Asa G. Candler, Jr., With Wealthy Friends, Sponsors Educational Idea—Army Transport Will Carry Boys Each Year to All Countries

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—A group of millionaires, headed by Asa G. Candler, Jr., son of the Coca-Cola king, today completed plans for the immediate launching of a unique educational enterprise.

Fifty preparatory schools, in various localities, will cooperate. Candler and his associates have bought the army transport Logan and will employ it in taking a limited number of boys from these schools each year on a tour of the world. The Logan was paid for with Asa G. Candler, Jr.'s check for $180,000, and is now on the way from San Francisco to New York.

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, author of the idea, will be executive head, having just signed a five-year contract with the incorporators, who drew up their charter papers today.

"Under the arrangement we have made," said Mr. Sutton, "boys in 'prep' school will be given the opportunity to travel for a year and see the world at less expense than the average parent pays out on his son for a year in school. We will charter special trains and take the students for a six weeks' tour of the United States, and then will begin

Henry Clay's "Belfry"

Really Full of Bees

Lexington, Ky.—In the days when Henry Clay was called "The Great Pacificator" as well as a perpetual candidate for office, his political enemies accused him many times of "having bees in the belfry."

Today that became a reality when it was discovered that the hollow stonework of the Henry Clay statue over the tomb in the cemetery here where Clay is buried is full of bees. There is no way in which the bees can be dislodged unless a series of ladders can be used by men experienced in handling bees, and this may be done.

MELLON HOLDS BANKS SHOULD WELCOME SMALL DEPOSITORS

Denounces Practice of Many Institutions in Declining Accounts of Less Than $100.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Banking institutions are making a mistake in declining to accept accounts of less than $100, in the opinion of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. He believes the character of the depositor should be the only test applied by the banks.

The problem was thrashed out by the Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh, of which the Secretary was president, and experience showed, according to the explanation today, that small accounts grow into large ones later on. For that reason the bank is cutting off valuable patrons in the future.

In addition, Mellon does not think it is sound business to fix $100 as the minimum account profitable for the bank to handle. The overhead expense continues just the same, while one small deposit might not be profitable, three or four would be, with no added expense to the institution.

The question is of especial interest to New York, because of the tendency there to limit depositors to those who keep a $100 or in some cases $500 balances.

The Secretary is following his banking views in the Treasury tax collection work. He frowns on suggestions to ignore the small taxpayer on the ground that the Government pays more in collecting small sums than it gets. The collector's offices must go on just the same, he thinks, and there is little if any added expense in handling the small receipts.

PRESIDENT TO LAY WREATH ON UNKNOWN HERO'S TOMB

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A ceremony that probably will become precedent for future years will be observed at the grave of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery Armistice Day, November 11.

President Harding, John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, and Edwin Denby, Secretary of the Navy, will go to Arlington and place a wreath of flowers on the tomb. It is possible that the President may make a brief address, but this has not been determined. The public will be admitted to the cemetery for the impressive ceremonies.

The President and Secretaries Weeks and Denby will leave the White House at 10 o'clock on the morning of the 11th. On arrival at the Virginia side of the Georgetown bridge a squadron of cavalry will form a military escort and a national salute will be fired from Fort Myer as the cortege passes into the cemetery.

Business Property for Sale

Mr. W. P. Rose has authorized us to offer for sale his valuable property at the southeast corner of James and Mulberry Streets, fronting 95 feet on James Street and fronting 170 feet on Mulberry Street, adjoining the properties of the Barnes-Harrell-Rawlings Company and the Goldsboro Grocery Company. This is one of the few business properties in the city that can be purchased. Considering the improvements now in progress in this block and the new firms recently located in this immediate vicinity, the Rose property should appeal particularly to the investor or party desiring a site on which to locate for business purposes.

This corner has been subdivided into eight lots and is offered for sale as a whole or separate lots. There are two lots facing James Street with each lot having a frontage of 25 feet by 70 feet deep, and two other lots on James Street, each having a frontage of 22 1-2 feet by 70 feet deep (one of the 22 1-2 feet lots on James having an alley privilege). On Mulberry Street there are 4 lots, each having a frontage of 25 feet and a depth of 95 feet to an alley. One of the Mulberry Street lots adjoining Barnes-Harrell-Rawlings Company also has an alley privilege on the east side.
