LAME DUCK LEGISLATION

Mr. Harding could not force congress to pass a ship subsidy bill before the election. But his very insistence on this thing is one of the reasons why the people rendered so many members of congress lame ducks after the fourth of next March.

Well, Mr. Harding is now resolved to be the leader of his party and force his views on congress that has repudiated them every day Harding has been President. In 1920 Mr. Harding had a heap of commendation for "rule by the people," but today he appears to have nothing but contempt for the verdict of the people.

Mr. Harding does not believe in a President leading congress to do anything that country needs, but he is willing to force them even after they have been largely repudiated, to legislate in behalf of private interests.

SELF IMPROVEMENT

In a recent article on salesmanship the statement was made: "It is strange how rarely one comes across any effort on the part of the sales department to get the salesman to do any outside reading, when you consider what a tremendous amount of helpful information can be gained thereby."

There are literally dozens of magazines that carry useful articles on selling in all of its many branches, and there are pamphlets of specialized value to certain lines. These should be circulated among the salesmen and they should be made to read them.

How many young men read any literature calculated to improve their capacity for business? How many go further and read anything calculated to add to their general knowledge and culture which in themselves are such an asset to salesmen and others?

Every branch of business now has a literature all its own, and there are many high class publications devoted to general principles which apply to any business. The young man who today has a spark of ambition to rise by increasing his worth has every opportunity. There is nothing so quickly saleable today as personal worth and energy in every business. As a rule the young man who fails to rise has only himself to blame. There is one statement in the above question which might as well have been omitted. It is that salesmen should be "made" to read. This would be useless. A man who has to be "made" to study his business will never study it much.

UNGRACIOUS

The following dispatch from Asheville appeared in the papers Tuesday:

Principal A. J. Hutchins of the Asheville high school in reply to a request from the University committee to postpone the Asheville-New Bern football game in the finals of the state championship, scheduled to be played Saturday, December 9, until a week later owing to the fact that members of the New Bern team were doing relief work in the fire swept section of that city, made the following statement tonight.

"Two weeks of idleness will ruin the team and kill the interest in the game," he also said that "the football season has run too long already."

At a meeting of the faculty managers in Salisbury recently, when the schedules were mapped out, Mr. Hutchins asked to have the games postponed a week as the local team would be forced to play three games in eight days. Mr. Rankin, secretary of the extension division of the University of North Carolina, it is understood, stated at the meeting that the University committee had set December 9 as the date for the finals to be played and that the east had agreed to this.

Somebody in Asheville will have to do some explaining if the representatives of that town are not to be considered as acting very ungraciously, to say the mildest thing possible. Mr. Hutchins says that the game could not be postponed because it would kill the interest in football. But he adds as a further excuse that he had asked previously that it be postponed and the request was refused. How would a postponement hurt now if it would not have hurt when he wanted it? This dispatch gives the appearance of peevishness on the part of somebody in the mountain city that is far from the proper spirit in football or anything else.

PUBLIC FORUM

To the Editor of the Goldsboro Daily News:

A committee of colored citizens was organized Tuesday afternoon that will institute a drive for the benefit of the New Bern Relief Fund on Thursday, simultaneous with that of the white committee for the same purpose.

This committee, assisted by a number of high school students, will make a personal and house-to-house canvass of the colored sections of this city they will solicit money, bedding, and clothing for the suffering people of our sister city. We are sure everyone will respond readily and liberally.

REV. C. DILLARD, Chairman, WILLIAM L. REESE, Sec.

STOCKHOLM Dec. 6.—Swedish "movie fans" who have paid more than 18,000,000 crowns for admissions during the last theatrical year, chiefly to see American films, rejoice at the news that hereafter the price of motion picture tickets may come down.

This hope is seen in the United front which Swedish film distributors are showing against foreign price policies. In the past the rentals paid for American films have been tremendous, and in some cases ruinous. It has been complained that Scandinavia, with its population of 50,000,000. A consolidation between the Swedish Film Industries, Ltd. and the Film Central, went into effect Nov. 1. It is believed this will result in more powerful resistance to the price policy of foreign film distributors. Another Scandinavian combine has been made with the object of organizing and controlling the purchase and import of German films, which are rapidly gaining a foothold in the Swedish market.

In the meantime the production of high class Swedish films is being continued. These photoplays and educational pictures are popular with the

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Henry White, who is to be the host of George Clemenceau during the visit of the former French premier to Washington, beginning today, was prominent for many years in the American diplomatic service. His last important post was that of ambassador to France, from which he retired in 1909.

Mr. White began his career in 1883 as secretary of the American legation at Vienna, and a year later was promoted to the London post, being promoted to the full secretaryship two years later. In 1903, having held various diplomatic offices in the interval, he went to Rome as ambassador, but held that post only two years, being transferred to Paris. When he arrived in Paris he was warmly greeted by President Fallieres, who delivered an unusually friendly speech.

Mr. White was born in Baltimore, in 1850, and received his education at the hands of private tutors and in private schools in America and in France.

Swedish public, as well as in other European countries especially England and France, and have even begun to make inroads in the United States.

ANOTHER FLAT HOUSE AT THE UNIVERSITY

CHAPEL HILL, Dec. 6.—The Sigma Nu fraternity is going to build a house here. Construction will begin just as soon as the plans are completed. Probation is scheduled for the late spring.

George Stephens of Asheville, Sigma Nu alumni of the University has been the chairman of the committee in charge of the plans and it is chiefly to his vigorous efforts that the project has gone through.

The house will be at the west end of a space called Fraternity Court. It will face directly a driveway passing from Columbia street between the S. A. E. and the Sigma Chi houses. Since Chapel Hill has only recently attained such dignity that the names of streets are known, it should be told for the benefit of alumni that Columbia street is the one that runs down the west gate of the campus to the main gate.

AMERICAN RELIEF SUPPLIES KEASH SALONIKI

SALONIKI, Dec. 6.—One thousand tons of supplies for the relief of refugees from Turkey have been unloaded here recently, and will help care for the needy until the arrival of the American Red Cross shipments from the United States. The unloading was done under the direction of R. M. Davidson, of Ashland, Kentucky, local representative of the Near East Relief.

At Kavalla a committee of American tobacco men have done heroic work in the distributing of refugee supplies. At Desogatcha, Doctor W. V. M. Wright, of Philadelphia, is directing the American relief effort.
