MEXICO CITY MAD WITH JOY AS LINDY ARRIVES

Does Non-Stop Flight From Washington To Mexico City in 27 Hrs.

Flies Over Mexico's Mountains and Deserts But Into Hearts Of People
PRESIDENT CALLES IS EXUBERANT AT MEETING
Miscalculation for Time Carried Him Into Interior of Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 14—(AP)—"Lindy" has done it again—he and the other half of the famous "we."
Without stop, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, piloting the Spirit of St. Louis, which earlier in the year had carried him through to Paris, flew from Washington to Mexico City. For more than 27 hours he was at the control.

Perhaps there never had been witnessed such a glistening demonstration of joy by a Mexican multitude as that at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when after some 3 hours of apprehension the Spirit of St. Louis settled on the Valbuena Military aviation field, two and a half miles from Mexico City. Lindy and his plane were safe and sound; nothing was wrong, except that a miscalculation of direction carried the plane in a great circle from Tampico into the interior, instead of in a direct line to Mexico City.

The lone eagle not only flew over Mexico's mountains and deserts in this first non-stop flight between the two capitals, but he flew straight into the hearts of the Mexican people—beats already long attuned in devotion to him by exploits of which they had read, hearts torn with fears for hours for his safety.

And then, against the purple mountain ranges in the distance appeared a little white speck at least 50,000 some say 100,000—persons at Valbuena Field and as many more lining the city street awaiting the coming of the aviator began to whisper: Can it be Lindy? Can it be?
They were afraid to cheer; their nerves had been on edge as time and time again false reports were spread that the plane had been cited near at hand. At least gloom had conquered the crowd; silently and somberly the great masses stood dejectedly, trying to hope and finding it hard.

The little white blot against the purple ranges that Cortez and his Spanish adventurers mastered 4 centuries ago to conquer and entire and open a new world.
"Can it be Lindy?" the multitude murmured. Then while the escort of Mexican army airplanes performed stunts overhead, there began to circle the field a graceful creature of the air, coming closer and closer. A roar that might have rocked the distant mountains swept the throng—"It's Lindy! Viva La Lindy. Viva La Lindy."

No person in all that vast assemblage had been more disturbed over Col. Lindbergh's display more apprehensive or more excitedly overjoyed at his safe arrival than President Calles.

He tapped nervously on the floor with his walking stick and then, as the people strained themselves tense-lion tiptoes and training their necks and a whisper to the President: "It is Lindbergh! It is positively Lindbergh this time." Calles leaped to his feet as if convulsed by an electric shock.

A few minutes later after the aviator had landed and reached the Presidential box Signor Calles did not content himself with shaking hands. The President gave the lone eagle a full "embrace"—that is, a real hug, throwing both arms around Lindy's shoulders and patting him affectionately.

Col. Lindbergh looked a little flustered. Ambassador Morrow seemed just about as happy as it is given to me to be in this world.
The crowd by this time was surging by the thousands in front of the stand. They cheered and yelled loudly.

PUBLIC INVITED TO LEGION MEET

Addresses by Col. Freeman and Capt. Bain and Music by Orchestra and Quartet

Wayne County Legionnaires are booked to get first hand accounts of the recent Legion Convention in Paris at the open meeting of Wayne Post Number 11 at the Community Building this evening. Col. George K. Freeman, who attended the convention as national committeeman from North Carolina, will bring the report of the Paris meeting.

The Legion is on this occasion inviting the general public to be present and to enjoy the program.
Dr. C. F. Strossner, commandant, has been called to Virginia by the death of his mother and in his absence vice-commander C. F. Dees will preside.

Flag etiquette will be the topic discussed by Capt. E. H. Bain following the address by Col. Freeman. To provide extra attractions, Ward's orchestra has been secured and will render several selections. Further the Legion quartet will harmonize on several of the old favorites.

Boy Scouts will act as ushers at the meeting and the Legion members and officials hope that the meeting will be attended by many of the citizens of Goldsboro.

COUNTY DID NOT RECEIVE MONEY

Clem Wrenn, However, Denies That He Forged $130,000 In Wilkes Notes

NORTH WILKESBORO, Dec. 14—(AP)—Concluding with a rigid cross examination of the defendant, the state rested today in the trial of Clem Wrenn, former president of the defunct Bank of Wilkes who was charged with misusing funds of the institution. Hearing of the case was then adjourned until next Monday.

Taking the stand again this morning to resume his testimony where he had left off yesterday Wrenn admitted that Wilkes county did not receive any of the money derived from the six county notes totalling $150,000, which the state contended were forged. Instead, the money went into various enterprises in which he was interested, Wrenn testified.

On cross examination, Judge T. C. Eowie elicited an admission from the defendant that three members of the board of directors knew that the Wilkesboro institution was in an unusual condition prior to the time they signed a report to stockholders stating that they had examined the records of the bank and found everything in excellent condition.

POSTPONE EFFORT

DAYTONIA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 14—(AP)—Owing to inclemency of the weather, Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock have postponed their attempt to break world's flight record.

Tobacco Market Will Close Here for Holidays Friday

Statistics supplied The News yesterday by Mr. Ellsworth of the Export Leaf Tobacco Company showed that through Wednesday 7,452,658 pounds of tobacco had been sold on the Goldsboro market for $1,384,986.41. The market will close Friday, December 16, for the Christmas holidays. It was said and will reopen about January 10, for a short time.
The total sales through yesterday showed an approximate increase of 1,500,000 pounds over the total for the season a year ago. Although there is relatively little of this year's crop

MISS WRIGHT TESTIFIES IN SNIPES CASE

WAYNE FOLKS PLAY BIG PART

Bob Edwards Will Be Speaker and E. A. Stevens One of Honored Guests in Raleigh

Wayne county will be fully represented in the meeting of Master Farmers in Raleigh Friday. County Superintendent of Welfare R. H. Edwards is down on the program along with Joseph Daniels and other celebrities and ex-Sheriff E. A. Stevens is one of a half dozen farmers who have been awarded certificates of merit by State College and will be honor guests.

A. H. Veasey, teacher of agriculture in Rosewood high school, has been voted the "master" agriculture teacher of North Carolina in a contest among all vocational agriculture instructors.
Master Farmers of North Carolina will gather in Raleigh Friday in what is regarded as one of the most significant events in the agricultural history of the State. The Master Farmers will be the guests of State College Extension Division and the Progressive Farmer. In addition to the farmers, farm agents and home agents from all over the State will be present, and there will be six men who previously have been received the award of "Certificate of Merit" who will be elevated to the rank of Master Farmer.

The group of Master Farmers in North Carolina is the first to be chosen on the Atlantic Coast, a movement now is nationwide. To become a "Master Farmer" it is necessary to score high on a grading chart taking in farming, marketing, home life, and citizenship. The next honor for a Master Farmer is the grade of "Gold Medal Farmer."

School of Religion To Give New Courses

CHAPEL HILL, Dec. 14—The School of Religion at Chapel Hill will make its first experiment in adult education immediately after the Christmas holidays.

This experiment will come in the form of a new course that Acting Dean Mims Thornburgh Workman has planned for the benefit of adults in Chapel Hill and nearby towns. The course will run through the University's regular winter quarter and will be taught by Professor Workman with the assistance of a number of special lecturers, most of them from the University faculty.

The group will meet on Tuesday night of each week during the quarter. The course is called "Christianity in the Apostolic Age," and will be taught with a double parallel series of lectures. One of the series will be by Professor Workman and the other by one of the special lecturers from the faculty.

SOX IS CHARGED

CERRO GORDO, N. C., Dec. 14—(AP)—Homer Strickland, 20, today faced charges of assault with a deadly weapon upon Peter Strickland, farmer in Columbus county. The physicians feared might not recover from effects of two loads of small shot fired into his body.

Remus Found Guilty Of Court Contempt

CINCINNATI, Dec. 14—(AP)—George Remus was found guilty of contempt of court late today after he again had interrupted his month old murder trial with a harsh verbal attack upon his three young prosecutors, and precipitated one of the wildest scenes of the trial.

PAPERS AID IN STATE GROWTH

Wade H. Phillips, Director of Conservation, Gives Credit To Press of State

RALEIGH, Dec. 14—(AP)—Newspapers of North Carolina are given credit by Wade H. Phillips, director of the department of conservation and development, for substantial aid toward the manifested popular approval of the state's new game law and in the growth of sentiment in favor of conservation of all natural resources.

"The state press," says the director, "which virtually unanimously has favored and aided in putting across every progressive step the state has taken, has been a decided aid to the administration in its conservation program."
"The gave freely of their talents and space both before and while the measure was pending before the general assembly, in urging its adoption and since then have been continuing their good work in aiding to strengthen the popular sentiment for observance of the law."

"North Carolina newspaper men are, virtually without exception, progressive in their views and liberal in their contributions to a worthy cause. With the aid of the press in moulding public opinion solidly behind a vital conservation program North Carolina which has already established a record that is causing nationwide comment, can be made more serviceable to her own citizens and more attractive to outsiders who will be drawn by these accomplishments."

The service that the newspapers are rendering can not be measured in financial terms.

OLD TIMERS LOOK FOR POSITIONS NOW

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—(AP)—Old timers, once the object of any manager's eye who sought the top notch in pitching wares, are roaming around the halls today looking for jobs.

Bob Shawkey and "Bullet" Joe Bush, Yankee heroes of other days, both seek new baseball homes for 1928.

MRS. BIZZELL PASSES AWAY

Well Beloved Woman Had Been In Declining Health For Many Months

Mrs. M. E. Bizzell, 63-years of age, died at her home, 413 East Walnut Street, at 5:55 P. M. yesterday.
Mrs. Bizzell had been in declining health for more than a year, but in all her illness retained that bright, cheerful disposition which had so endeared her to the hearts of Goldsboro. As in the long happy years before her illness, she ever thought of others and not of self. For many months her sick room had been the point to which daily the high and the low went to greet their friend new unable to be out, to send her flowers, and to bring her best wishes and cheer.

Several weeks ago a decline set in and for the past few days, the brave spirit had clutched to life only with her will to live. Then the end came, quietly, peacefully, and she slept.

Before her marriage to Marcus Edward Bizzell, about thirty-seven years ago, Mrs. Bizzell was Miss Louise Adelaide Wooten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shadrach Wooten, of LaGrange, a family of Southern aristocrats continuing the true traditions of the South. In her union with M. E. Bizzell, founder of the Bizzell Grocery company, two prominent Eastern North Carolina families were united.

The couple loved to Goldsboro to make their home, and about five years ago her husband preceded her to the grave. He was buried in Willowdale Cemetery, where in a few hours the wife of his bosom will be laid by his side to await the judgment triump.

Surviving are four children: Mrs. A. C. Spruill, and Mrs. W. W. Minton, of Goldsboro, Dr. M. E. Bizzell of Goldsboro, and Norwood C. Bizzell of New Bern. A brother—Sam Wooten of Mt. Olive and a sister—Mrs. Ada Carter of Asheville, also survive.

Mrs. Bizzell had been a lifelong member of the Methodist church and was for years a faithful worker in the activities of St. Paul church here. Her home, and her family received her first love and thought, but there was much left for mankind in general and she took an active part in various woman's activities of the city, being prominently identified with the Woman's Club of Goldsboro.

She was sixty-three years old, having been born July 18, 1865.

Funeral service will be conducted from the home at 4 o'clock this afternoon and will be in charge of Rev. J. C. Wooten, of Durham, a relative of the deceased.

The following have been selected as pallbearers: Sterling Wooten, Earl Thompson, Walter Carter, James Wooten, Prentiss Wooten, all of Goldsboro; Robert Wooten of Mt. Olive; Dr. Carl Bizzell of Raleigh; and Dr. William Wooten of Greenville.

Wayne Case Causes Citation

Of Need For Mental Clinics
Crimes similar to that in which young Beula Tedder, 15 year old white girl of Great Swamp township was killed, could be prevented if mental and moral incompetents were segregated from society as a whole. This is the recital of Mrs. Kate Burr Johnson, of Raleigh, Commissioner of Charities and Public Welfare. In commenting upon the case, Mrs. Johnson praised Sheriff Grant and Judge Grady for the firmness they showed.

"Of course, I think the whole trial was handled wonderfully by Judge Grady and by Sheriff Grant," Mrs. Johnson said, "but I cannot help but think how these crimes could be prevented for the most part, if the state only would establish the necessary clinics, by which these mental defectives could be weeded out and segregated. For investigation has shown that in the majority of rape and murder cases of this sort, the criminals are mental defectives, that should have been segregated and put into institutions long before they were apprehended in criminal acts."

"My God, I Have Killed Elsie," Young Woman Heard Faison Declare

FLOGGING CASE AGAIN CALLED

Supervisor of Wake County Convict Camps Is Defendant This Time

RALEIGH, Dec. 14—(AP)—Attack and defense of the testimony of Rupert Medlin, the State's surprise witness, featured the opening today of the trial of G. E. Belshe, one of 15 men under indictment for the alleged flogging of E. A. Jones, rural storekeeper, on the night of December 13, 1926.

Medlin's past court record was recalled by the defense when the state attempted to show by his testimony that Belshe, supervisor of Wake county road camps kept a leather strap in his home and was familiar with the details of the Jones flogging.

Belshe began trial on charges growing out of the flogging of Jones and Sam Green, his negro helper, and before the first day of the trial ended the state had put on 17 witnesses and the defense began running up to stand a score of character witnesses in behalf of Belshe.

PRAISES STATE GAME WARDENS

Department of Conservation Is Proud of Record Its Officers Are Making

RALEIGH, Dec. 14—(AP)—Canadian mounted police can show no better record than that which is being set up by the new statewide game warden organization, say department of conservation and development officials.

"The boast of the Dominion's system is that it always 'gets its man,' but the North Carolina force, it is pointed out, in setting up an equally good record in bringing violators of the game laws to justice.

A recent report from Charles J. Moore, deputy game and fish warden of the ninth district which includes Beaufort, Franklin, Hyde, Martin, Nash, Pitt, Tyrell, Washington and Wilson counties, shows a perfect record in court cases.

The deputy and his warden force have a record of 78 arrests. Three of these were minors and were turned over to juvenile authorities. The remaining 75 either submitted to pleas of guilt or were convicted in court trials.

This record is typical of those in other districts, the reports show. While attempting to bring violators to justice, the department, under whose direction the law is placed, emphasizes the educational side of the game law, seeking the voluntary observance of the statutes from the public as a result of interest in its program.

Testimony By Woman Who Formerly Lived Here Scores For Prosecution

FAISON THOUGHT MRS. SNIPES PROVING FALSE

Raved Against Man He Thought Supplanting Him in Affection of Princeton Woman

(Special To The News)
(By W. P. RUCKOLDS)
RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 14—The State threw a bombshell into the camp of the defense this afternoon in the murder trial of John Wesley Faison accused of killing Mrs. Elsie Holt Snipes formerly of Princeton, N. C., when they introduced Miss Beula Tedder, formerly of Goldsboro, N. C., a neighbor of Mrs. Snipes as the one who heard Faison confess to the shooting.
"Oh my God, I have killed Elsie, God! What shall I do?" was Miss Wright's testimony when asked what she heard through the thin flooring of her apartment early on the morning of November 16, after being awakened by the sound of a shot.

Two other State witnesses of importance are Charles Ford and J. J. Turner, who live adjacent to the street from the apartment. They told the jury and crowded courtroom they saw a man resembling Faison walk out of the apartment house door, go to the corner and peer around and finally go back into the house.
A few minutes later they say the same man came out, carrying a woman who seemed to be in a helpless condition. She was placed in the automobile and after the man made several trips into the house, drove away in his machine.

Nine witnesses in all had been called when court adjourned for the day. Coroner James M. Whitfield, who performed the autopsy, and Mason Smith and Dr. Bybee who were guests at the Snipes apartment the night of November 15, were put on the stand for a short while.

Mr. and Mrs. Holt, parents of the dead woman, and their two daughters, have been excluded from the courtroom because they have been summoned by the defense as witnesses.

J. J. Hatch, attorney who has been retained by Mr. Holt, declared this move by the defense to summon the family was only to keep them out of the courtroom for the effect on the jury.

"We did not bring these people up here for exhibits, but to see that everything possible was done to get to the bottom of the case," declared Mr. Hatch.

Throughout the morning session of court the tedious task of obtaining the twenty jurors went on shortly before the noon recess, the jury box was filled and after a short recess the Commonwealth started its opening argument.

"Faison had an overpowering love for this woman," Commonwealth Attorneys declared. "We will show the jealousy was so strong he threatened to kill her because."

Letters written by the accused to Mrs. Snipes, were introduced during the afternoon session. One missive in which Faison declared his love for Mrs. Snipes, is the beller of court attention.

It states that Mrs. Snipes has been untrue to him and that he would like to see the man "in the deepest pit of hell so I could stand by and watch and laugh." Another phrase is "I'll tear him limb from limb, the dirty dog."

This letter closed "If I don't hear from you in answer to this letter, I will not be responsible for my actions."

Threats of another night session speeded up both sides, and it now appears the trial will go to the jury sometime Friday afternoon. Harold D. Cooley of Nashville, N. C., who is
