COOPERATIVES WIN IMPORTANT POINTS IN SEVERAL CASES

(Special to The News.) Raleigh, Oct. 6.—That injunctions by North Carolina Courts are binding was made clear by Judge Frank Daniels of the Superior Court at Smithfield today when he inflicted a $100 fine and a severe rebuke upon A. L. Frazier, a member of the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association for having delivered his tobacco outside of the marketing association following an injunction by the court. Owing to the youth of the defendant and his previous reputation for good character, the penalty was made lighter than the gravity of the offense would generally warrant, according to the statement of Judge Daniels. The Association also gained the continuance of six other injunctions against insurgent members from Johnston and Wake Counties which were heard before Judge Daniels on Friday when Colonel W. T. Joyner represented the Association. North Carolina Cooperatives had their day in other counties also when three other Superior Court judges continued injunctions preventing member growers from delivering their tobacco outside of their own association this week. Judge J. Lloyd Horton at Greenville registered the first substantial legal gains by the cooperatives this week when he ruled that the fact that there is a crop lien on the tobacco

Important New Features Announced For Fair In County This Year

STOLE ENGINE AND TIRES FROM COUPE

Could Have Taken Body of Car and Used That For Kindling This Winter

One Goldsboro man who formerly owned a Ford coupe says that he had often heard of the expression, "adding insult to injury," and that he has now found out the actual meaning of it, that knowledge coming at a pretty dear figure. The gentleman in question was en route to Goldsboro Friday night and when a little way out of the city his gasoline supply became exhausted or he broke down or something of the kind; at any rate, he was forced to abandon the car, after locking it so that it could not be driven, and completed the trip to the city on foot. Yesterday morning the owner of the car returned to bring the same back into the city, only to discover that thieves and desperadoes during the night had gone to where his car was parked, had bodily removed the engine therefrom, and had taken all four tires off the wheels. What the owner of the car is now wondering is why didn't the miscreants take the body home and use that for firewood, since chilly nights and morning have now arrived.

The raid was made by Sheriff Grant and Deputy Sheriff Rhodes, who stated, following their return to the city, that the outfit had been in active operation but that evidently a "run" had been completed just prior to their arrival and those in charge had made good their escape.

STRESEMANN SHOWS STRAIN FOLLOWING PARLEY AND BARTER

Is Apprehensive of What Future May Hold or His Resurrected Coalition

SUBMITS STATEMENT TO THE REICHSTAG

(By the Associated Press.) Berlin, Oct. 6.—Plainly exhibiting signs of physical exhaustion wrought by five days of political parley and barter and incidentally betraying nervousness born of apprehension of what the immediate future holds in store for his resurrected coalition government Chancellor Stresemann this afternoon submitted to the Reichstag a liberally improved statement of the internal and foreign situation. The optimism which ordinarily is a familiar feature of the Chancellor's political utterances was noticeably lacking today and its absence may be taken as symptomatic of the atmosphere of political languor which greeted the return to the Reichstag bench of his laboriously reassembled ministry.

Chancellor Stresemann's speech was mainly a review of events since the abandonment of passive resistance and he frankly discussed the crisis of the past week. He made no precise allusion to the resurrected government party's program nor the extent to which authorization law will be applied, for which he has been seeking Parliament's approval. At the conclusion of his speech, which was a severe physical strain upon the Chancellor, the Reichstag voted to adjourn until Monday when all the parties will announce their individual attitude on the government's proposed semi-dictatorial measures.

Governor Walton Summons Legislation in Extraordinary Session Oct. 11 CHIEF EXECUTIVE IS EAGER FOR THE FRAY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 6.—A call for an extraordinary session of the State Legislature on Oct. 11, "for the purpose of the enactment of law to protect the people from masked and lawless marauders and secret organizations" was issued tonight by Governor J. C. Walton. Simultaneously a statement was made public Aldrich Blake, executive councillor declaring that "the Governor is ready" and that "he is eager to meet the Legislature." The Governor's action was accepted as a challenge for a fight, both with members of the Legislature who have sought his impeachment and his advisors made no effort to hide the fact that they were preparing for the attack. The call indicated that evidence adduced by military court of inquiry throughout the State would support the executive's demand for legislation to be placed before the Legislature to anti-Ku Klux Klan legislation.

HALF OF ORPHANAGE SUM ASKED HERE IS PLEDGED BY PUBLIC

Last night marked the conclusion of the first week of the campaign here for funds with which to secure the branch orphanage of the Junior Order of the United American Mechanics, which orphanage is to be established at some early date at some city in North Carolina. Those officially connected with the campaign here said last night that while they were not prepared to give out any official figures on the result of the first week of the campaign, they would state that in excess of $30,000 had been pledged prior to Saturday night and they are confident that the close of next week will see the sum of $60,000 in hand here, that having been the goal announced at the beginning of the campaign. "We feel that we have done splendidly during the past week in securing the results we have, in view of the fact that we have not seen more than a third of the people from whom we expect to secure subscriptions," said one of the workers last night. "We are sure that by the end of the approaching week, the sum sought and some to spare will have been subscribed and we can then proceed to ratify the tentative offer which Goldsboro has already made to the National Council and which includes an offer of a free site for the orphanage, the value of which will be not less than $60,000." Announcement made here yesterday which will awaken decided interest in Goldsboro is to the effect
