GOLDSBORO MINISTER, 74, SAW HIS FIRST MOVING PICTURE ON YESTERDAY

Seventy-four years of age and yesterday was the first time that he ever saw a moving picture!

That statement will seem almost incredible to a good many Goldsboro people, but it is a fact just the same, according to the statement made yesterday by the Rev. William O. Butler, local Methodist minister. The gentleman in question says that he has never had any desire to witness a moving picture, and was with considerable reluctance that he accepted Manager Finley's invitation yesterday to witness an advance showing of "Human Wreckage" at the Opera House, however, he did accept, and he said after he had witnessed the conclusion of the picture that he was very much impressed. The minister does not hold that there is no good in any pictures, but he does think so many indecent and harmful pictures are shown that there is a possibility of moving pictures doing more harm than good. However, he did not take that view of the production he witnessed yesterday.

PLANS PROGRESSING FOR COUNTY'S FAIR

Amusement Feature to Be Stressed More This Year Than Ever Before

Offices of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce represented a busy scene yesterday, the secretary and his two assistants being occupied in mailing out the premium list for the approaching Wayne County Fair, which it is declared will surpass anything of the kind Wayne or any adjoining county has ever attempted. The fair will be held this year Oct. 30-Nov. 2.

While it is too early for any of the entries to have been received as yet, it is said that all indications at present point to those eclipsing in numbers those of former years, and it is believed that the quality of these exhibits will be far higher than has been the case in the past few years.

Particular attention is to be devoted this year to the sport and amusement features connected with the fair. The association has booked for Goldsboro the Shesley Shows, said to be the largest carnival attraction on the road at present. This show has been booked to appear during the Virginia State Fair at Richmond and Secretary Denmark of the local trades organization is now planning to go to Richmond next week to confer with the carnival officials relative to the attraction coming to this city. He will be accompanied back to Goldsboro by one of the officials who will make the preliminary arrangements relative to how the shows will be situated here. It is declared that the Shesley attractions travel on a special train of 30 cars and that there are more than 400 people included in the carnival company.

Secretary Denmark says that particular attention is to be paid this year to the horse races and some of the finest blooded stock in the South will be brought to Goldsboro for the occasion.

A new and unique feature is being introduced this year in the shape of automobile races for the final day of the fair. Being Saturday, that event will probably attract a tremendous throng of people from all this section and some fast cars are now being entered, not only from this section, but from other portions of this and adjoining states as well. That promises to be one of the outstanding features of the fair and Secretary Denmark says that he is expecting this feature to add very materially in setting a new high water mark for attendance at the approaching State fair.

All roads will lead to Goldsboro during the time that the event is going on here.

TO LEARN BY MAIL FROM UNIVERSITY

Correspondence Course in Advertising and Salesmanship To Be Offered

(By the Associated Press.)
Chapel Hill, Sept. 25.—A new project was inaugurated by the Extension Division of the University of North Carolina to assist in business and commercial development of the state when it was announced today by C. D. Snell, director of the Extension Division, that correspondence courses in advertising and salesmanship are being organized by Professor C. H. Fernald, of the School of Commerce. Business men and their employes may register for the new courses offered by the Extension Division beginning October 1 if it was stated.

Speaking of the new courses, Professor Fernald said, "Realizing the high cost of commercial correspondence school courses, we have for some time desired to offer assistance to the fields of advertising and salesmanship to business men of North Carolina. Last year, when teaching extension classes in these subjects in Durham and Raleigh, I found many progressive merchants and business employes interested in learning new and up to date methods of increasing business. The member of my classes were not prejudiced against a college professor trying to help them in their business; on the other hand, their seriousness of purpose and willingness to learn impressed me greatly.

"The course in advertising consists of a careful analysis of the fundamental principles on which selling is based and a study of the reasons why men buy things. It takes up the salesman in his private life as well as at work and discusses those things which make one successful and another unsuccessful.

"The course in advertising consists primarily of a study of the psychological basis on which the science is founded. This is followed by an analysis of the various types of advertising as they are applied to the selling of goods.

DELEGATION SEEKS TO RESTORE LETTER BOX

Setting forth the fact that the drop letter box at the Union railway station here is of more value than all the other city letter boxes combined, and asserting that the transfer clerk at the union is of great value to the business interests of the city, a petition was being circulated in the city yesterday under the direction of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce, and was being very generally signed, which prays that the service referred to be restored at the Goldsboro station at the earliest possible moment.

The petition in question is addressed to the Third Assistant Postmaster General of the United States and plans were in the making here last night by which a delegation representing the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce will leave the city late this afternoon for Washington and will present the petition in person to the official. It is confidently believed that he will at once give the matter thorough investigation and the assurance is made that if the assistant

POLITICAL ASPECT WORRYING FRANCE

Allied Forces Will Not Take Sides in Any Conflict Which May Arise

(By the Associated Press.)
Paris, France, Sept. 25.—The political situation in Germany as an aftermath of the decision to abandon passive resistance in the Ruhr is being watched by the French government with some anxiety.

Should serious disturbances of any sort arise in the rest of Germany, they would most certainly have the effect of increasing the number of Rhinelanders desiring to assure continuation of tranquility by separation.

The Allied troops, it is stated in official circles, will not be allowed to take sides in any conflict in the absence of any other military forces; responsibility rests upon them for maintaining order in the occupied territory.

There is good reason for this conclusion that the French attribute little importance to the Separatists but they will not intervene to prevent the inhabitants from taking any steps they see fit provided order is not disturbed.

The hypothesis is that the Ruhr, freed from the restrictive decrees of the Berlin government, will repeat the promises made after the beginning of the occupation and will pay the coal tax demanded by the occupation authorities and will be willing to cooperate.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN TO GET ORPHANAGE

City's Business Men Will Put Forth Every Effort to Secure Institution

No stone will be left unturned, by those who have the best interests of Goldsboro at heart, in an effort to secure for his city the Branch Orphanage of the Junior Order, United American Mechanics, according to a statement made here yesterday by those who have actively interested themselves in the campaign. The declaration is made that Goldsboro proposes to push her advantages to the utmost in an effort to secure the institution and it is declared that the prospects now are very bright and there is every indication that the city's efforts may be crowned with eventual success.

In discussing the matter yesterday some of those who have taken the lead in this undertaking said: "Why should we endeavor to secure the orphanage here? Answering their own question, they say: "Because an orphanage is a good thing for any community; because it adds to the population of the city and thereby increases the business revenue of the city; because it gives to the community in the care and welfare of children, a higher interest than that of mere dollars and cents; because many of the orphans educated in such a home will eventually settle in this city and community and make this their home; because they will in turn become good citizens and help do their part in the upbuilding of the city and community; because the blessings of heaven rest upon those who help the orphan; pure religion and undefiled is to visit the widow and orphan and in their affliction and to keep himself unspoiled from the world."

Goldsboro is planning to use every legitimate effort to secure the orphanage plant for this city and thus far no good reason has been advanced why she should not succeed. "If trying will bring home the goods, then we have practically accomplished our purpose," said one of those most actively engaged in the campaign in discussing the matter yesterday.

The State rested its case shortly after the court convened following the noon recess. The defense then began to offer character witnesses in an effort to impeach the State's evidence. The State declined to examine any of the defense's character witnesses.

Prior to that time he enjoyed all his faculties, was always glad to see his friends and carried on interesting conversations with them. His eye light did not begin to fail him until he was forced to take to his bed.

Mr. Jordan was born in the same section in which he died and had been known for the entire period of his life as one of the county's most upright men. He formerly took an active interest in all public affairs and gave liberally of his time to claims made upon it by the community in which he lived.
