In a few impromptu remarks Colonel Joseph E. Robinson, beloved editor of the Goldsboro Daily Argus, characterized the event as "a tangible expression of an achievement, promising the principles of the common brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God."

Articles of interest as follows were deposited in the cornerstone by Mrs. J. T. "We ask it in Jesus' name. Amen."

Mrs. O'Berry made a gracious presiding officer. "Today marks a joyous occasion in the life of the Goldsboro Woman's Club, for it is the fulfilling of our ambition for many years past, as we see our club building fast becoming a reality instead of a dream. No club member should be able to watch the work done by her without a thrill of satisfaction in a big thing being accomplished, and a joy in common ownership of our club home."

Drawing upon her experience as president and as chairman of the building committee for a number of years, Miss Mary DeVane gave a detailed summary of the work to the club toward the realization of its dream for a new home. She said: "This is indeed a memorable day for us. There is no more important event in the life of an individual or an organization, than the building of a home. Around a local habitation, every activity, effort, and settlement clings. It is the concrete symbol of all the aspirations, the dreams, the purposes of the individual or the (Continued On Page Five)

The building will be 72x100 feet of standard millwork construction, with skylights and steel windows.
