Fire At Tennessee State Hospital Destroyed All Official Records in Office

BLAZE MAY HAVE STARTED FROM DEFECTIVE WIRING

Fifty Year Old Central Building Was Totally Destroyed By Raging Fire

NASHVILLE, July 27.—(AP)—To night only 9 of the 1,272 inmates of the Central State hospital for the insane, one building of which was burned early today, remained at large. Only two of the nine are considered dangerous.

NASHVILLE.—(AP)—State officials tonight concentrated on obtaining a water supply for the Central State hospital for the insane 8 miles from Nashville, the administration building which was totally destroyed by fire early this morning. Although 15 of the more than 1,200 patients escaped when they were turned out onto the spacious grounds, hospital authorities were not worried over those still at large. Two of them were confined for murder and were described as "bad actors", but it was not expected that they would molest anybody, and officers were watching their familiar haunts in hopes of early capture.

The fire started, it was believed, by defective wiring in the cupola of the 50-year-old central unit of the plant. It destroyed all hospital records and the belongings of the superintendent.

The main building a 50 year old four story structure, caught fire around midnight the institution is located eight miles from the city limits, and the blaze had gained great headway before two companies of the Nashville fire department and a squad of police reserves had arrived.

All the occupants of the main building were driven from their beds scantily clad, guards and nurses taking time only to warn inmates of their danger. Whether or not there was loss of life was not determined early today, pending an investigation.

Once in the open, hundreds of the frightened patients fled in the rain as the flames mounted higher in the misty darkness. Shriek shouts of guards, police and firemen merely served to increase the alarm of their charges, who fled down highway, rail road tracks and bypaths.

When the upper walls began crumbling terror stricken men and women screamed and moaned in fear, as officers tried frantically to round them into other buildings of the institution. Deputies posted on highways carted many of them to police stations and jails in the city, although so far as could be determined none of the dangerous criminals had been accounted for.

At dawn the alarm was sounded throughout the countryside and residents were put on their guard by police messengers.

Many of the hospital patients helped guards with the unmanageable inmates during the worst of the early morning disorder, and some were drafted by firemen in their effort to bring the blaze under control.

Apparently the fire originated in the roof, although no cause had been determined early today. Some 30 nurses and guards and doctors driven out with the inmates, fled without their belongings, nor did they have time to salvage records of the institution. This constituted a serious problem, as many of the inmates mostly the missing probably can never be identified again.

TYPHUS CASE IN NEW HANOVER

Disease May Be Transmitted In Other Ways Than Through Agency of Body Louse

RALEIGH, July 27.—(AP)—The State Board of Health has just been notified that a case of typhus or spotted fever, has been found in New Hanover county. Information about the disease was immediately sent by the board to representative physicians in different parts of the state. It has been determined, the board of health was informed, that the disease can be transmitted in other ways other than through the agency of body louse.

Diagnosis of the disease as reported by the board, follows: A thick measles like eruption with marked suffusion of conjunctivae; complaint of violent headache to which may be added general bodily suffering especially in back and limbs.

Appearance of the eruption from the fourth and sixth day of the fever. Crisis usually, occasionally rapid, occurs on the eleventh or fifteenth day. A slight leucocytosis (about 11 or 12 thousand) which is quite constant but not absolutely invariable.

More important of all the disease picture on the third or fifth day a profound toxemia with often times a low muttering delirium, some pinking at the bed cloth and the general appearance of grave illness. This is mentally contrasted with the picture of the typhoid state in which the same toxemia would hardly appear before the third week.

News Paper Clipping Reaches City After 6000 Mile Journey

Maurice L. Block, member of the Goldsboro News' staff, yesterday received a newspaper clipping, which in its journey to the local men, rode in a mail car for over six thousand miles going across the continent from Athens, Georgia to California, and from there back East to Goldsboro.

Col. Hanline, veteran travelling salesman, and a Mason of National prominence sent the clipping to his sister, Mrs. Louis Block in Manning, California, from Athens, and Mrs. Block in turn sent it to her son, Maurice Block, here. The article which was taken from an Athens paper, reads as follows:

DEMOCRATS ARE ASSURED TO WIN

Party Leaders Prepare For Vigorous Campaign In Anticipation of Victory

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—Assurances of a Democratic victory at the polls in November were brought to Smith headquarters today by three of the party's most prominent leaders—one of them a former presidential nominee.

Two of them, Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, and former James M. Cox, of Ohio, placed themselves at the disposal of the national committee. The third U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, already is actively engaged in the campaign, as chairman of the national committee's speakers' bureau.

"I'm ready to take off my coat and pitch in to do whatever I can for Governor Smith," said Cox, who was defeated by Harding for the presidency in 1920. Cox was a staunch supporter of the League of Nations, reference to which is omitted this year in the party's platform.

G. O. P.'S CLAIM GOOD PROSPECT

North Carolina Republican Leaders in Washington Conference Report

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—Republican leaders of North Carolina were called into conference today by Chairman Work of the National Committee and they reported a "most encouraging prospect" of Herbert Hoover carrying the state.

Charles A. Jonas, national committeeman, reported that for the first time in history the Republicans had a complete organization in every county and district. He asked for no drive by the nation commerce in the south, and said Dr. Work planned none. He added that only cooperation was necessary. This seems to be the policy in the minds of the Republican chieftains who have been advised to let the south do its own work. Jonas and his two companions, Browlow Jackson on the Capital trip, chairman of the Republican state committee and Stuart W. Cramer, Charlotte textile manufacturer, said that Senator Curtis, the vice presidential candidate he sent into the state but otherwise they made no plans.

"It's no mistake is made," Jonas said, "I confidently predict that Hoover will carry the state. North Carolina was never a Democratic state."

Jonas said he did not expect Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who recently resigned without explanation as Democratic national committeeman, to work against Smith.

Senator Simmons, he said is the most far sighted Democrat in the South. He knows what is going to happen, and he is going to let it happen, not because he doesn't love the Democratic party, but because he wants to save it.

PETERSON PAYS BLAND TRIBUTE

Newspaper Man Was Intimately Acquainted With Father of Judge D. H. Bland

O. J. Peterson, well known newspaper man, was in Raleigh Thursday, and paid the following tribute to John T. Bland father of Judge D. H. Bland of this city, who died at his home in Burgaw last Tuesday. The tribute appeared in yesterday morning's News and Observer under the column "Views and Observations."

"I have been very intimately acquainted with John T. Bland, who died at his home in Burgaw, Tuesday for nearly forty years," said O. J. Peterson of Raleigh, yesterday, "and I have known few, if any better men." Continuing, Mr. Peterson said: "Mr. Bland's life has been devoted to the moral, religious and educational development of Pender county. He graduated at Wake Forest in 1876, as one of a class of four men, and one of only a dozen college graduates in North Carolina that year. His classmates were B. F. Montague, who recently died at Raleigh, where he had spent along and honorable life; Rev. John L. Britt, of Wayne county, who was a most useful Baptist minister, and Dr. J. B. Powers of Wake Forest, the only survivor of a man who has served his generation well."

"Mr. Bland taught in the college for girls at Clinton of which the late Rev. J. I. Stewart was principal and studied law under the same great character, for Mr. Stewart was one of the most able lawyers, as well as one of the strongest preachers in the State. As Pender county had just been formed when Mr. Bland got his law license he located at Burgaw, the new county seat, and from that day till he became enfeebled a year or two ago, he was in the forefront of every movement that he conceived to be for the moral, spiritual, and financial advancement of his county. He was identified with the county's life from its birth, represented it in the legislative one or more times, and served as county superintendent of schools for years. He reared not only a large family of his own children, the eldest of who is Judge David Bland, of Goldsboro, but also practically reared several orphan relatives of his own and Mrs. Bland's, among whom was my own wife, an orphaned niece of Mrs. Bland's and from whose home we were married. HOOVER GETS WELCOME HOME

Republican Nominee Is Greeted By Officials of His Home Town and State

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—(AP)—The myriad billed city behind the Golden Gate welcomed home today California's most distinguished son, Herbert Hoover.

For more than one hour the man upon whom the Republican party has placed the mantle of its presidential nomination was within San Francisco confined to be greeted by officials of the city and state and just the plain folks from office, store factory and home.

Mayor James Holph, Jr., said in his address of welcome, it was a non partisan welcome an outpouring of San Franciscans to do honor to one of their fellows who came here 30-odd years ago to seek his fortune and who left to travel upon the road that has led to the highest honors a great political party may bestow. Mr. Hoover treated it as such in his response to the mayor for his only reference to politics, if such it might be called, was at the conclusion of his address which he thanked the people of his state for presenting his name to the Kansas city convention.

Mrs. Bell Said to Have Been Actually Dead Two Times But Was Saved By Artificial Respiration Applied By Scouts

Boy Scouts again came to the front and proved the authenticity of their slogan "Be Prepared," when Mrs. Luby Bell, who before her marriage a few days ago was Miss Frances Parker, of Mt. Olive, was rescued from a near drowning in the lake at the Boy Scout camp, Camp Tuscarora located a few miles from Mt. Olive, by Jack Knowles, age about 14, and James Sedberry, aged 13, Thursday afternoon at about 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Bell had gone out to the Scout camp with a party of friends from Mt. Olive to go in swimming. It was said, and had just made a dive from one of the spring beaches, when she became strangled while under the water, and rose to the surface, spluttering and choking. She went under one time, came up again, and did started down for the second time, when a girl, whose name could not be learned, clutched her by her bathing suit, and held her up for a minute or two. By this time young Knowles and Sedberry had reached the spot. One on each side of the inert body of the unconscious woman, they swam with her to a float or platform in the middle of the lake. W. W. Rivers, scout executive, who is in charge of the camp was called, and artificial respiration was resorted to in a frenzied attempt to revive the young lady, who to all human senses was actually dead. It was said, after a time she regained consciousness, but relapsed again a moment or two, and artificial respiration was again brought into play. Mrs. Bell came to for the second time. It was said, and this time she was placed in a boat and carried to the shore. Here she again lost consciousness but revived after a lengthy treatment by artificial respiration and ammonia. The car was secured, and she was carried to Mt. Olive, and taken to the office of Dr. Steele, physician of that city. Here, it was said, she had to remain for about two hours before she was strong enough to be taken to her home.

According to information received by The News last evening, Mrs. Bell was to all appearances actually dead at two different times after she was taken from the water, and if the accident had occurred at some place where no one present had any knowledge of artificial respiration, that the young lady would undoubtedly have lost her life. Knowles and Sedberry who are Mt. Olive boys, were said to have learned the art of life saving at the Boy Scout camp last summer.

This is not the first time Boy Scouts have shown their training, and proved themselves capable of acting in a crisis without hesitation. Reports appear from time to time in newspapers all over the county relating the details of some accident, in which a scout has proved his "mettle" by coming to the rescue.

Young Knowles was 14 months rescued from drowning about a year ago, when he was pulled from the water by a young man by name of Brown.
