If love alters when it finds that object has ceased to love in return or is unworthy, then, says Shakespeare and Mr. Ingersoll, that slove was not true love. Conversely, then, it must be true love that can and does ! love the unworthy, even to the 1736-Gabriel D. Fahrenheit, who THAT OF source extent of loving an enemy. That is precisely what Jesus taught.

Again Shakespeare says that "There is no darkness out 1230-1823-Samuel J. Southard of New Pance," and again Mr. Ingersoll again this is aprooves. And precisely what Jesus taught.
