welcome a similar opportunity to refute the charge that they are making illegitimate use of government money. The War Finance Corporation has ample powers to conduct the latter investigation if the Congressional committee should feel it to be outside of its province, and the time to undertake such an investigation is while the selling season is at its height."

Wake Forest Beats Guilford in Tennis

WAKE FOREST, Nov. 4.—Wake Forest won a complete victory here over Guilford College yesterday in the first intercollegiate contest in tennis this season. The Old Gold and Black racketeers showed excellent form and had little trouble in winning from the visitors. The tournament consisted of four matches, two single and two double.

In the singles Carlyle Stringfield, (captain) for Wake Forest, defeated Winn and Morrison, (captain) of Guilford, 6-3, 6-3, and 6-0, 6-2 respectively. Stringfield and Carlyle defeated Morrison and Evelyn 6-1, 6-4 in doubles, while Graham and Blount, of Wake Forest, won from Winn and Joyce of Guilford 6-4, 6-4. The playing of Captains Stringfield and Morrison was brilliant, but the work of Stringfield was more consistent.

Bantam Champion Joe Lynch has been barred from Madison Square Garden until he can show better boxing than he displayed in his last bout in the big arena.

SECOND PAYMENT OF CASH TO GROWERS IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Monday Week Is Day Set and Three North Carolina Counties Are Included

MONEY COMES FROM SALES ENTIRELY

FLORENCE, S. C., Nov. 4.—The second cash payment to members of the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association in South Carolina and the border markets in three North Carolina counties is to begin on Monday, November 13, according to a statement given out here tonight following a conference of association officials. This second payment, it is pointed out, will put all growers in this territory on an equal basis those who made early deliveries, before advance payments were increased, receiving checks covering the difference between first advances in addition to the amount of the second payment. Checks already made out are to be distributed only on presenting participation certificates at the towns where these receipts were issued.

Arrangements are being made to distribute checks, drawn on local banks, at co-operative warehouses or at central offices located at each of forty markets. Holders of assigned receipts are requested to present them at place of issue. J. H. Craig, treasurer of the association, states that the cash for this second payment comes entirely from sales of tobacco grown in South Carolina and the border counties of North Carolina, and not from sales of tobacco from Virginia or the old or new belts of North Carolina nor from money borrowed from banks. So far the association has not borrowed any of the thirty-million loan approved by the War Finance Corporation. Directors attending today's meeting included, J. A. Brown, Bright Williamson, T. B. Young, and E. C. Epps.

COTTON GOES TO 26C ON LOCAL MARKET

Unprecedented Prices Here and in South Carolina in Past Two Years

Spot cotton brought 26 cents on the local market here yesterday and Friday, which is the highest price it has brought since the peak of 1920 and 1919. Local buyers, particularly E. G. Thompson, have been busy making their own estimates in which they have far more confidence than the figures put out of Washington; they have faith in the market; and they have been buying. Upon the government's issuance of its report that the world's cotton crop would be about the same as it was last year Mr. Thompson said he had his "own opinion about that."

Anyway, the local market is up to prices unprecedented for the past two years. According to local buyers it is a "bull market."

South Carolina Prices.

GREENWOOD, S. C., Nov. 4.—For the first time since 1920 cotton brought 26 cents per pound here today on the local market.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 4.—One hundred and twenty-five bales of spot cotton sold for 25 and one-half cents per pound on the Greenville market today. This is the highest price paid in the history of the market since spot's quotation in 1919.

BLIZZARD—PUEBLO IN DARKNESS.

PUEBLO, Col., Nov. 4.—Pueblo has been isolated for eight hours because of a severe blizzard which struck this region at noon today. All wires are down. Meager reports of a tornado at Ordway and Sugarloaf, Col., 50 miles east of here have not been verified.

The old-time annual bicycle runs are still held in Baltimore and Boston. Baltimore wheelmen recently pedaled to Philadelphia on their century run.

Oklahoma Cyclone Kills Four—Damages Property

DRUMRIGHT, Okla., Nov. 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Four persons are known to have been killed, and 50 were injured, some seriously, and many are missing as a result of a tornado which struck in the oil fields just southwest of here early tonight.

The storm came in a northeasterly direction. It missed the town of Drumright. All the damage reported was to houses and property on the oil leases. The known dead are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jennings, their fourteen-year-old son and a fifteen-year-old boy, named Dobbs.

After striking southwest of Drumright the tornado turned and descended near Mansboro, about 25 miles north-

OHIO OFFICERS TAKE CORPSE FROM MOURNERS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 4.—While mourners were assembling and final preparations for the funeral services were being made police today swept down on a west-side house and took the body of the woman from the undertaker under order of the coroner. The coroner announced that he would perform an autopsy to ascertain the cause of the death.

The woman died in a local hospital here Thursday after an illness of a few days. The funeral party was just about ready to start for the church, and the body was just about ready to be put in the hearse.

BOTH PARTIES WILL USE THE COURT HOUSE

Dr. J. E. Person Determined to Speak—Langston Thinks Bailey Would Like Debate

Both the Democrats and the Republicans will speak in the courthouse tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock it was stated by C. M. Johnson, county auditor. The Republicans will hold their speaking in the commissioner's room while the Democrats will hear J. W. Bailey in the auditorium so that the much-speaking of one will not disturb the other.

Dr. J. E. Person, Republican Candidate for the state senate, has stated that he will speak in the court house Monday evening, that the meeting was advertised for that day, that he is going to speak and that that is all there is to it.

Col. J. D. Langston, said that nothing would better suit J. W. Bailey, speaker for the Democrats, than for the Republicans to hold their speaking in the main auditorium with the Democrats.

Two years ago with a presidential election on the auditorium of the court house was filled with people at the final speaking on the eve of the election. This year the number of people that will turn out to hear J. W. Bailey remains to be seen. According to the way Mr. Bailey talked in his Wake Forest speech it appears to those who are in Wayne county politics that he will have something to wake the voters of the county up with when he arrives. The appeal in his Wake Forest speech was far outside his usual political speech.

EXPOSURE NEARLY KILLS NEW MOTHER

One of Those Who Worked in Dew and Mud at Kornegay "Home"

Zellie Harper, age 23, of this city, who has been near death in the Goldsboro hospital for the past few weeks as a result of wading in the dew, overwork, and exposure endured at the Harrietie Kornegay "Home" in Duplin county just one week after giving birth to a child, is gradually growing a little stronger, it was stated yesterday by Welfare Superintendent A. E. Rowell. Nevertheless, the welfare superintendent has lost none of his indignation about the causes that brought such a condition about, and declares that just as soon as he comes back from his Missouri trip next week there will be several indictments growing out of the case of Zellie Harper. Mr. Rowell, though, is not ready to call names until he has his warrants ready to serve.

One that in all probability will not be indicted and who Mr. Rowell thinks should be indicted is Mrs. Henrietta Kornegay, of Duplin county, who runs a "So-called-home." Mr. Rowell stated that Rev. Peter McIntyre, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, told him that this woman ought to be in prison for the manner in which she operated her home. It has been reported to the welfare superintendent repeatedly that in many cases children were kept there without sending them to school at all, and that unfortunate mothers who were forced to go there for aid were worked until the day of delivery, then put back to work ditching in the mud or dew, or doing whatever came to hand. The main reason she won't be is that she doesn't live in Wayne county.

Mr. Rowell said that he had had many requests and applications to send children there, but that the institution was never recommended by the State. He further stated that Mrs. Kornegay had canvassed Goldsboro many times for money for this home and under claim of working in the jails; and that in reality a fine home and plantation had been built up of the funds supposed to have been contributed to charity and by the labor of children.

"Many of the children," he went on, "who have been sent there have later been taken away by the State authorities. Caswell Training School, I believe, got the last batch."

WAYNE MEN INCLUDED IN SUITS FOR DAMAGE

Twenty-six Growers in Fifteen Counties Are Subject For Alleged Violations

RALEIGH, Nov. 4.—A record for legal action by the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association was established today when 26 growers from 15 counties of North Carolina were named in suits for liquidated damages and attorneys' fees amounting to $21,700.

Hundreds of locals of the association and scores of co-operative warehousemen throughout the State are now guarding the contract of the association by increasing the supply of evidence and affidavits for legal action and as a result of their activities the long arm of the law today reached from the mountains to the coast, pointing to alleged offenders in Beaufort, Franklin, Granville, Hoke, Lenoir, Moore, Stokes, Surry, Wake, Wayne, and Warren counties. Among the large growers named in today's suits were W. E. Forest, of Kinston, from whom the association seeks damages and fees of $3,500; E. A. Stephens, of Apex, for $5,000; J. D. Edmondson, of Pinetops and Riley Edwards, of Crocawinny, for $1,300 each; four suits were filed against growers in Surry county and three suits each in Beaufort, Wayne, and Lenoir today.

Colonel Langston Finishes At Calypso For the 14th Time

Col. J. D. Langston, who has been closing the campaign at Calypso for the past 14 years, except when he was in the service, will close the campaign there again Monday afternoon when he speaks at 4 o'clock.

Despite the colonel's many appearances the people there still turn out to hear him year after year, which is one good proof that they are not yet tired of his speeches and that he undoubtedly has something new to offer them each election.

This year he has a new idea about taxation. "Suppose you were an outsider and were coming into the State to live? What would the State offer you for what you pay out in taxes?" he asks. "Suppose any of the great programs put on by Democratic administration such as the health program, or the educational program which was unknown in the State 20 years ago, was stricken out, wouldn't you leave the State tomorrow? I know I would."

He called this "Bartering for government."

CONGRESS HAS NO FRIEND ANYWHERE AT ALL SAYS MCLEAN

The Best Minds Have Been Unable to Lead and There is No Cohesion

HAS NOT SECURED RESPECT OF COUNTRY

ALBEMARLE, Nov. 4.—"The Democratic party has fulfilled every expectation of those who believe that the true function of State government is to provide in the largest measure for the material, physical, cultural and moral welfare and contentment of all the people of the State," declared A. W. McLean, speaking before a large audience here tonight in behalf of the Democratic party.

"It is futile," Mr. McLean continued, "to attempt to compare the great record of the Democratic party in North Carolina, with the Republican party, for the reason that during the two periods when the Republican party was in power its record generally, both in its acts of omission and commission, disclosed nothing to be proud of, or that would in any way commend it to any intelligent or fair-minded citizen of the State."

Has Repudiated McKinley.

Referring to the tariff, Mr. McLean said in part: "In the enactment of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, the Republican party has abandoned the position it has held upon the tariff question since the party was founded. That is to say, it has abandoned the idea of a protective tariff designed to equalize the conditions surrounding American manufacturers, as compared with those abroad, and has substituted a prohibitive tariff, which in practice amounts to an embargo upon imports. The party has repudiated the doctrine which McKinley believed in. At a time when business, industry and agricultural prosperity are largely dependent upon foreign markets, the Republican administration has adopted a policy, which will make it well nigh impossible for us to sell our products abroad. Republican newspapers, business organizations and individual Republicans of the highest standing, and who have always believed in the old Republican doctrine of protection are now with a wonderful degree of unanimity denouncing the new tariff bill as a scheme to permit a few big trusts and monopolies to rob the American people of three billions of dollars. That staunch Republican newspaper, the New York Tribune, calls the act a 'monstrosity.' The Boston Transcript, the leading Republican paper in New England, characterizes it as 'a disgrace to the party in power, and a menace to the nation,' and states further that the act was devised by 'a conspiracy between pork-barrel politicians and special interests for the two-fold purpose of re-electing the politicians and paying new tribute to the special interests.'"

"In the fact of this overwhelming criticism from high Republican sources, it is not necessary to quote Democratic opinion."

Slump in Export Trade.

Referring to the policy of isolation, which the Republican party has adopted in connection with our foreign affairs, the speaker said: "The industrial depression, through which we have been passing for the past year and a half, was approximately caused by the tremendous slump in our export trade, which amounted to about seven billion dollars in one year, and this slump in our export trade is immediately attributable to the action of the Republican leaders in repudiating the tariff treaty, and adopting the policy of economic isolation, which in turn destroyed the greater part of the foreign demand for surplus American products, particularly the products of agriculture. The record shows that American farmers alone have suffered losses since the Republican party came into power by the depreciation in their property and farm products aggregating thirty billion dollars. The Republican commodity panic of 1921 and 1922 has been the most disastrous panic that this country has ever experienced. As an instance of this, corn was selling at interior points in the corn belt at fifteen cents a bushel in September 1921, and was for a time so unsalable that it became the chief source of domestic fuel."

Leaderless Factions.

During the Wilson administration, there was no lack of leadership, and consequently the record of achievement was unparalleled in the history of the country.

Under the Republican administration, there is no leadership. The Republican party is divided into factions and groups. The so-called administration leaders, referred to by Mr. Harding as his "best minds," have been unable to lead, and there has been a record of vacillation, drifting and wiggling and wobbling, which has had no parallel in any political party in the history of the government. In Congress, the administration is not supported by any cohesive leadership or program. It has been repudiated and condemned by a large portion of the Republican press of the country, as well as by numerous individuals.
