Four Fliers Killed And Two Are Injured As Big Plane Crashes From Fog

Army Pilot Evidently Miscalculated Distance in Air At Time Started Landing

ONE OF SURVIVORS TELLS GRAPHIC STORY OF WRECK

Men Were Returning From Participating in Air Carnival Near Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 23.—(AP)—When the pilot apparently lost his bearings in a heavy fog a giant tri-motored Ford passenger airplane crashed near the Palouse highway just outside of Spokane today, killing four persons and seriously injuring two others.

Those killed, Lt. Wm. R. Williams, Spokane, pilot and an officer of the Washington national guard flying unit stationed here.

Li. Louie D. Burger, co-pilot and mechanic, former mechanic for the Ford Airplane factories, Detroit, residence Indianapolis.

K. T. Dunlop, Spokane bank employee, and sergeant in the 116th observation squadron, Washington national guard.

Washington G. Norson, officer manager for the Namer Flying service, in Spokane.

The big monoplane was returning to Spokane from an air carnival at Colfax, Washington, when it encountered fog. Witnesses said the pilot apparently thought he was higher than he was above the ground when he prepared to land.

For two hours, Lt. Williams, pilot, battled with fog, circling around Spokane seeking a landing place.

Details of the accident were told by Heath, one of those injured who is business manager for the Spokane Airways who gave his account from a hospital cot.

"We took off from Colfax about 8 o'clock, flew on nicely until nearing Spokane when the fog loomed up. We circled Spokane for a long time, hoping that a hole would open up in the fog. I told Bill that we should not take any chances and he said we were not going to."

Pilot Jack Rose of the Namer Flying service, had left Colfax in a Stearman plane. Heath continued his story.

"All at once the Stearman, piloted by Rose, passed us and dove through a hole. Bill said that he could get through if Rose could and we started down.

"That was our ending. Just as we started through the hole it closed up in front of us. We were confronted with a dense fog. We lost all sense of direction and were not able to tell whether we were flying upside down or not. However, Bill remained calm as did everyone else in the plane. "Swede Norson, who is always joking, leaned over to me and said 'Well, Rex, boy it looks a little bad, I'll see you in hell,' and then the crash came. "Our left wing struck a tree and was entirely torn away and that was the last I can remember until I came to on the ground."

MERE WOMAN ROUTS BANDIT

But She Insists Papers Must Leave Out 'Heroics' in Reporting Case

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. C. H. Simmons insists that if the newspapers print anything about her ruckus with a bandit last night that they do so "without any frills or heroics."

"Did I strike him?" the gray-haired woman said. "Well, what woman would not, with her husband in danger?"

The doorbell rang and her husband, a mortgage broker, answered. Mrs. Simmons heard a scuffle and went to investigate.

"A young man with a handkerchief over part of his face stood there, pointing a pistol at my husband. He struck Mr. Simmons over the head with the handle of the gun. I grabbed it from him. Did I strike him? Well, who wouldn't?" Between us, we gave that young man a thrashing.

"The handkerchief came off his face, and he ran as fast as he could. I suppose he was glad to get away."

"But remember," Mrs. Simmons cautioned, "no heroics in the newspapers."

WHIPPING PROF. QUILTS HIS JOB

Barnwell Resigns After Authorities Start Investigation of Raleigh Case

RALEIGH, Nov. 23.—(AP)—R. W. Barnwell, chemistry teacher at Hugh Morson high school here, who Wednesday thrashed Paul Allen, 9th grade student, thereby bringing on an investigation by city and county authorities, resigned last night as a member of the faculty it was announced today.

His resignation was accepted this morning by Supt. H. F. Srygley, who said that he regretted the incident as it was the first time that whipping of students in the high school had been brought to his attention since he assumed charge of the city schools in 1922. It has never been the policy to whip students except in obstinate cases and then with the consent of parents, he explained. The superintendent also said that the rubber tubing used by Prof. Barnwell was not kept in the school for the specific purpose of whipping students but was used as a regular part of the chemistry equipment.

The resignation of Prof. Barnwell, it is thought, will end the matter. Prof. Barnwell has been a member of the high school faculty only a short time, coming here only about a month.

DR. MULLINS DIES AT HOME

President of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary Long A Leader

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Dr. Edgar Young Mullins, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here and internationally known denominational leader, died at his home at noon today.

He suffered a stroke of paralysis November 10 and death was not unexpected. Attending physicians had held out little hope for recovery of the 68-year old churchman during the nine days that he hovered between life and death.

Isla May Mullins, herself well known as a writer of fiction, was at her husband's bedside when the end came.

Telegram Operator Dr. Edgar Young Mullins, who served as president of the Baptist World Alliance and of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, was, at the age of 15 a full-fledged telegraph operator.

Before this young Mullins worked as printer's devil and as typesetter in his home town of Corsicana, Tex., where he had lived since he was 8 years old. He contributed part of his wages towards sending his older sisters through college. After his sisters were graduated he was told that his father had found means to send him to branch college. He entered upon a liberal arts course in the Texas State Agricultural College.

Four years later, after his graduation he volunteered one night into the tent of a traveling evangelist at Dallas. That night he was among the converts. He returned home and became active in religious work at his father's church in Corsicana.

The youth determined to enter the ministry. He entered the Southern Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky. at the age of 25. Dr. Mullins received his degree. Kentucky became his adopted state. His first pastorate was at Harrodsburg, Ky. From there he went to the Lee Street Baptist church Baltimore, where his work came under the notice of Joshua Levernig, president of the board of trustees of the Southern Baptist Seminary.

Dr. Mullins left Baltimore to take the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Newton Center, Mass., then considered one of the most important Baptist pulpits in the United States since the Newton Center Baptist Theological Seminary was there.

The premium of $8,978.50 brought the total offer for the bonds by the Toledo company to $756,978.50, which is equivalent to saying that the interest rate on the bonds will be only about 4.63 per cent.

The various items in the bond total are as follows: $599,000 Road Bonds maturing $500,000 1931 to 1935 inclusive; $10,000.00 1936 to 1960 inclusive. $19,000.00 Road and Bridge Funding Bonds, maturing $10,000 1930 to 1935 inclusive; $15,000 1936 to 1941 inclusive. $20,000 1942 to 1943 inclusive. $58,000.00 Road and Bridge Bonds maturing $5,000 1931 to 1932 inclusive; $8000 1933; $10,000 1934 to 1937 inclusive.

Mr. Herring was defeated for re-nomination in the Democratic primary of last June. England Anxiously Waits Each Bulletin From His Majesty's Sick Room

HEIR APPARENT REMAINS IN CLOSE TOUCH AFFAIRS

Congestion of Lung Spread Yesterday But Was Seemingly Arrested Last Evening

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—King George, who stood with barred head in a raincoat at the Armistice Day ceremonies, has developed a congestion in one lung which has caused anxiety throughout his kingdom.

His majesty passed a restless night and today the congestion was found to have increased slightly. This afternoon, however, he succeeded in getting some rest and this was regarded as favorable.

While members of the royal household were not unduly alarmed and the King is quite cheerful, the state of his health caused some concern and bulletins were awaited eagerly.

The Prince of Wales, heir apparent, who is hunting in East Africa with his brother the Duke of Gloucester, is being kept closely in touch with the condition of his father. Thus far, however, there has been nothing to indicate that his immediate return to England is contemplated.

The Duke of York, who is the only one of the four royal sons in England at the present time, came from his hunting lodge to London this morning and visited his majesty. He planned to return to Northamptonshire tomorrow but will keep in close touch with London.

Premier Baldwin is keeping in close touch with the palace. He will go to Choucaux for the weekend but will be at immediate call in case he should be needed in London in connection with the King's illness.

King George's physicians, Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson, of Penn., in their formal statement tonight said:

"The King had a quieter day. His temperature is lower and there was no further extension of the mischief in the lung."
