NEGRESS HELD GUILTY UNDER PROHIBITION LAW

Roy Whittaker, well known man of Wayne county, said to be a married man with a family, and Blanch Shearin, pretty young miss from Rocky Mount, were arraigned for trial here before Judge E. H. Bland in county court yesterday on a charge of prostitution. Following the hearing of the evidence and the arguments of the attorneys, the Presiding Judge dismissed the charge against the two defendants.

It was charged that the girl had came to this county where she remained for awhile, after which she is said to have again returned to whiskey in their possession at the Rocky Mount and obtained some clothing, coming back to Wayne county. However, the prosecution failed their persons. All four were brought in its attempt to establish that any improper relations had existed between the two defendants. Both the of the men was able to give bond, man and the girl took the stand in but Judge Bland, owing to the youth their own behalf and both vehenicatof one of the accused, permitted him ly declared that they were innocent.
