New York Americans Take Second Contest From Nationals by the Score of 4 to 2 and Each Team is Now Credited With One Victory

(By The Associated Press.) New York, Oct. 11.—"Babe" Ruth crossed with mighty tread today the threshold of World's Series glory that has been barred to him for two years.

Another run was scored in that hectic inning, but on his next turn at bat in the fifth the Babe crashed one of Jack Bentley's southpaw slants into the lower right field stands.

Duplicated Trick Another run was scored in that hectic inning, but on his next turn at bat in the fifth the Babe crashed one of Jack Bentley's southpaw slants into the lower right field stands.

It was a spectacular triumph for the Yankees, whose punch master John McGraw's strategy and gave them the first World's Series victory they have known since the fifth game of 1921 championship— a span over which eight defeats and one pl have been the disastrous portion of the American League champions.

But over and above the mere out- come of the game, the brilliant cog that fitted into the Yankee machine, it was the day of days for Ruth, baseball's star of stars, who has come into his own and found the end of the rainbow of World Series fans for which he had sought before in vain.

Ruth's feat of two home runs in a single World's Series game had been done thrice before in two decades of championship history but none of the instances were the circuit blows made in successive innings and successive times at bat.

Except for two innings, Penock, southpaw star of the Miller Huggins staff, had the Giants at his mercy, twirling with consummate, invincible skill and backed up by a defense that at times was spectacular.

Penock's victorious performance was all the more remarkable in the face of an accident in the fourth inning when he was struck on the side and painfully hurt by the first ball pitched by Bentley.

The Yanks gathered 10 hits off pitchers McQuillan and Bentley, only one more than the Giants collected off Penock, but the blows of the American Leaguers were more solid.

(By The Associated Press.) SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Oct. 11.—(By The Associated Press.)—Three members of the crew of a Southern Pacific Express train were shot and killed and the mail car on the train was blown up by train robbers who halted the train as it was entering a tunnel near the Oregon-California line today. Inspect Three Sites

The delegation arrived in the city shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning, coming via auto from Raleigh, and the morning hours were spent in inspecting the sites offered by this city. Included in the number coming here were National Councilor Jos. D. Tunison of New York; Vice National Councilor Thom H. Walters of Pennsylvania; Chairman John H. Noyes of the Immigration Committee of Washington and Chairman W. A. Cooper of the North Carolina State Committee of Raleigh. The distinguished visitors were met at the Kennon hotel here and were taken in automobiles, accompanied by a number of the city's leading citizens, on the trip to three sites inspected, these being the Edwards place, the Hollowell place and Peachcroft farm. Necessarily the committee had to be noncommittal in expressions relative to the suitability and adaptability of the three places seen during the morning, but it was evident from their demeanor that they saw much to admire at the places visited.

Following their return to the city, the delegates were guests of the Goldsboro Kiwanis club, together with a number of the leading citizens of the city, at a delightful luncheon served by the Women's Club of Goldsboro in the rooms of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce.

U. M. Gillilan, in a few well chosen remarks, introduced the members of the National committee present, and then the guests from the city were introduced by the Kiwanians.

The "Smile" song then put the entire body in a good humor, following which George K. Freeman, president of the Kiwanis club felt honored in extending a welcome to the committee, not as guests of the day but as fellow workers.

Dr. W. O. Cone, rector of St. Stephens' Episcopal church, told the members of the committee that he is in Goldsboro, not because he is "in the manor born" but that he is here from choice.

Colonel Joseph E. Robinson, editor of The Goldsboro Argus, was next heard as a representative of the Goldsboro Rotary club. Colonel Robinson reviewed the fact that Goldsboro, Wayne county and the State of North Carolina are rich in historic
