

Utilizing wood waste from generating gas to be claimed by a Swedish sawmill operator to save 75 per cent of the fuel used when the chips and sawdust are burned directly under the boiler. Added to this economy is a large production of valuable by-products, including acids, wool alcohol, and tar.

Good lighting affects coal mining as it does other work. In recent research it was found that change to a lamp of greater intensity increased production per man nearly 15 per cent, and the coal mined became much cleaner. Return to the smaller lamp caused the amount of output to return to the lower figure, while the dirt included in the product showed an increase.

A chair of alcoholic research is to be established at one of the Japanese universities.

Centre Brick WAREHOUSE

Wilson, . . . . North Carolina

For the Sale of LEAF TOBACCO

THE LEADING, LARGEST AND BEST LIGHTED WAREHOUSE ON THE BIGGEST TOBACCO MARKET IN THE WORLD.

The Centre Brick has served the farmers in its best capacity for the past thirty years. With their many years of experience, the proprietors of the Centre Brick are able to sell your tobacco to the best advantage. Surrounded by the best force that can be employed, two auctioneers, G. H. Baker and O. H. Wikioff, with competent and agreeable floor manager and clerks,

The farmer who has tobacco to sell should choose with care the warehouse he patronizes. Not long ago farmers had little choice of warehouses and either had to sell at their nearest market or drive many miles over rough and muddy roads, but the development of good roads, motor trucks and automobiles, tobacco marketing has been simplified.

OPENING DAY, TUESDAY, August 28—Come and hear the ring of the auctioneer's voice and see Wilson buyers bid on your tobacco. Here you have the competition of a full set of buyers, representing every manufacturer in this country and Europe, and the assurance of getting the top price for every grade of tobacco sold with us.

We Solicit your business and promise you the BEST of service and THE HIGHEST PRICE for your Tobacco

MOTOR TRUCKS TO END NEW YORK FOOD CRISIS

A CITY TRAFFIC JAM.

Chicago. Feeding the population of the great cities of the country is becoming a transportation problem, it was declared by C. B. Hutchings, secretary of the National Transportation Institute, in an address to a traffic conference here. New York City's five millions of people have been on the edge of a famine of fresh vegetables and other farm products this summer because of inadequacy of the terminal delivery system.

"Our great centers of population have grown far faster than the means of transportation," said Mr. Hutchings. "It is obviously out of the question to run in new railroad tracks and build freight stations in a city like New York, which is already crowded to the limit. An engineers commission recently investigated the freight problem of St. Louis and reported that the cost of on track freight houses in the city would be so huge as to be impossible to consider."

"St. Louis solved the problem by a motor truck system privately developed to co-operate with the railroads. Eight off track freight houses are operated in the city, London, England, is using motor trucks in co-operation with the English railroads and many cities in this country are developing motor truck auxiliary freight handling systems. The New York Port Authority is trying to work out a plan of economical delivery by motor truck to central food depots.

"Enormous centers of population are a new problem of this era. They have not been planned for. People packed in them in thousands to a city block are entirely dependent on a daily supply of food from the country. Cities like New York or Chicago would be starving in a week's time if farm products were not poured into them daily in train loads."
