

Zeno G. Hollowell Nominated For Next Mayor of Goldsboro By A Clear Majority Ninety - Five Votes

McLENNAY AND CARTER NAMED NEW ALDERMEN

U. M. Gillikin, John R. Raper, and Sam Carter, Are Nominated In Second

LEAD IN EVERY WARD

Hollowell Received A Majority In Every Ward Except the Second

With a majority of ninety-five votes over both of his opponents, Zeno G. Hollowell was yesterday nominated for mayor of Goldsboro...

The total vote of Mr. Hollowell was 977. The second high man in the race, John H. Hewley, received 685 votes...

The Aldermanic Contests

In the aldermanic contests, U. M. Gillikin, John R. Raper and Sam Carter were nominated to represent the second ward...

The vote in the second ward was as follows: J. M. Edgerton, 590; U. M. Gillikin, 625; John R. Raper, 682; and Sam Carter, 634.

In the fourth ward the tally sheets showed Emmett Robinson to have led with 235 votes...

The vote for mayor, by wards was: First ward—Hollowell, 228; Hawley, 137; and Henley, 35.

Second ward—Hollowell, 450; Hawley, 378; and Henley, 99.

Third ward—Hollowell 151; Hawley 78; and Henley 28.

Fourth ward—Hollowell 148; Hawley 92; and Henley 25.

Board Orders Dogs Muzzled or Confined

DANVILLE, Va., April 28.—As a result of a number of persons and cattle having been bitten recently by dogs, several of which were found to be suffering with rabies, the county board of health today issued an order that all dogs in the county must be muzzled or kept confined until July 1.

Two Convicts Flee Prison at Richmond

RICHMOND, Va., April 28.—Alfred Williams sentenced in October, 1924, to 5 years imprisonment for house-breaking at Newport News, and Preston Walters, sentenced in May, 1923, to fifteen years for attempted attack on a woman in Augusta county, both negroes, escaped from the State penitentiary here between roll call last night and 6:30 o'clock this morning.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 28.—Spot cotton quiet. Middling 24.00. Cotton futures closed steady, May 23.75, July 23.39, Oct. 23.70, Dec. 23.87, Jan. 23.60.

The Next Mayor

ZENO G. HOLLOWELL

SIDELIGHTS ON CITY ELECTION

One Lady Objected to Proffered Assistant of One of the Ward Workers

By JOHN HENDON While the voting was in full swing and ward heeters were vying with each other in bringing in the voters, a slender lady entered the second ward precinct and walked towards the ticket table...

By JOHN HENDON

While the voting was in full swing and ward heeters were vying with each other in bringing in the voters, a slender lady entered the second ward precinct and walked towards the ticket table...

By JOHN HENDON

While the voting was in full swing and ward heeters were vying with each other in bringing in the voters, a slender lady entered the second ward precinct and walked towards the ticket table...

By JOHN HENDON

While the voting was in full swing and ward heeters were vying with each other in bringing in the voters, a slender lady entered the second ward precinct and walked towards the ticket table...

By JOHN HENDON

While the voting was in full swing and ward heeters were vying with each other in bringing in the voters, a slender lady entered the second ward precinct and walked towards the ticket table...

By JOHN HENDON

While the voting was in full swing and ward heeters were vying with each other in bringing in the voters, a slender lady entered the second ward precinct and walked towards the ticket table...

WOMAN IS HELD A PRISONER FOR FIVE LONG YEARS

Alleged Predicament Revealed Following Fight Between Her Father and Husband

LOCKED UP IN THE CABIN

Father Confined Mrs. Warren On Ship Five Years Without Touching Land

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 28.—The sudden flare of acid fued between two huge captains revealed to the police today the story of a young woman, the daughter of one barge man and the wife of the other, said to have been held prisoner on her elderly husband's coal barge for five years...

By JOHN HENDON

Warren kept his wife prisoner by locking her in the cabin of the barge, according to "Banks' story. Banks said he had a quarrel with his son-in-law at the time of the wedding and that they had been on bad terms ever since...

By JOHN HENDON

Warren kept his wife prisoner by locking her in the cabin of the barge, according to "Banks' story. Banks said he had a quarrel with his son-in-law at the time of the wedding...

By JOHN HENDON

Warren kept his wife prisoner by locking her in the cabin of the barge, according to "Banks' story. Banks said he had a quarrel with his son-in-law at the time of the wedding...

By JOHN HENDON

Warren kept his wife prisoner by locking her in the cabin of the barge, according to "Banks' story. Banks said he had a quarrel with his son-in-law at the time of the wedding...

By JOHN HENDON

Warren kept his wife prisoner by locking her in the cabin of the barge, according to "Banks' story. Banks said he had a quarrel with his son-in-law at the time of the wedding...

By JOHN HENDON

Warren kept his wife prisoner by locking her in the cabin of the barge, according to "Banks' story. Banks said he had a quarrel with his son-in-law at the time of the wedding...

MANY PRESENT EDUCATIONAL RALLY PROGRAM

Ceremonies at Pikeville Yesterday Featured By Splendid Success

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS

Pikeville School Hoists Close Day With Exercises Of Literary Society

A crowd estimated at 2,000 or more attended the Educational Rally held at Pikeville yesterday. A varied and interesting program presented by pupils and teachers from five townships in Wayne county, held the interest of the great crowd from 10:30 in the morning until 9:30 in the afternoon...

By JOHN HENDON

The program for the day began with a splendid presentation of a model chapel erected by the Eureka and Faro schools. A musical reading and a Safety First story seemed to please the audience very much.

By JOHN HENDON

The Nahant school presented a very attractive program consisting of a health play, a drama and an interpretation of a poem, "Pocahontas." The superlatives and praises of the average "Country Store" society were ably interpreted by the boys of the Belmont High School.

By JOHN HENDON

A chorus by a group of grammar grade children from Rosewood, and a solo by Miss Hales of the faculty of Nahant school contributed much to the success of the occasion.

By JOHN HENDON

The out of town visitors, consisting of Mr. John Blair, Mr. L. S. Broden, and Miss Hattie Parrott, of the State Department of Education, Mr. John C. Lockhart, and Miss Anne Holford, Superintendent and Supervisor of Wake county schools, Mr. A. H. Ekerton, Mr. J. A. Best, and Mr. J. E. Kelly, members of the Wayne county board of education, expressed their appreciation of the splendid program presented by the group of Consolidated Schools of Wayne county.

By JOHN HENDON

The out of town visitors, consisting of Mr. John Blair, Mr. L. S. Broden, and Miss Hattie Parrott, of the State Department of Education, Mr. John C. Lockhart, and Miss Anne Holford, Superintendent and Supervisor of Wake county schools, Mr. A. H. Ekerton, Mr. J. A. Best, and Mr. J. E. Kelly, members of the Wayne county board of education, expressed their appreciation of the splendid program presented by the group of Consolidated Schools of Wayne county.

By JOHN HENDON

The out of town visitors, consisting of Mr. John Blair, Mr. L. S. Broden, and Miss Hattie Parrott, of the State Department of Education, Mr. John C. Lockhart, and Miss Anne Holford, Superintendent and Supervisor of Wake county schools, Mr. A. H. Ekerton, Mr. J. A. Best, and Mr. J. E. Kelly, members of the Wayne county board of education, expressed their appreciation of the splendid program presented by the group of Consolidated Schools of Wayne county.

By JOHN HENDON

The out of town visitors, consisting of Mr. John Blair, Mr. L. S. Broden, and Miss Hattie Parrott, of the State Department of Education, Mr. John C. Lockhart, and Miss Anne Holford, Superintendent and Supervisor of Wake county schools, Mr. A. H. Ekerton, Mr. J. A. Best, and Mr. J. E. Kelly, members of the Wayne county board of education, expressed their appreciation of the splendid program presented by the group of Consolidated Schools of Wayne county.

GOLDSBORO MAN SELLS QUARRY TO DUKE TRUSTEES

Mr. Parker, of the I. O. O. F. Home Discovers Big Tract To The University

LOCATED AT HILLSBORO

Granite On His Place Pronounced By Engineers To Be Of Fine Quality

A Goldsboro citizen, Mr. Parker, superintendent of the architectural department of Independent Order of Odd Fellows, has closed a contract with greater Duke university to supply that institution to be used in the construction of additional buildings. It was learned yesterday, one huge quarry where the granite will be mined and cut, is located two miles east of Hillsboro.

By JOHN HENDON

The building program of Duke university calls for the erection of six granite structures and the architect in charge of the project cast about for a source for the granite nearer than Vermont, where most of the best granite is quarried. His explorations reported that Mr. Parker, of Goldsboro, owned a granite quarry near Hillsboro that would supply all the material needed in the construction of the buildings.

By JOHN HENDON

An effort is being made to secure all of the granite possible from the state of North Carolina, in order to save freight charges, and Duke officials are negotiating with the contractor for the big Hillsboro quarry.

By JOHN HENDON

The quarry which Mr. Parker sold to Duke university has not been worked for some time, owing to the small demand for the material. Those who have seen the quarry recently say it has grown over with grass and small trees, but that a very fine grade of granite quartz is to be found in the sheer cliffs that form the quarry.

By JOHN HENDON

Experts who have analyzed the granite found in the big quarry say that it compares favorably with the best grade of stone mined in the famous Vermont quarries. The granite is of various grades, and some of the strata is well-colored, making it possible for the contractors to select different grades and shades for the various needs in the construction of the buildings.

By JOHN HENDON

The out of town visitors, consisting of Mr. John Blair, Mr. L. S. Broden, and Miss Hattie Parrott, of the State Department of Education, Mr. John C. Lockhart, and Miss Anne Holford, Superintendent and Supervisor of Wake county schools, Mr. A. H. Ekerton, Mr. J. A. Best, and Mr. J. E. Kelly, members of the Wayne county board of education, expressed their appreciation of the splendid program presented by the group of Consolidated Schools of Wayne county.

By JOHN HENDON

The out of town visitors, consisting of Mr. John Blair, Mr. L. S. Broden, and Miss Hattie Parrott, of the State Department of Education, Mr. John C. Lockhart, and Miss Anne Holford, Superintendent and Supervisor of Wake county schools, Mr. A. H. Ekerton, Mr. J. A. Best, and Mr. J. E. Kelly, members of the Wayne county board of education, expressed their appreciation of the splendid program presented by the group of Consolidated Schools of Wayne county.

By JOHN HENDON

The out of town visitors, consisting of Mr. John Blair, Mr. L. S. Broden, and Miss Hattie Parrott, of the State Department of Education, Mr. John C. Lockhart, and Miss Anne Holford, Superintendent and Supervisor of Wake county schools, Mr. A. H. Ekerton, Mr. J. A. Best, and Mr. J. E. Kelly, members of the Wayne county board of education, expressed their appreciation of the splendid program presented by the group of Consolidated Schools of Wayne county.

HOPES TO PUT STOP TO CALLING 'EM FLAPPERS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 28.—Reference to any woman as a "flapper" in Florida would be considered against the dignity of the state, under provisions of a resolution introduced in the house today.

Speaking on the measure, its author, Representative Branch, stated that he was serious in the matter.

"The women of Florida are about all we have left to look to for decency," Mr. Branch said, "and I resent the reference to young women of Florida that they are like a horse—painted in front, shingled in the back, and empty in the attic. I trust this measure will meet with serious consideration."

By JOHN HENDON

The women of Florida are about all we have left to look to for decency, Mr. Branch said, "and I resent the reference to young women of Florida that they are like a horse—painted in front, shingled in the back, and empty in the attic. I trust this measure will meet with serious consideration."

By JOHN HENDON

The women of Florida are about all we have left to look to for decency, Mr. Branch said, "and I resent the reference to young women of Florida that they are like a horse—painted in front, shingled in the back, and empty in the attic. I trust this measure will meet with serious consideration."

By JOHN HENDON

The women of Florida are about all we have left to look to for decency, Mr. Branch said, "and I resent the reference to young women of Florida that they are like a horse—painted in front, shingled in the back, and empty in the attic. I trust this measure will meet with serious consideration."

By JOHN HENDON

The women of Florida are about all we have left to look to for decency, Mr. Branch said, "and I resent the reference to young women of Florida that they are like a horse—painted in front, shingled in the back, and empty in the attic. I trust this measure will meet with serious consideration."

By JOHN HENDON

The women of Florida are about all we have left to look to for decency, Mr. Branch said, "and I resent the reference to young women of Florida that they are like a horse—painted in front, shingled in the back, and empty in the attic. I trust this measure will meet with serious consideration."

By JOHN HENDON

The women of Florida are about all we have left to look to for decency, Mr. Branch said, "and I resent the reference to young women of Florida that they are like a horse—painted in front, shingled in the back, and empty in the attic. I trust this measure will meet with serious consideration."

By JOHN HENDON

The women of Florida are about all we have left to look to for decency, Mr. Branch said, "and I resent the reference to young women of Florida that they are like a horse—painted in front, shingled in the back, and empty in the attic. I trust this measure will meet with serious consideration."

WORK OF SINK A GREAT RELIEF TO MR. MLEAN

His Desk Is Piled High

Among the Cases Now Before Him Are Six of Men Condemned To Die

BALTIMORE, April 28.—With 200 cases stacked up in his office to be acted on and new ones coming in at the rate of from five to ten a day, Hoyte Sink, commissioner of pardons, is a busy man. He goes to his office at 9 o'clock each morning and tries to call it a day at 5 in the afternoon. But more often it is past five before he leaves.

"I just don't see how I would have gotten along without someone to help me in the matter of pardons," said Governor McLean. "Not only is Mr. Sink a very valuable and efficient man, but the work he is doing is a great relief to me."

Since the enactment of legislation increasing the powers and duties of the state's chief executive, the governor has had his hands full. Numerous laws were passed by the 122d general assembly giving him additional work and responsibilities.

While the appointment of a pardon commissioner did not take him from the final say-so as to the exercise of clemency, still under the new system all details are turned over to Mr. Sink who writes them out and presents his findings to the governor for his approval.

A visit to Commissioner Sink's office at one hour of the day will show a clean, uncluttered room, including a desk, a chair, a table, a lamp, and a few books, and a man sitting at his desk awaiting their turn at a hearing.

Commissioner Sink is continuing to dispose of cases as fast as they come daily. He now has the papers in six capital cases, the petitioners being George Love, Alvin Redman, Jim Collins, Jonathan Brown, Will Williams and William Henry Hamilton. Redman's case has already been heard and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. All other petitioners are confined to die in the electric chair. All are waiting commutation.

"No case that was pending on definitely by a former governor will be considered until six months have elapsed, and then they must be re-advertised and treated as new cases," said Commissioner Sink. "There are enough new cases to keep the boys," he added.

"If there has been any change either way, there are cases of being filed since the establishment of the office of pardon commissioner," said Mr. Sink. "I don't see how the former governors ever kept up with anything else," was his comment. "I think they did mighty fine to get any other work done."

Mr. Sink's office is separate and apart from the executive office as to location. He occupies space in the Agricultural building, across the street from the capital. When anyone brings in a new case of clemency the governor asks a case, he is immediately referred to Mr. Sink who, in turn, takes all the papers, hears oral petitions and writes letters advising further information, if he deems that course necessary. He signs into the prison records of those for whom clemency is asked. He transmits information presented to him by interested parties with impartial information gotten from official sources. Then, when this is all done, he views the case in all its aspects and turns over his findings to the governor, together with his recommendation.

Commissioner Sink is continuing to dispose of cases as fast as they come daily. He now has the papers in six capital cases, the petitioners being George Love, Alvin Redman, Jim Collins, Jonathan Brown, Will Williams and William Henry Hamilton. Redman's case has already been heard and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. All other petitioners are confined to die in the electric chair. All are waiting commutation.

"No case that was pending on definitely by a former governor will be considered until six months have elapsed, and then they must be re-advertised and treated as new cases," said Commissioner Sink. "There are enough new cases to keep the boys," he added.

"If there has been any change either way, there are cases of being filed since the establishment of the office of pardon commissioner," said Mr. Sink. "I don't see how the former governors ever kept up with anything else," was his comment. "I think they did mighty fine to get any other work done."

Mr. Sink's office is separate and apart from the executive office as to location. He occupies space in the Agricultural building, across the street from the capital. When anyone brings in a new case of clemency the governor asks a case, he is immediately referred to Mr. Sink who, in turn, takes all the papers, hears oral petitions and writes letters advising further information, if he deems that course necessary. He signs into the prison records of those for whom clemency is asked. He transmits information presented to him by interested parties with impartial information gotten from official sources. Then, when this is all done, he views the case in all its aspects and turns over his findings to the governor, together with his recommendation.

Commissioner Sink is continuing to dispose of cases as fast as they come daily. He now has the papers in six capital cases, the petitioners being George Love, Alvin Redman, Jim Collins, Jonathan Brown, Will Williams and William Henry Hamilton. Redman's case has already been heard and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. All other petitioners are confined to die in the electric chair. All are waiting commutation.

"No case that was pending on definitely by a former governor will be considered until six months have elapsed, and then they must be re-advertised and treated as new cases," said Commissioner Sink. "There are enough new cases to keep the boys," he added.

"If there has been any change either way, there are cases of being filed since the establishment of the office of pardon commissioner," said Mr. Sink. "I don't see how the former governors ever kept up with anything else," was his comment. "I think they did mighty fine to get any other work done."

Mr. Sink's office is separate and apart from the executive office as to location. He occupies space in the Agricultural building, across the street from the capital. When anyone brings in a new case of clemency the governor asks a case, he is immediately referred to Mr. Sink who, in turn, takes all the papers, hears oral petitions and writes letters advising further information, if he deems that course necessary. He signs into the prison records of those for whom clemency is asked. He transmits information presented to him by interested parties with impartial information gotten from official sources. Then, when this is all done, he views the case in all its aspects and turns over his findings to the governor, together with his recommendation.

Commissioner Sink is continuing to dispose of cases as fast as they come daily. He now has the papers in six capital cases, the petitioners being George Love, Alvin Redman, Jim Collins, Jonathan Brown, Will Williams and William Henry Hamilton. Redman's case has already been heard and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. All other petitioners are confined to die in the electric chair. All are waiting commutation.

"No case that was pending on definitely by a former governor will be considered until six months have elapsed, and then they must be re-advertised and treated as new cases," said Commissioner Sink. "There are enough new cases to keep the boys," he added.

"If there has been any change either way, there are cases of being filed since the establishment of the office of pardon commissioner," said Mr. Sink. "I don't see how the former governors ever kept up with anything else," was his comment. "I think they did mighty fine to get any other work done."

Mr. Sink's office is separate and apart from the executive office as to location. He occupies space in the Agricultural building, across the street from the capital. When anyone brings in a new case of clemency the governor asks a case, he is immediately referred to Mr. Sink who, in turn, takes all the papers, hears oral petitions and writes letters advising further information, if he deems that course necessary. He signs into the prison records of those for whom clemency is asked. He transmits information presented to him by interested parties with impartial information gotten from official sources. Then, when this is all done, he views the case in all its aspects and turns over his findings to the governor, together with his recommendation.

Commissioner Sink is continuing to dispose of cases as fast as they come daily. He now has the papers in six capital cases, the petitioners being George Love, Alvin Redman, Jim Collins, Jonathan Brown, Will Williams and William Henry Hamilton. Redman's case has already been heard and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. All other petitioners are confined to die in the electric chair. All are waiting commutation.

"No case that was pending on definitely by a former governor will be considered until six months have elapsed, and then they must be re-advertised and treated as new cases," said Commissioner Sink. "There are enough new cases to keep the boys," he added.

"If there has been any change either way, there are cases of being filed since the establishment of the office of pardon commissioner," said Mr. Sink. "I don't see how the former governors ever kept up with anything else," was his comment. "I think they did mighty fine to get any other work done."

Mr. Sink's office is separate and apart from the executive office as to location. He occupies space in the Agricultural building, across the street from the capital. When anyone brings in a new case of clemency the governor asks a case, he is immediately referred to Mr. Sink who, in turn, takes all the papers, hears oral petitions and writes letters advising further information, if he deems that course necessary. He signs into the prison records of those for whom clemency is asked. He transmits information presented to him by interested parties with impartial information gotten from official sources. Then, when this is all done, he views the case in all its aspects and turns over his findings to the governor, together with his recommendation.

Commissioner Sink is continuing to dispose of cases as fast as they come daily. He now has the papers in six capital cases, the petitioners being George Love, Alvin Redman, Jim Collins, Jonathan Brown, Will Williams and William Henry Hamilton. Redman's case has already been heard and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. All other petitioners are confined to die in the electric chair. All are waiting commutation.

"No case that was pending on definitely by a former governor will be considered until six months have elapsed, and then they must be re-advertised and treated as new cases," said Commissioner Sink. "There are enough new cases to keep the boys," he added.

"If there has been any change either way, there are cases of being filed since the establishment of the office of pardon commissioner," said Mr. Sink. "I don't see how the former governors ever kept up with anything else," was his comment. "I think they did mighty fine to get any other work done."

Mr. Sink's office is separate and apart from the executive office as to location. He occupies space in the Agricultural building, across the street from the capital. When anyone brings in a new case of clemency the governor asks a case, he is immediately referred to Mr. Sink who, in turn, takes all the papers, hears oral petitions and writes letters advising further information, if he deems that course necessary. He signs into the prison records of those for whom clemency is asked. He transmits information presented to him by interested parties with impartial information gotten from official sources. Then, when this is all done, he views the case in all its aspects and turns over his findings to the governor, together with his recommendation.

Commissioner Sink is continuing to dispose of cases as fast as they come daily. He now has the papers in six capital cases, the petitioners being George Love, Alvin Redman, Jim Collins, Jonathan Brown, Will Williams and William Henry Hamilton. Redman's case has already been heard and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. All other petitioners are confined to die in the electric chair. All are waiting commutation.

"No case that was pending on definitely by a former governor will be considered until six months have elapsed, and then they must be re-advertised and treated as new cases," said Commissioner Sink. "There are enough new cases to keep the boys," he added.

"If there has been any change either way, there are cases of being filed since the establishment of the office of pardon commissioner," said Mr. Sink. "I don't see how the former governors ever kept up with anything else," was his comment. "I think they did mighty fine to get any other work done."

Mr. Sink's office is separate and apart from the executive office as to location. He occupies space in the Agricultural building, across the street from the capital. When anyone brings in a new case of clemency the governor asks a case, he is immediately referred to Mr. Sink who, in turn, takes all the papers, hears oral petitions and writes letters advising further information, if he deems that course necessary. He signs into the prison records of those for whom clemency is asked. He transmits information presented to him by interested parties with impartial information gotten from official sources. Then, when this is all done, he views the case in all its aspects and turns over his findings to the governor, together with his recommendation.

Commissioner Sink is continuing to dispose of cases as fast as they come daily. He now has the papers in six capital cases, the petitioners being George Love, Alvin Redman, Jim Collins, Jonathan Brown, Will Williams and William Henry Hamilton. Redman's case has already been heard and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. All other petitioners are confined to die in the electric chair. All are waiting commutation.

"No case that was pending on definitely by a former governor will be considered until six months have elapsed, and then they must be re-advertised and treated as new cases," said Commissioner Sink. "There are enough new cases to keep the boys," he added.

"If there has been any change either way, there are cases of being filed since the establishment of the office of pardon commissioner," said Mr. Sink. "I don't see how the former governors ever kept up with anything else," was his comment. "I think they did mighty fine to get any other work done."