

FAMOUS FRENCH TIGER LANDING IN NEW YORK, GETS ROYAL WELCOME

Clemenceau Complains of Photographers, Requests GHmpse Statue of Liberty

MANY NOTABLES WERE THERE TO GREET HIM

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(By The Associated Press.)—Georges Clemenceau, today again set foot on American soil.

The Tiger came as a private citizen, but to no potentate could have been extended a more stately welcome than that accorded him when he was taken from the steamship Paris in the harbor and landed on the historic Battery wall.

The "Tiger" found thousands of people waiting for him on the tip of Manhattan Island. There were cheers when he stepped ashore and then, headed by the police department band, M. Clemenceau and the committee which had gone down the bay to welcome him started up Broadway for his official reception at City Hall.

The aged statesman was carrying a red rose in one hand when he began his trip up the grand canyon. Girls in office buildings leaned from windows and threw kisses to him. The Tiger replied by waving the rose in a courtly manner.

The welcoming committee on arriving at quarantine aboard the municipal steamer Macon, found the Tiger peering through a window on the promenade deck. He was wearing a gray cut-away coat with a gray stiefador.

The committee did not board the Paris as quickly as it expected, because the Macon forgot to bring boarding ladders. Soon, however, another municipal craft, the Manhattan arrived promptly, properly equipped and slipped in between the Macon and the Paris. The committee then stepped aboard while Clemenceau observed their difficulties with the curiosity of a child.

Then escorted to the grand saloon by the captain of the Paris, the committee was presented to M. Clemenceau by J. J. Jusserand, French Ambassador to the United States.

Robert Woods Bliss, assistant secretary of state welcomed the former premier to America in behalf of President Harding and invited him to visit the President at Washington. Clemenceau accepted, expressing his delight.

Complimented by the committee on the healthy appearance he presented, M. Clemenceau replied lightly: "I am growing younger every day. In fifty years I think I'll be a baby."

Robert Godon, a member of the national executive committee of the American Legion, then welcomed the premier "as a man who more than any other exemplifies the spirit in which we carried on the war."

Shaking hands, the Tiger replied: "You're the man I like to see. It's the thoughts of your men that count."

Making ready to leave the Paris, M. Clemenceau called excitedly to his valet, Albert, who was going up to the dock with the baggage to be sure and see that it was landed safely.

Led by Colonel E. M. House, a close personal friend, the distinguished Frenchman stepped gingerly aboard the Manhattan to cross to the Casco. At that the Manhattan's siren loosed three tremendous blasts. The Tiger clapped his hands hurriedly over his ears and scrambled aboard the Macon.

Then came a rush of photographers. "Oh, isn't there somebody to kill these photographers?" cried the Tiger plaintively. "Is it not permissible in your country?"

But he posed. A band aboard the Macon then struck up the Marseillaise and M. Clemenceau, his hat removed, stood with bowed head opposite Colonel House. Just as he was about to drop into a seat the musicians swung into the "Star Spangled Banner" and he rose again. Then he was led to the bow by the committee and sank into an easy chair.

The Tiger cast glances from under his shaggy gray brows at the harbor scene. Soon he interrupted Ambassador Jusserand, who was chatting politely to inquire the whereabouts of the Statue of Liberty. M. Jusserand pointed it out through the mist with the jesting observation that the lady was somewhat obscured by prohibition.

"Oh," finally exclaimed Clemenceau gazing at the statue. "It is really impressive." Before landing the Tiger announced he intended this afternoon to attend the performance of Nephistopheles at the Metropolitan Opera House, where he will deliver his first lecture in America next Tuesday night. His chief purpose is attending the opera will be to get a line on the accusers of the house.

COMMITTEE MEETS FOR PRISON REFORM

Will Gather At Greensboro To Make Legislative Suggestions

At its first meeting to be held in Greensboro, November 24, the Citizens Committee of One Hundred on Prison Legislation for the North Carolina Conference for Social Service will discuss measures looking toward needed changes in the treatment of the delinquent classes in this State.

The fruits of these discussions, based on reports of prison conditions in North Carolina to be made by a number of sub-committees will be embodied in certain bills to be presented to the General Assembly of 1923.

A. M. Seales, president of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service will preside over the meeting. Several widely known authorities on prison conditions from outside the State are expected to speak, as well as some distinguished North Carolinians. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held in the Guilford County Court House, and the night session probably in the West Market Street Methodist church.

The nucleus of the Citizens Committee of One Hundred on Prison Legislation was created at the last meeting of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service by the appointment of a committee of five "to make a careful study of state, county and municipal prisons, prison camps, prison farms and care for prisoners throughout the State."

This committee was composed of Dr. J. F. Steiner, of the University School of Public Welfare, Chairman; A. W. McAllister, of Greensboro; George Ross Fox, Superintendent of the State Prison; Mrs. T. W. Bickel; and Roy M. Brown, Field Agent of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare. In order to organize State-wide support and cooperation, this original committee (now the steering committee) appointed a Citizens Committee of One Hundred on Prison Legislation which is composed of representative and public spirited citizens from all sections of North Carolina.

Sixteen sub-committees of the Committee of One Hundred have been studying various aspects of the prison problem in North Carolina. The reports made by these sub-committees will be the foundation of the improvements recommended in the bills to be presented to the Legislature.

Wiley B. Sanders, executive secretary of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service, and Roy M. Brown, field agent of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, have recently made a survey of a large number of county jails and convict camps in this State. This survey has shown the existence of grave abuses as well as obsolete methods. The legislation to be proposed by the Citizens Committee of One Hundred at its meeting in Greensboro on Friday will be formulated with the idea of abolishing such abuses and of bringing North Carolina's prison system up to the modern and human standards. It is thought that the committee has an opportunity at this time to inaugurate a movement for far-reaching importance not only for North Carolina but for the whole South.

Mexico Breaks Out In Vindictive Speeches Against United States

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 12.—All South and Central American republics were informed today that Mexico resented any censorship of its legislation by the United States or other powers, and that President Obregon's statement to that effect had secured for him a virtual vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies.

This action throughout the furious debate in the chamber last night following the disclosure of a series of communications said to have recently passed between Foreign Secretary Pani and George T. Summerlin, the American charge d'affaires.

Mr. Summerlin, speaking for the American State Department, is alleged to have offered a suggestion concerning the prospective petroleum law which is now being considered by Congress. The Mexican government is represented as holding the opinion that his suggestions are instructive.

Seldom has there been such an outburst of oratory and vindictive speeches against the United States as was witnessed in the chamber last evening when communications dating back to October last were read. These letters, some of which were mere personal notes between Foreign Secretaries Tani and Mr. Summerlin, were interpreted as an encroachment upon the national sovereignty and the lower house unanimously approving President Obregon's attitude, voted to inform all Latin-American countries of "the Yankee's attempts at imperialism."

C. O. S. CAMPAIGN IS A BIG SUCCESS

Howell Thinks People For Co-operation—Not All Reports In Yet

(A. E. Howell, Supr. Public Welfare) The call for funds for the Charity Organization Society of Goldsboro was very successful. Up to date $3,097.70 have been reported by the solicitors. Of this $2,157.70 is in cash and $950.00 in pledges. Some of the regular liberal contributors have not yet been seen. Also one or two committeemen who have a good sum collected have not yet reported. So it appears that the total will soon reach what will be necessary to carry on the work during the coming year.

Goldsboro people always respond to a cause that is just and right. Suffering humanity does not want for the necessities of life. Our people know the need and have a chance to help.

The Charity Organization Society and especially the finance committee are very grateful to those who responded to the appeal of the society this year. The cheerful spirit in which money pledges and co-operation in the actual work is given adds to the value of the contributions. This spirit will cause greater gratitude to flow from the hearts of the poor, unfortunate, suffering children and helpless adults who receive food, shelter and warmth during the winter.

The general campaign chairman, C. E. Wilkins, and the finance committee express their gratitude and appreciation to the men and women who worked so faithfully in soliciting, giving, of their time, thought and energy. The newspapers supported most loyally this cause in every way and published freely many notices and news items. To these much credit and appreciation is duly given.

The finance committee of which Mrs. Henry Weil is chairman, comes in for their share of thanks for luncheon given the workers. Their liberal contribution in this way shows that they believe in the work and are interested in its continuance.

But most of all are the C. O. S. Chairman Wilkins and the solicitors grateful to the contributors who have responded to the appeal and to those who will yet give.

It is the intention of the committee soliciting funds to give each person in Goldsboro an opportunity to contribute to the needy people of the city through the C. O. S. If any have been overlooked the committee will greatly appreciate such person or persons co-operation in making this known. Contributions can be sent to Mrs. W. D. Creech, treasurer, or any member of the finance committee, or to Miss Mary Hardy, secretary.

It should be said that what has been contributed in money, goods and supplies in this campaign does not represent all that is given to the poor in the city. Our splendid physicians and surgeons give liberally and constantly of their time and services. This service would amount into hundreds of dollars if estimated. Merchants contribute goods frequently and nearly always give a reducing on purchases by the C. O. S. The railroad companies give reduced fares, churches contribute or assign the care of families, individuals and the public meets many special demands.

It is hoped by the C. O. S. officials, however, that enough money can be secured to care for all cases without making any special appeals during the year. Since the work does not extend out into the county to any extent it is difficult to see how these appeals for country cases can be avoided now. It is the hope of the writer that means will be found soon to make the work of the C. O. S. country wide. It's help is greatly needed in rural Wayne county.

Further hope is maintained that in the coming year we shall be able to unite all appeals for funds into one drive where people will be asked "once for all," business and professional men especially and most others would welcome such an arrangement; one that would stop constant organization for solicitation and constant demands. Where it has been tried all concerned are enthusiastic in their praise of the Community Chest method of financing all charitable agencies.

CHRISTMAS CHECKS TOBACCO GROWERS

Association Making Arrangements For a Second Payment to Its Members

(Special to The News.) RALEIGH, Nov. 12.—Members of the Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association in Eastern North Carolina are to receive a second payment from their association before Christmas, according to an announcement given out tonight at Raleigh headquarters. Money for this second payment is now being deposited in local banks throughout Eastern North Carolina and checks drawn on these banks will be distributed to growers who delivered tobacco before December first, as soon after that date as arrangements can be completed. This second payment, it is pointed out, following closely on a second payment to members in South Carolina and border North Carolina markets is expected to greatly improve business conditions in this territory. Information is not available here as to the total amount of this second advance in Eastern North Carolina but it is said to run into seven figures, and some idea of the magnitude of the transaction can be gained from the recent statement of Association Treasurer J. H. Craig that it took twenty thousand checks to make the second payment in the South Carolina belt. The association officers here stated that as soon as this second payment is completed in Eastern North Carolina arrangements will be made for making a second payment to growers in the old belt of North Carolina and Virginia.

Officers of the Philathesa class elected were: Mrs. Walter C. Denmark, re-elected president; Miss Silda Bell Lancaster, first vice-president; Mrs. Dan Gilson, second vice-president; Miss Bertha Casey, re-elected third vice-president; Mrs. Mat Hope, fourth vice-president; Miss Annie Stevens, secretary and treasurer.

Agriculturally, commercially and industrially, this city and county has much to talk about. It has a firm foundation upon which to build and if every merchant, every manufacturer and every agriculturist should determine to stand shoulder to shoulder and make a long and a strong pull for a greater Goldsboro and a more progressive Wayne county there is no telling what can be accomplished. MAYOR SAYS TEACH CHILDREN YOUNG

Thinks Revils Would Not Be Needed in Protestants Followed Example Catholics

"When the Protestants begin to wake up and realize as the Catholics have that the time to begin to train a child is when it is young, then there will be no need for revivals," declared Mayor Edgar H. Bohn yesterday in welcoming address to the Barnea and Philathesa class of Wayne county, A. W. Hawley and W. A. Deas also made speeches. The latter referred to the French statesman who resigned because "Balfour entered the pulpit and preached a sermon in Switzerland," and declared that the world would never have peace as long as statesmen acted that way.

Last night the Barnea and Philathesa held an entertainment in the basement of the First Baptist Church. Tomorrow they will have two programs, and Dr. Paul Bagby, of Wake Forest, will speak in the evening.

The officers elected yesterday for the Barnea were: A. W. Gillett, president; Jarmon Howell, first vice-president; Charles Lancaster, second vice-president; Cyrus Johnson, third vice-president; L. E. Parson, fourth vice-president; and M. A. Shaver, secretary and treasurer.

Officers of the Philathesa class elected were: Mrs. Walter C. Denmark, re-elected president; Miss Silda Bell Lancaster, first vice-president; Mrs. Dan Gilson, second vice-president; Miss Bertha Casey, re-elected third vice-president; Mrs. Mat Hope, fourth vice-president; Miss Annie Stevens, secretary and treasurer.

HUX BEATS HIS DOLL STORY ABOUT ADAMS

All Right But 'He' Was 'She'—Wrote Things He Saw and Didn't See

(By H. T. HUX.) "Your story about the races and the betting, Adams, was good, and it was all right except that the Goldsboro horse isn't a trotter but a pacer, and that she isn't a 'He,' but a 'She,'" said Mr. Lacey, official writer of the races to the man who went out to the Fair Grounds, looked around a couple of times, and wrote several columns about things he saw and some things he didn't see.

Which reminds me of the time this newspaper man and Horace King were arguing about Horace's beautiful and wonderful horse, Bettina, when she broke the State record. Of course, Horace was expatiating about the wonderful merits of his horse, and about how she could run a mile on a half-mile track in a ninth of a second less than the record.

"A mile on a half-mile track?" asked Adams thoughtfully, "how in the devil is he going to run a mile on half-mile track? Must be dope. The meanest liquor in Wayne county wouldn't make a cat talk like that."

"Why you dunes," said Horace, "couldn't she run around twice?" Coming back to Lacey, though, he had the goods on him. "Lacey," he said, "if Bettina's a pacer what in the Sam Hill did you want to write it up in Thursday's paper that she was a trotter? If you're going to pull this double-barrel detective stuff why don't you write a burlesque of Mark Twain's 'Double-barrel Detective Story,' which was a burlesque of A. Conan Doyle; then you'll be burlesquing burlesquing."

Colored Man Charged Criminally Abandoning Woman of His Own Race

Water Booth, colored, has been found over in Superior court by Judge Bohn charged with criminal assault on Nellie Credge, also colored, it was stated late last night by Assistant Chief John Norris.

EDMUNDSON ENTERS LEGAL HALL OF FAME WITH DELIVERY CLAIM

Writes Bill of Sale and Delivery Papers for a Two-Headed Snake

Paul Edmundson yesterday entered the legal hall of fame when he wrote claim of delivery papers for a two-headed snake, and had them sworn on by John Doe, Indian, holder of the two-headed snake, now in Goldsboro. "Yes it is an joke or myth. Clerk of Court John Hooks thought it was when he was writing the papers, and questioned Edmundson several times, but he refused to affirm that it was a two-headed snake and that he didn't know the Indian's name who had the snake in his possession. So Clerk Hooks executed the papers under great pressure of time, for the Indian was ready to show his get-away on the train in just thirty-five minutes with his extraordinary possession."

All the argument began when Willie Worth, colored, who claimed to be the owner of the snake, and who came here with the animal exhibiting at the Fair Grounds last week, had Mr. Edmundson write him a bill of sale for the snake. The letter was doubtful about their being any such a snake, and questioned his client who indignantly the same was sold to C. A. Robinson of Arizona, and had been exhibited jointly by Worth and the Indian.

Worth claimed to be the sole owner of the snake, and that he and the Indian had entered an agreement by which he was to train the snake and the Indian the best to exhibit him, but that the snake belonged to him alone. Nevertheless, when they went to get the snake the Indian had departed.

They hunted for the snake and the snake. He had the snake in a box. He refused to give up the snake. They then secured a claim of delivery and signed to the snake.

PEOPLE NEED MANY MINDS AS SNAKE

Paul Edmundson says that the snake is a two-headed snake of right, and had been previously perfectly trained, uniform, with two eyes each and mouth that open and shut.

The Indian says that he's going to have the snake back regardless. Willie Worth says there was never any agreement between them except that the Indian was to furnish the snake, and that he was to split the profits. It was getting cold, this was the last fair of the season, the snake was getting stiff and ready to hibernate, and that while the snake could crawl in a log or a snakebox, he had to have the long-green to hibernate with Indian long-green to John Doe, or an Indian Doe. He has it so, and the Indian and C. A. Robinson, erstwhile treasurer of Arizona, will have most of the moneying to do, except what the two-headed snake does. Having two heads to worry with the snake can do more worrying than both, perhaps, unless in a do-or-die shift his worrying from one mind to the other, and keep on worrying. He won't have time to do much worrying. Undoubtedly, many readers will think they have known people who worry a lot, and ought to have a snake snake at this snake.

Walter Booth, colored, has been found over in Superior court by Judge Bohn charged with criminal assault on Nellie Credge, also colored, it was stated late last night by Assistant Chief John Norris.

The crime is alleged to have occurred near the fair grounds Friday night. The woman said she was a stranger here, and that she entered Booth's car to be driven to the fair grounds, and that he took her to a different direction. She said that when she finally asked him how far it was to the fair grounds, he drew a pistol on her, committed the assault, then took two dollars, and the woman had him described by the woman to the fair grounds. Assistant Chief Norris said that he heard the money was the only loss of the case.
