STEEL BODY OF CAR SAVES LIVES OF OCCUPANTS

COLE - ORMOND DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED FOR $15,000

Big Cadillac Turns Over Three Times Near Town Of Mount Olive—No One Killed

Driver of Machine, Blinded by Glare of Approaching Car, Leaves Pavement and Machine Turns Over Thrice — Car Filled With Ladies But Only One of These Is Slightly Injured — Steel Body Saved Them

The supremacy of steel bodies for automobiles in place of those of wood or some other material, was forcibly and fittingly demonstrated near Mount Olive, twelve miles south of Goldsboro, Sunday night, when a Cadillac limousine, owned by Mrs. Ben Southerland, of that place, left the concrete pavement and turned over three times. The car was being driven by a colored chauffeur at the time, and in addition was occupied by Mrs. Southerland and several other ladies. Mrs. Southerland was the only one injured, suffering more from the shock than from physical injury, and a report from the Goldsboro hospital last night, where she is receiving treatment, was to the effect that she was resting very comfortably, and would probably be discharged within the course of a few days.

According to the account of the affair as related to THE NEWS, Mrs. Southerland and her party were returning to Mount Olive from a visit at Wilmington. A few miles from Mount Olive a car equipped with glaring headlights and traveling at a high rate of speed came down the road headed directly south. The driver of Mrs. Southerland's car, blinded by the headlights of the approaching car, and attempting to give the latter all possible space on the highway, cut too far to his right.

The Cadillac struck the dirt road alongside the pavement, and immediately turned over, rolling over three times before coming to a stop.

All of the windows were down at the time and, strange to say, not one of these was broken.

In order for the occupants to get clear of the car, it was found necessary to break the window in the rear and they crawled through this. A check-up showed that Mrs. Southerland was the only one who had been hurt in the least.

Another remarkable feature in connection with the accident, was the fact that the car, after being righted, was able to continue on to Mount Olive, its destination, under its own power.

It is believed that had the machine been of wood or some similar construction and the accident occurred as it did, the occupants of the car would have been killed or seriously hurt.

Mr. Isham Barberry Died at His Home on North John Street Saturday Night

Saturday night at 9 o'clock, one of Goldsboro's oldest citizens, Mr. Isham Barberry, passed away at his home on North John street.

Mr. Barberry was 69 years old. He had been an invalid for many years, having his sixth stroke of paralysis Friday night. He was a Christian, having made a profession of religion in a quiet way in his own several years ago. Since that time he has lived a consistent Christian life, nothing giving him more happiness than hearing someone read the Word of God, or testifying of his love for Christ.

Mr. Barberry was patient in his suffering, and very appreciative of anything done by his family or friends to make his hours more comfortable and less tedious. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Wiley Edwards, of this city.

RAIN FOLLOWS PRAYER SEASON

South Carolina People Pray for Relief and Showers Come Down

Charlotte, June 14. (AP)—Rain, following in several instances, mass prayer meetings, today had given hope to many citizens of South Carolina who had despaired a few days ago in the face of the long drought that gripped the two states.

Gastonia, N. C., late yesterday was visited by the first rain in many days after prayer services had been held in churches there during the morning for showers. Similar services were planned for this week.

Fast and Pray
Citizens of Chester, S. C., closed their places of business today at 11 a. m. and gathered in prayer, the situation being declared so serious that crops would be ruined unless showers were experienced in a few hours. Fasting was the order of the morning in the town until after the conclusion of the services.

At Rock Hill, S. C., a fifteen-minute shower Saturday followed sixty-five dry days. Prayer had been offered for four days imploring Divine aid in saving crops in that section. Due West, S. C., and Charlotte, are two other centers where citizens have held services.

Veritable Downpour
A veritable downpour drenched this city last night, the fall continuing for more than three hours.

Western North Carolina is also reported facing a serious water shortage unless the drought is broken soon.

GIRL SCOUTS ARE ENJOYING CAMPS

Young Ladies From This City Having Great Outing Down At Camp Ki-Ro

Two score or more Goldsboro people, especially those who have daughters at Camp Ki-Ro near New Bern motored down to that place Sunday for the purpose of looking over the camp and at the same time visiting the young ladies.

And, as had been expected they found a happy crowd there. The Girl Scouts had been in camp a week under the direction and supervision of Captain Mary Michaux and it had been a week of real pleasure to and for them. They had enjoyed every minute of it, they declared, and were only sorry that they could remain there but for ten days.

There had been no sickness or accidents and each and every Scout had had, they said, "the time of their lives."

They will return home today and will doubtless prove to have been greatly benefited by their stay there.

Mercury Here Hit 105 Degrees Mark In Shade Monday

Goldsboro sweated and sweltered yesterday while Old Sol mercilessly sent his rays pouring down on the city and its people and succeeded in running the mercury in unofficial thermometers up to 105 degrees at 3 o'clock yesterdaynoon. Out in the full glare of the sun a thermometer which had been set out for thirty minutes, at the same hour registered 112 degrees. It was Goldsboro's warmest day thus far. If it grows much warmer here during the next two months, local citizens will be forced to seek refrigerators and other cool places in order to exist. The heat wave extended all over eastern Carolina, every town reporting high temperatures.

William B. Cole of Rockingham, agrees to pay Rev. A. L. Ormond $15,000 "Balm" for slaying his son, whom the Richmond County Mill Man shot and killed last August—Final Judgment Will Be Handed Down In Wake Court Today

Raleigh, June 14. (AP)—Final judgment on the $15,000 damage suit brought by Rev. A. L. Ormond, against W. B. Cole, mill owner of Rockingham, for what is charged was the wrongful death of his son, Ed Ormond, will be handed down at the Wake county superior court tomorrow morning. Judge Barnhill, he is providing for that body, stated this afternoon.

An agreement to be entered into a formal judgment and signed when the case is ready for trial tomorrow, says the News and Observer. It has been drawn in which Cole agreed to pay the father of young Ormond the sum of $15,000 costs in the case and have all original pleadings withdrawn from the record and destroyed, marking the final chapter of litigation which began when Cole shot young Ormond.

When indicted for murder Cole presented two defenses, self defense, and an unusual species of the "unwritten law," the slander of his daughter. The self-defense plea was not presented at the trial, and the issue was turned largely on a letter written by the dead boy to the defendant in which he urged that he be permitted to marry Miss Cole, and alleged that they had lived together as "man and wife."

The Rev. Ormond entered the suit for damages after Cole had been acquitted of the murder of young Ormond in the Richmond county superior court last August.
