Annual Virginia And Carolina Classic Will Attract Large Crowd

Thousands Expected to Witness Contest to Be Played in Chapel Hill Today

CAROLINA A FAVORITE

Odds Apparently Favor Tar Heels, Although Virginia Has Strong Team

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. () Primed by the 50th annual renewal of their Thanksgiving game, Virginia and Carolina football squads met at Chapel Hill today. The Carolina team received special instructions from the coaches, while the Virginia team was speeding through the country en route from Charlottesville, Va. The game starts at two o'clock, Carolina will enter the fray tomorrow with its entire first team in position, while Virginia will have one substitute. It was indicated tonight that the Cavaliers will play left half for the Cavaliers in the place of Wolf, who was injured last week.

Tonight the thousands of fans attending the annual game were about to take place. Hundreds were waiting by every road and track, but those left the majority of the more than fifteen thousand Virginians and Tar Heels who are expected to witness the game. The weather prediction tonight was for slightly warmer weather, probably with rain, and this was being met by the Tar Heels. The Cavaliers have a light but hot backfield and will depend on aerial work to a great extent. It was indicated, and the rain will interfere. Carolina's line is expected to prove the bulwark which will enable the backfield to work either the aerial game or straight football at will.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 25.—When the Tarheels of Carolina and the Cavaliers of Virginia meet on Emerson Field here tomorrow in the annual renewal of their arduous classic, a colorful throng will be on hand.

State officials of North Carolina will be led by Governor Angus W. McLean and it is certain that practically every member of North Carolina's official family will be on hand. Governor McLean will be the guest of Dr. Harry W. Chase, president of the University.

Governor E. Lee Trinkle will not be present at the game, though Governor McLean invited him to be his guest. The Executive of Virginia had previously accepted an invitation to appear at a football game in Raleigh. It is expected however that a number of Virginia officials will be on hand to see the Cavaliers take to the Tarheels.

Trains will operate tonight between sections of North Carolina to Chapel Hill and one of two also will come down from Virginia. More than 15,000 persons saw the scoreless tie of the game played here two years ago and it is expected that as great a throng will witness tomorrow's game. For North Carolina it is the greatest football game each season and always draws a greater crowd than any other.

OTHER GAMES TODAY
Outside of the Carolina-Virginia game, other grid contests in North Carolina tomorrow will draw together Davidson and Duke at Davidson, Wake Forest and Elon at Elon, Lenoir-Rhyne and Guilford at Hickory. The Davidson-Duke struggle will be the most interesting game with the exception of the Chapel Hill classic and, without Carolina fans will have an opportunity of seeing the Wildcats in victory over more

Boy Scouts Receiving Instruction In The Useful Art Of Woodcraft

Boy Scouts Show Growth During Past Year; Citizenship Training And Character-Building Its Objective

"Do a Good Turn Daily"; Enviably Reputation for Alertness and Bravery; Saves Four Lives In Three Months; Apportioned $2,925 in Community Chest Campaign, which Begins December 2nd

During the past year the Boy Scouts of Goldsboro, under the direction of Mr. W. W. Rivers, Scout Executive, have outlined a vigorous program of work for the coming year. This program will be made possible by the $2,925 budget allowed the Scouts by the Community Chest.

An enviable record was made during the past year in the saving of four lives in three months. All rescues occurred in saving drowning persons. Other notable incidents are in the records where the Scout slogan, "Do a Good Turn Daily," leads to deeds of bravery as well as service. The Scouts are organized into troops, which are generally connected with some church or educational institution. Each troop has leaders from its own number and a commander and a committee of elder business men who assist in obtaining a suitable meeting place, supplies, etc. The entire body has a Scout Council of forty-eight business and professional men who act as an advisory board; Mr. Leslie Weil is chairman of the committee, and Dr. W. H. Smith is Scout Commissioner.

Last summer Goldsboro Scouts participated in the summer camp at Holts Lake. Training for patrol leaders has also been an important feature of the work, and training the boys to take an active part in public affairs. Merit badges are awarded for accomplishment along various lines of work. First Aid treatments, which were offered at the Fair recently, furnish a good example of the type of work the Scouts are doing.

Since organization, the Boy Scouts have given in Goldsboro over thirteen hundred hours of civic service. That service has been rendered to the following organizations: Red Cross, Salvation Army, Wayne County Fair Association, Chamber of Commerce, Disabled American Veterans, Civil War Veterans. The monthly Troop Good Turns have been service for the different churches.

The permanent home of this organization is in the Memorial Community Building.

GIRL SCOUTS
A Character Building Organization for Girls, Training Them to Be Trustworthy, Loyal and Useful. Its part of the Community Chest Budget is $600.

The Girl Scout organization is composed of a number of girls who are learning, in the happiest way how to combine patriotism and outdoor activities of every kind with skill in every branch of both domestic and community service.

At the present time there are two active troops of Girl Scouts in this city, numbering 48 in all. Miss Allie Freeman is Captain of Troop No. 1, and Miss Mary Michaux is Captain of Troop No. 2.

Girl Scouts are taught to be trustworthy, loyal, useful and considerate of others—to be friendly, courageous and kind, and to be clean in thought, word and deed. Besides developing character, health-building is an essential part of the Girl Scout program. They are the health-makers of tomorrow. Their aim is good citizenship. They are the help of Goldsboro to attain these ideals. The headquarters for the Girl Scouts are in the Memorial Community Building.

CHAPMAN IS GIVEN THIRD LEASE ON LIFE

Governor of Connecticut Grants Bandit Another Reprieve; To Die March 3

HARTFORD, CONN.—Gerald Chapman, under sentence to die on the gallows in State Prison at Wethersfield for murder, and whose long unfinished term in Atlanta prison for mail robbery was commuted by President Coolidge today, has had another extension of his days on this earth. Governor John H. Trumbull will sign another reprieve, which will fix Chapman's death date at March 3, next, instead of December 3.

The latter date was the limit of the reprieve under which his life has been prolonged since June 25, last, the original date set by Judge Newell Jennings in Hartford Superior Court after his conviction for the murder of Officer James Skelly, of New Britain.

Under the stay of execution which will come with the second reprieve Chapman's counsel expects to go to the United States Supreme Court for decisions on points they will raise. Two of these points will be based on the result of Chapman to accept the Presidential commutation of sentence for mail robbery and on the scope of his rights under the constitution, which are to be claimed on a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in state prison before Federal

Thanksgiving Paroles Issued To Prisoners By Governor McLean

Executive Clemency Extended to 15 Unfortunates; Statement Issued; Spirit of Holiday Impels Pardons

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 25. (A. P.)—have uncomplainingly served their sentences. In some instances, they have never asked for clemency, states, and the paroles were issued by the Governor on his own motion, after investigations made by Pardon Commissioner H. Hoyt Sink, an whose recommendations the paroles were paroled.

Those paroled are: Freeman Hady, John Flood, C. M. Sawyer, Percy Hale, Raymond and Marcus Hilliard, Charlie Miller, Will Cook, Joe Powell, Nick Joyner, Frank Snow, Roy Whitted, H. Holderfeld and Hugh Jackson and E. E. Kime.

The statement issued by Governor McLean, in connection with the issuance of these paroles, follows:

Spirit of Sacrificence
"The spirit of sacrifice with which we like to associate Thanksgiving has impelled me to give thought and consideration to those in our midst who have been unfortunates of the rules of society and even those who willfully violated the constitution and law of the State."

Two of the prisoners who today were paroled's past 70 years old; another has been in the State Prison for 21 years—since 1904. Another entered the prison in 1907 and another in 1909. The prisoners were serving sentences for crimes varying from that of murder to violation of the prohibition laws.

Without Influence
The Governor in his statement relative to the paroles issued to these 15 prisoners points out that in many instances they are men without money—financially ruined by the

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD FOR J. B. DUKE

Governor McLean and Other Notables Speak at Durham Yesterday

DURHAM, N. C.—Several hundred people attended a Memorial service held at Duke University this morning for the late James B. Duke, representing trustees of Duke University, trustees of the Duke endowment, alumni, students and friends. Several brief talks of appreciation were made during the hour and a half that the service was in progress.

Governor McLean spoke the appreciation of the people of North Carolina for the deceased; Joseph G. Brown, of Raleigh, president of the trustees of the University, spoke for the trustees; S. S. Alderman, of Greensboro, spoke as representative of the alumni; W. S. Hakeney, Jr., president of the student council, spoke for the student body; Dr. W. P. Few, President of the University, spoke for the institution; George G. Allen and W. R. Perkins, of New York, spoke as members of the new friends of the deceased.

Incidental to the tributes paid to Mr. Duke by the speakers, was the presentation of the pen with which Mr. Duke signed the Duke endowment indenture on December 25, 1924, and the desk and chair used in the signing. The pen is to be exhibited on

ROYALL AND BORDEN WILL CELEBRATE

Local Furniture Store Established Forty Years Ago Leaders in This Field

In Goldsboro there are many men and business houses whose names are synonyms for all that is honest, upright, courageous and honorable—names that are indelibly written in the story of the progress of this city and this section of North Carolina—and a leader among these names is that of the Royall and Borden Furniture Company, which, for forty years, has earned to its clients in such a manner as to win for itself the confidence of all with whom they deal.

To celebrate their forty-first anniversary, this progressive firm will Friday begin an extensive sale, during which furniture of character and distinction will be offered at reduced prices.

A reception will be held at the local store Friday afternoon, at which everyone is invited, and at which light refreshments will be served. This event will attract a large number of people who know that when Royall and Borden make a sale, values will most certainly be offered.

Established in 1883, when Goldsboro was little more than an important crossroads, George C. Royall and John L. Borden, who comprise the firm, today occupy the leading establishment of the kind in Goldsboro, and have expanded their activities to include the entire State, where they have recently created a branch office in Durham, where the firm has the same high standing that it holds in this city and in Raleigh. In addition to operating three of the most modern furniture stores in North Carolina, the Royall and Borden Manufacturing Company has for years produced in their plant here the Special Pat. Fan of distinction and renown, these products being well and firmly known throughout the entire United States.

Both "George Royall" and "John Borden" are men of high character and high standing in the community and in the State, all of whom realize that they will have the privilege and pleasure of viewing and admiring an exceptional exhibit of the type that makes for comfort, utility and happiness.

Not only have these gentlemen succeeded so well in their business ventures, but they have always taken a leading part in civic and community matters, responding in an admirable manner whenever they were called upon to aid in any and all worthy causes.

Civic Worker
George C. Royall is more than a citizen of Goldsboro—he is beloved by the entire western section of the State, because of his activities in behalf of better schools, better roads, hospitals, and many other good causes. Mr. Royall has for many years faithfully served St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, of this city, of which he is now a leading officer. His wise counsel is requested and adopted by the Diocese of Eastern North Carolina, in the upbuilding of which he has played so large a part.

John L. Borden is no less active in matters pertaining to the public welfare. Following his graduation from the great Citadel of Charleston, he taught in the local schools for a number of years, giving up this work to enter into business with Mr. Royall, a partnership that is a revelation.
