Lindbergh Has Friendly Chat With King And Queen And Is Given Fatherly Pat

Prince of Wales Among Notables Greeting Young Hero; King Pins Air Force Cross on Breast of Captain; Washington Now Offers Faster Vessel to Bring Young Man Home

LONDON, May 31.—(P)—King George of England and Queen Mary gave America's young aviator a fitting welcome when he visited the sovereigns at Buckingham palace today.

The King pinned the Air Force Cross on Captain Charles Lindbergh's breast, patting him in a fatherly manner on the shoulder and set down and listened for 30 minutes to a recital of one of the most venturesome voyages in the air that has ever been taken.

Queen Mary came in and sat in rapt attention, with eyes of admiration on the youth, who has achieved what no man ever achieved before—a straight swift race across the Atlantic from one great metropolis to another, outwitting fog and wind and storm.

Later the Prince of Wales, like Lindbergh himself popular throughout the world, added his cheery greeting when Lindbergh called to see him, and perhaps more than most others entered into the real spirit of adventure in which the future King of England flourishes.

The most noted British flying men and air experts got together tonight at a great banquet given in honor of Capt. Lindbergh by the various aviation organizations. After listening to the highest tributes, the youthful flyer told of his journey across the ocean. One of the features of his recital was a description of a seeming mirage off the Irish coast. It was evident to those who listened to his words that the aviator in his fancied visualization of land must have been feeling the effects of his battle against the elements and the great strain under which he was fighting his way to Paris.

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Somewhat at sea because it does not know exactly how and when Captain Lindbergh will return to the United States the cabinet committee appointed by President Coolidge today set about planning a national celebration for the New York to Paris flyer.

The first act of the committee was to cable Lindbergh and offer to return direct to Washington on the cruiser Memphis instead of the destroyer Brock, which previously had been placed at his disposal.

The invitation to use the faster ship was extended in the hope that the aviator could reach Washington before President Coolidge leaves on June 13, for his summer vacation.

Battle for Routes Is Now Looked For

It's a battle between Goldsboro and Dunn as against Smithfield and Clinton in proposed additions to the mileage of the State highway system, it was learned from sources considered authoritative yesterday. Smithfield wants a paved road to Clinton, Goldsboro and Wayne want a paved road from Goldsboro to Dunn. The Wayne highway commission is making efforts to have the Dunn road taken over by the State department. The Johnston people are working tooth and nail to get the Smithfield-Clinton road adopted. If the latter is adopted, the Goldsboro to Dunn route will have to go over for a while. If the Clinton-Smithfield route is taken over the Goldsboro-Dunn route will have to go by the board for sometime. Members of the Wayne highway commission yesterday refused to comment upon the matter.

Talks Delivered by Supt. J. T. Jerome and by George S. Dewey

Classification talk by George S. Dewey, a resume of educational progress in the county by J. T. Jerome and plans for the entertainment of wives and sweethearts on next Tuesday evening, occupied the Goldsboro Rotary Club at its regular weekly meeting at the Hotel Goldsboro last evening.

That Dewey brothers manufacture locomotives for industrial purposes, that the company operates daily a blast furnace for the purpose of turning out iron were facts which Mr. Dewey gave in the course of his classification talk. The business was established in 1885 by Mr. Dewey's father, he reported and has four departments—mill supplies, machine shops, foundry and structural department.

J. T. Jerome, superintendent of county schools reported the consolidation program launched five years ago in the county schools was completed, with the exception of one one-teacher school, through a successful consolidation vote taken on Tuesday at Seven Springs. Seven years ago, he said, there were 67 schools in the county of which 29 were one-teacher schools. Next year there will be only 22 schools of this number there will be only one one-teacher school, the one at Beet's station.

George Waters, Jr., chairman of the committee in charge of the ladies night program, reported "progress" in plans for the occasion. This meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening instead of at 7 as is the usual custom. Rotarians were told.

4 BALLOONS ARE NOW OUT RACE

Eleven of Competitors in Balloon Race Still Battling Storms

AKRON, Ohio, May 31.—(P)—With only four starters in the national elimination balloon race reported down after more than 24 hours in the air, another night of flying seemed in prospect for the remaining eleven entries as darkness came over the region of the St. Lawrence river where they apparently are striving for victory.

On the basis of reports from along the line of flight a balloon sighted over Vermont just across the state line from New York and about 26 miles from the Canadian border was leading the field.

There was every indication that the race was being flown in the same bad weather that marked its start here. Storms were responsible for two of the landings and the absence of radio reports from any of the balloons indicated the weather the pilots were experiencing.

MASS FOR LAST FLOOD BATTLE

Waters Receding in Few Points of Flood Ravaged Territory

NEW ORLEANS, May 31.—(P)—The Great Lakes that lie on both sides of the swollen Atchafalaya river extended their sway over rich farming lands tonight as the impounded waters continued their roll to the gulf.

Throughout the area rescue and relief forces, manned for the last stand against the nation's most disastrous flood were ready for emergencies as retention levees threatened to break before the pressure, or the muddy waves pushed waters into the additional lowlands.

While the waters slowly were receding in the north portions, extreme south central Louisiana, prepared for an additional foot or so of rise.

Evacuation was slow, the majority of those who have remained in the region, having decided to stick out the food. With the volume of water pouring through the main dam, diminishing, a railroad embankment which rumbled before floods between Baywood and Red Cross, slight falls were recorded in the extreme north of the eastern side of the river.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(P)—With anxiety over the safety of American citizens and diplomatic officials in Northern China revived by news of the collapse of the Northern Chinese attack south of the Yellow River, the Washington administration is considering removal of the American legation from Peking to a more defended point.

Dispatch of American Marines from Shanghai and possibly the Philippines to Peking also is under consideration and there developed little indication today that the reported plan to send Marines under command of Brigadier Butler at Shanghai to Peking to form an allied brigade for defense of that point would be objected to here.

With the northern Chinese army reported in flight to the North bank of the Yellow River before the onslaught of the Southern Nationalists it is felt by President Coolidge that the Peking legation because of its general inaccessibility, should be moved to the newly proposed city and that remaining Americans in North China should be concentrated there, according to press-released plans.
