COTTON CO-OPS ARE GIVING CHECKS TO 25,000 MEMBERS TODAY

RALEIGH, Dec. 14.—The headquarters staff of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association faces the big task of sending out Christmas checks to 25,000 members. Advances of $25.00 a bale are to be made December 15 on all cotton delivered to the Association up to December 1. It was necessary to limit the date for the second advance in order to make bookkeeping arrangements, which is no inconsiderable item to say nothing of getting three million dollars with which to make the advances.

The association announces that it cannot honor drafts for more than fifty dollars a bale at time of delivery and that members making deliveries this month will have to wait until after the advances are made on October and November cotton before receiving their $25.00 advance.

The impression in some quarters that members can now draw for $75.00 a bale is without foundation. General Manager Blalock states, and members can draw only for $25.00 at a time.

IMPOSSIBLE TO PAY U.S. AND GET NOTHING FROM GERMANY SAYS B. LAW

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Prime Minister Bonar Law emphatically argued in the house of commons today the impossibility of Great Britain paying the American debt while receiving nothing from Germany, France or Italy. He said he was convinced such a policy would reduce the standard of living in this country for generations.

It would be a burden upon Great Britain of which those who suggested it had now no conception, he believed.

The Prime Minister said public opinion abroad "assumes that we are able to meet our obligations and help our friends."

"In reality, he declared, "we are in an such condition? We are paying 100,000,000 pounds yearly to the unemployed."

Describe Killing of Herring Miners

MARION, Ill., Dec. 14.—The march of several hundred men, driving before them through the streets of Herring six blood stained prisoners, and the finding of two bodies, was described to the jury by several witnesses at the trial of the five men held in connection with the riots of last June. Six of the bodies were bound together with a single rope, according to the testimony of J. Marshall Lenz, a real estate broker. A tense audience packed the somber courtroom throughout the session of court.

THE BEST REFERENCE

"And when I opened the door," said the banker, "there he was on the floor on all fours, one baby on his back yelling 'giddap, Daddy,' and the other of them giving chase to the other kid. They were making so much racket, that with their shouting and laughing and their banging around the furniture that they didn't hear me, and so I quickly stepped back across the threshold and rang the bell."

"Well, then did he?"

"Yes his wife came in from the kitchen, and she had him up in a minute, all quaked, his tie awry, his hair tousled. The kids still clinging to him when he answered the doorbell."

"I know, but did you?"

"Why certainly. He offered me reference and I carefully looked them up. But, the best reference that fellow could give me for a loan on his house was that scene, with his mrollicking over the floor with his babies. A man who loves his home that much isn't going to lose it. A man whose babies love him that much isn't going to see them suffer. I told you I never took a chance on a really loan, and I meant it. I wasn't taking a chance. He could have had double the amount."

Just a chance conversation, faithfully recorded. The banker mentioned is known to his associates as tight fisted. He is a success because he knows human nature. He is "human" because he constantly uses his head.

BUSINESS HAS PASSED CRISIS SAID LEONARD

State Secretary Talks Straight Facts to Local Merchants—Opposition Admits Wrong

The declaration of J. Paul Leonard, state secretary of the Merchants Association that the crisis is past and that the business is now on the upward trend, and the statement of J. W. Hawley, president of the local association that he expected to see in Goldsboro in 10 years a city of 25,000 people were the features of the banquet given by the association to the state secretary at the Kennedy hotel last night.

Mr. Leonard spoke straight from the shoulder throughout. He declared point blank that the congressman and senators at Washington who were always making attacks on retail dealers of the country were ignorant of the facts and a menace to the country. He went on to show that there were more retail dealers than there were farmers, and producers, and that this was necessary under modern conditions where one man can do as much work as 20 on the farm with new farm machinery. He stated that not more than two per cent of all the money coming from sales into the hands of retail dealers was actually put in the bank to the merchant's credit. "Herbert Hoover, Will Payne and several others," said Mr. Leonard, "who have been condemning the retail dealer and have investigated conditions have come out and admitted they were wrong."

The reason for desiring changes in the garnishment law and the improvement of the manner of collecting accounts was to improve conditions and consequently the conditions of the lives of people in towns. "For," said Mr. Leonard, "We know when we improved the conditions of our town and our community we are improving our own conditions and business."

He advised merchants to advertise in local papers that would compare with the other state papers and so that their customs could read their own advertising instead of the advertising of merchants in other cities and going there to trade in many cases.
