RASKOB FAVORS CHANGE IN LIQUOR LAW OF NATION

Favors System That Would Make Liquors Obtainable For Home

Social Conditions At Such Point That Decadence Must Be Corrected, Says

WOULD PREVENT RETURN OF SALOON IN NATION

Holds Present System Breeds Disrespect For Law and Order

BOSTON, July 14—(AP)—A system which would make intoxicating liquor available for home consumption is advocated in a letter sent by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, to committeemen through out the country and delegates to the Houston convention.

The letter was made public here today as members of the Massachusetts Democratic committee met for reorganization.

The letter which is thought to have been the outcome of a letter from T. H. Callahan, Louisville, Ky., regarding Raskob's stand on prohibition follows:

"Social conditions throughout our country have reached a state of decadence that demands correction. My feeling is that a scheme of control of the manufacture, sale, transportation and consumption of intoxicating liquor, under which it may be had for home consumption and prevent the return of the saloon which it was the medium through which the use of liquor was abused.

In such communities that vote, therefore under a local option law would be welcomed by all.

"All right thinking people are for temperance, law and order, but we must have respectable laws if we expect them to be respected.

"All must agree that there is a wide lack of respect for the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, so that it behooves all of us to endeavor to secure such modification of existing laws as will result in the restoration of respect of ourselves, our law and our great constitution."

SAYS CRESCENT LAKE ALL RIGHT

Letter From State Health Dept. Representative Reports on Inspection

L. G. Whitley, of the State Board of Health at Raleigh, was in the city yesterday for the purpose of inspecting Crescent Lake popular local resort. It was learned last evening, Mr. Whitley came to make the inspection at the request of Dr. L. W. Corbett of the Wayne County Health Department, who made the request, after it was learned that it was being rumored in this section that the lake "had been condemned" on account of unsanitary conditions in the water. The lake had not been condemned according to authentic information received by The News last evening.

The following is a letter to Dr. Corbett from L. G. Whitley, who made the test at Crescent Lake yesterday.

I have inspected the Crescent Lake located near Goldsboro, N. C., which is under the management of Mr. R. W. Rutledge today. I find that the arrangements for sewerage waste, shower bath system, water supply, and method of policing up around the camp are satisfactory to the general rules governing the sanitary management or the ordinary shallow lake used for bathing purposes.

The condition of the lake's water appeared clean today and the spillway had a heavy overflow. I was informed that the source of the lake's water supplies were overflowing wells and springs. This sort of source of water supply should be an advantage for helping to keep the waters as free from pollution as possible.

Plainly stirred, Smith declared Mr. White is assailing him had accepted the misleading word of Miller.

For years Miller, who has been active in advocating social reform, and the governor have been at odds. Today moved to comment by an enquiry regarding Whites attack from a newspaper man, Smith said he was satisfied Miller was back of it all. Varmin was a member of the party of Capt. Sora which set off some weeks ago to attempt to reach the Italian survivors. He was blinded by the glare from the ice and his two companions were forced to leave him behind with provisions. They were rescued yesterday by Swedish and Finnish airplanes from Foyas island where they had taken refuge.

STOCKHOLM, Swes, July 14—(AP)—Dr. Finn Malmgren, with both feet frozen and an arm broken, sent Captain Zappi and Captain Mariano ahead on their trip for help for the survivors of the dirigible Italia and himself remained on the ice to die alone, said a report to the ministry of defense received today from Capt. Tornberg, chief of the Swedish relief expedition at Spitzbergen.

The captain quoted the message from the Krassin where the Italian officers are recuperating after their rescue by the Russian ice breaker from an iceber.

The report added that the Swedish meteorologist, ex-Dr. Zappi with his pocket compass which he asked should be given to his mother as a souvenir.

It also said that the two Italians carried away all the provisions of the trip in order to realize their plan of reaching North Cape and obtaining help for the six survivors, including General Noble who had left in camp on the ice near Foyas island.

The Swedish admiralty tonight said that it had received no confirmation of the doctors death. On the slim chance that he still was alive, they have ordered the Swedish fliers in Spitzbergen to make an intensive search to clear up the mystery as soon as possible.

Mayor Hill was starting across Walnut street from the Epstein corner and coming in the direction of the Hicks and Hawley corner. A woman driving an automobile was making a wide turn into Walnut street from Center at Hicks and Hawley's Mayor Hill was described as having been watching the car as it made the turn in order to keep out of its path. And in pulling to his left, he struck Mayor Hill, knocking him to the pavement. He instantly stopped the truck and the wheels did not pass over the mayor's body. Eye witnesses rushed from the sidewalks and lifted Mayor Hill up. For a mere fraction of time, it was said, he was unconscious from the shock.

When carried to the sidewalk, however, he immediately revived and in a moment was laughing over the occurrence. Leaning against a building a moment to catch his breath, he then walked a short distance for an examination by a doctor. Other than superficial bruises, he escaped injury, it was said.
