MOVING PICTURE FUNNIES

Now what do you suppose wing-bing is pulling along!

SPARKS CIRCUS TRAINER DOES NOT KNOW MEANING OF EAR

Around the "parlor" they call him "the man without fear." They do not give him special credit for what he does—they believe fear simply was left out of his make-up when he was born, and nothing he can do excites them. But to those who know, there is a different story behind the actions of Steve Batty, Hungarian lion tamer of the Sparks Circus which is coming to Goldsboro on Wednesday, Sep. 24. For Steve does have fear—but he never allows it to conquer him. Never does he appear in the great steel arena where wait for five serious charges with padding and to protect him than an ordinary kitchen chair and a cheap buggy whip. If a lion should take a desire to kill him there would be no more chance for Batty. But Batty laughs at such a thought. "See those eyes?" he asks as two steel gray ones stare into yours. That's all I need to save me. I keep the buggy whip to tap a lion on the nose when I want him to do some certain thing. I keep the kitchen chair to make the lion feel at home and to block his leap if he should jump at me when I've got that leap sticked. I use these eyes and I've never found the animal yet that could keep up his anger when I really retained my eyes on him. Maybe I hypnotize him. I don't know. Batty will demonstrate his methods of lion taming when he comes here with the circus. But he is to form only a part of the big show. There are other wild animals acts and they range all the way from tigers and leopards to a group of genuine South American tigers—the first of their kind to ever succumb to the art of Batty. All of those and many other parades at 10:30 o'clock on circus day.

Prices Children under 12 years of age 35 cts. Adults 75 cts.

Mr. M. E. Beaman, of the Wilson Chamber of Commerce, who is interested in promoting the port terminal bill, was among the business visitors in the city yesterday and while here conferred with Secretary Walter Denmark, of the Chamber of Commerce relative to the same. Mr. Beaman while here also talked with a number of local business men in regard to this proposition.

Cooler Weather Brings Out New Fall Clothes

The touch of Autumn which was in the air yesterday had the effect of bringing out heavier clothing in Goldsboro and scores of people, especially the ladies who were seen on the streets during the afternoon, had donned their attire of cooler days. From now on the clothing merchants and the dealers in ladies wearing apparel expect the demand for Fall and Winter to be rather pronounced.

Location of Cotton Market Here is Soon To Be Changed

Goldsboro's cotton market is to be removed to a new location and traffic along John street, where the market is now located, will probably be helped as a result. The board of aldermen, having had their attention called to the fact that vehicles congest around the cotton market and cause a general obstruction of traffic, have ordered that it be removed to Ormond avenue and this will be done at once. The famous Queen Elizabeth suffered from bad teeth, due to her excessive fondness for sweets.

HELGIG & MYERS MAKE MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Add Additional Floor Space at Their Store on Walnut Street to Better Show Their Line.

Helgig and Myers, who operate a furniture store at No. 119 Walnut street, carrying a complete line of household furnishings, have just completed a number of improvements to the interior of their establishment, which will add much to the convenience of their patrons. A balcony 40 feet in length, and 7 feet in width has been erected on the west side of the building, and on this is being displayed bed room suites, etc. This gives additional floor space, and also makes the display of these goods much more attractive.

COLLEGE STUDENTS RETURN TO SCHOOL

More Than One Hundred Passed Through City Yesterday En Route to Colleges From East Carolina.

More than one hundred girls and boys from the eastern section of the State, Morehead City, Beaufort, New Bern, W. H. and town in that locality, passed through Goldsboro yesterday morning, en route to colleges and preparatory schools in various parts of North Carolina.

It was a merry crowd of young people who came from aboard the Norfolk Southern train from the east and scattered over the city to visit friends and acquaintances for the short while they were in the city. They were all apparently anxious to get back to school and to resume their work, and were looking forward to a most beneficial session with their books.
