LOWENSTEIN MAY BE ALIVE IN SOME HIDDEN SPOT

Current Rumors Point To Facts That Tend To Disprove Death Theory

Some Think He Has Chosen To Disappear, But Only For a Length of Time

LONDON, July 7.—(AP)—Aspects of the Lowenstein case deepened today when there was no definite fact established respecting the disappearance of the Belgian speculator and financier which had not been known before but in Brussels memorial services for him were postponed tonight.

LONDON, July 7.—(AP)—Discussion of the mystery of Captain Alfred Lowenstein's death by a fall from his airplane into the sea went on space today.

Efforts to find his body at the point where the crew of his plane and its other occupants assert he fell into the English Channel through accidentally opening the exit door of the plane have been futile. The pilot and mechanic of the plane spent several hours cruising about the spot in a tug in a fruitless search.

Threats made at Le Bourget Air-drome in France to determine whether it was possible to open the door of a plane in flight showed it was not easy to do so. Two mechanics, using a plane similar to that from which Lowenstein disappeared with the motor running at full force, found that the air pressure was so great that the combined strength of the two men was just sufficient to open the door wide enough to permit one of them to pass through it.

BANDITS ROB MAYOCK BANK

Four Armed Bandits Enter The Bank on Saturday Morning

ELIZABETH CITY, July 7.—(AP)—Four armed bandits entered the Bank of Carrithick at Mayock Saturday morning, held up the three persons inside at the point of a pistol locked them in the vault and escaped with available cash on the counters, according to information reaching here.

The bandits escaped in an automobile in the direction of Elizabeth City with a hastily formed posse in pursuit. The loot was estimated at from $40 to $1,000.

Those locked in the vault were understood to be W. W. Smith, cashier; J. R. Thorne, assistant cashier, and Miss Lena Powers, bookkeeper.

The bandits entered shortly after ten o'clock when the bank was deserted except for the staff. Police at Elizabeth City were notified and placed a guard at Camden Bridge to intercept the bandits if they came that far.

Larry Newsome May Get Short Respite

Larry Newsome, Wayne County negro, sentenced to die in the chair on Friday, July 13, for the slaying of 12 year old Beula Tedder, may get a brief respite from death. He was sentenced to die on July 13, but the court allowed him 40 days to perfect his appeal to the Supreme Court. His 40 days will not be up until July 18. The appeal, however, has not been filed, and Edward Bridges said today that he would take up with Attorney General Brummit the question of law relating to the case.

BANKERS TRY AGRI COURSE

Bankers in Small Towns and Cities to Take Two Day Short Farm Course

RALEIGH, July 7.—(AP)—Bankers in the small towns and cities of North Carolina will be given an opportunity to learn more about the agriculture of the state in a two day short course at North Carolina State College on Thursday and Friday, August 2 and 3. It was announced tonight by T. O. Schaub, dean of agriculture at the college.

This course, he said, will be held during the time that between 700 and 800 farm boys and girls will be at the college to attend the annual Four-H club short course. The boys and girls will arrive on July 30 and remain on the campus through August 3 for a week of instruction. It is expected that one or two of these young people will have a part in the program to be arranged for the bankers.

This agriculture short course for bankers is a new departure for the college, said Dean Schaub, but it will be an attempt to familiarize them with some of the economic problems now confronting farmers of the state. The course will be held in cooperation with the agriculture committee of the State Bankers Association.

The program for the two days is being prepared and is expected to be completed in the next few days. Most of the lectures and addresses will be made by certain members of the bankers organization and by members of State College faculty. The program of agriculture work being advocated by extension and research workers will be one of the interesting features to be discussed at the session, said Dean Schaub.

Crescent Lake Dam Partly Washed Away By Cloud-Burst Friday Night

The large dirt dam which forms the basin that makes Crescent Lake, popular resort, located near the Mount Olive highway three miles from Goldsboro was practically washed away by a heavy rain of Friday night, it was learned yesterday morning. The first rain, which was described by the farmers living in that section as being a "miniature cloud burst" came pouring down in torrents about 9:30, and as it continued to pour, the water in the lake began to rise rapidly, and in a short time was running over the wooden wall which surrounds part of the lake near the dam. In about an hour the water had risen to such a depth that it was pouring over the wooden walls to the depth of five inches.

A serious wash out from this first torrential down pour was prevented by the extensive use of sand-bags at strategic points where the wall seemed to have been most weakened. Another or so later, however, the situation at the lake again assumed a flood-like proportions when a second cloud burst rained water over the spill way of the dam to a depth of eight inches and put water over the wooden wall to an increased depth of seven inches, carrying away many of the sand bags which had been piled on the dam. More sand bags were brought into use, and frenzied work on the part of the proprietor of the lake and his employees prevented a dangerous washout that would have meant a loss of hundreds of dollars, according to Mr. Rutledge in an interview with a News reporter. Dirt was at first used in an attempt to check the impending break, but as fast as it was placed in the rain weakened spots it would be washed away, and sand bags in large quantities had to be resorted to to stop the pouring of the flood over the dam. This was finally stopped, but not before several hundred cubic feet of dirt had been washed out from the east side of the dam where the water is shallow.

Workers were kept busy all night repairing small breaks in different places. Several gutters, described as being "about waist deep" were washed out in the road below the dam by water that went over before the storm creased and the waters in the lake had receded to a certain extent. A watchman was also kept on the look out at the country club lake dam which is only a short way above Crescent Lake. It was explained that if this dam had broken, the pressure from the water might have caused the Crescent Lake dam to go also.

As soon as the rain stopped and temporary repairs had been made, teams and wagons were secured at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, dirt was hauled to the dam by the car load, and all the damage was repaired by early last night.

Dr. Corbett Warns Public Against Typhoid Fever

Dr. L. W. Corbett, of the Wayne county health department, in an interview with a News representative yesterday said that it was the desire of the department to warn the people in this section, who intend going on vacations, against the danger of Typhoid Fever. Typhoid has occurred in many counties and is very fatal this year, it was said. Special care should be taken in the assumption of drinking water while on a trip, especially if the trip is made by auto, said Dr. Corbett. "Lots of times a person will be driving a long road, will become thirsty, and stop at a spring well, pump or creek if none of the others are handy. This is very unwise as you can never tell what kind of germs those water sources contain."

North'n Lights Seen Last Night

About one hundred and fifty people in Goldsboro called The News last night between the hours of nine and eleven wanting to know "what are those funny lights in the North-western sky", is there a fire anywhere around," and many other such questions.

It is believed that the unusual display of the Aurora Borealis in the sky last night attracted the attention of practically half the population of the city. The Aurora Borealis, or great Northern lights is a thing of perpetuality around the Arctic circle and in the extreme northern part of North America, but it is very seldom that the reflections from the "big fireworks" may be seen this far south.

Once, before, about five years ago, last night's display of the lights were seen in Goldsboro, but it was not nearly so brilliant. The probable reason for the clearness of the display last night is that the atmospheric conditions are such as to permit the reflection of the Aurora Borealis to appear as far south as North Carolina.

Surpassed Italy's Endurance Flight Record, by Six Hours and Fifty Minutes

DESSAU, Germany, July 7.—(AP)—Surpassing the old record of duration in the air by six hours and fifty-two minutes, the German fliers Ritticus and Zimmerman landed their Junkers plane here at 9:30 tonight, after having been in the air for 65 hours and 35 minutes. The former record of 58 hours and 34 minutes was held by Captain Arturo Serrarin, and Major Carlo P. Delpre, of Italy.

Professor Hugo Junkers, just back from the United States, was a grateful spectator as his plane plotted alternately by Ritticus and Zimmerman, reeled off the tall tale rounds on the monotonous shuttle between Dessau and Leltzig, which meant a new record and honors for Germany and his plane. He was the first to greet the airmen as they climbed from their plane, and congratulated them on their achievement.

DESSAU, Germany, July 7.—(AP)—The German aviators Ritticus and Zimmerman established a new world record for a duration flight of 65 hours and 35 minutes Saturday afternoon, they had surpassed by an hour the Italian record of 58 hours and 34 minutes and were still flying.

SPIKE PUT IN PASTORS PLAN

Preacher, in Jail For Contempt of Court, Had Planned to Re-visit

DALLAS, Texas, July 7.—(AP)—The scores of over-aided and hounded women, who for two days had stayed to complete the fundamentalist Baptist Tabernacle while their pastor is in jail for contempt of court, failed to return to their work today, despite threats to dare jail sentence. It's smooth tin roof, bare of paint, reflected the hot waves from a blazing sun, and the half finished was under the guard of a deputy sheriff.

Meanwhile Judge Towns Young, who granted an injunction against the work, put a spike in the plan of Rev. Hull Anderson to deliver a series of radio addresses from the county jail tomorrow. He issued an order forbidding the installing of the equipment in the jail. The minister had arranged to broadcast over a radio outfit operated by Dr. J. Frank Norris, who is here assisting in the fight to complete the tabernacle.
