

20,000 SEE CAROLINA DEFEAT VIRGINIA 24 TO 20

Tars Turn to Passes And Take Victory From Threatening Cavaliers

Virginia Was Leading 13 to 6 At The End of First Half of Game

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE AND WIFE ATTEND

More Passes Thrown Than in Any Game in All History of Famous Battle

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 29.—(AP)—In a game making up in thrills anything it may have lacked in the finer points of football the University of North Carolina defeated the University of Virginia 24 to 20. A crowd variously estimated at 18,000 to 20,000 saw the Tar Heels twice come from behind to take the measure of the Cavaliers in a sensational battle of forward passes.

President and Mrs. Coolidge saw the first period of the hectic struggle and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and the governors of North Carolina and Virginia witnessed the war in full.

The big crowd filling Lambeth field from corner to corner spent most of the afternoon on its thousands of feet first to welcome the President into the stadium, again to bid him good bye and in between after to gasp the sight in a single game between the two institutions who point to a series starting in 1892.

All of the touchdowns were concerned more or less with the passing end of the game with the emphasis on the more, and there were many others barely missed. Virginia ends let two long shots slip from their finger's ends when they were within calling distance of the goal line.

So far as the President's concern his Virginia hosts won the game, for when he left at the end of the first period the University of the "Mother of Presidents" was leading its neighbor 7 to 6.

The home team added another touchdown in the last period and went to the club house for the intermission with a 13 to 6 edge. North Carolina had a great deal in reserve, however, and it was found—after the events of the second half were unraveled that three touchdowns were sitting on the Tar Heel bench throughout the first two periods.

Magner and Erickson, two substitutes, were introduced and responded with three counters between them. Magner, a rugged back, who can throw passes as well as run with the ball, made two, and Erickson, a football player who grabs passes much on the order of an outfielder in baseball, added the other, which as it happened, won the football game.

The Tar Heels were not out of the woods when they put on their big third period to score two touchdowns, for Virginia had kicked for an extra point while Carolina had not; and after the visitors took the lead of 18 to 12, thanks to Magner and a good interference back named Nash, the home crowd came back to score on another of the day's sensational passes, and again force ahead 20 to 18. And then Erickson took a pass from Ward and ran 12 yards for the deciding touchdown.

But It Didn't Cure His Electric Shock

BRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The town councillor of the little Moravian town of Bakova was deliberately buried alive after accidental contact with a highly charged electric wire that rendered him unconscious. On the advice of a woman doctor of the village the official, Kutclera, was placed in a hole in the ground in the belief that the earth would absorb the electricity from his body. When dug up after 30 minutes interment Kutclera was dead.

KING GEORGE SOME BETTER

Bulletins Issued Yesterday Are In More Optimistic Vein

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—An anxious nation began to breathe more freely today as the condition of King George showed distinct improvement.

Jungle Boy Who Became A Bishop to Appear in City

Rt. Rev. Theophilus Momolu Gardner, D. D. Bishop Suffragan of Liberia, the jungle boy who became a Bishop will speak at St. Andrew's (colored) Episcopal Church, Goldsboro, on Wednesday December 5th.

Bishop Gardner who is Suffragan Bishop of the Republic of Liberia came to the United States several months ago to attend the Forty-ninth Triennial General Convention of the Episcopal church, which met in Washington from October 10th to 25th. As Suffragan Bishop of Liberia he sat in the House of Bishops at that Convention. He is the first man from the Val Tribe of West Africa who in all the history of the tribe entered the Christian ministry. He has also the distinction of being the first tribesman in all Liberia to become a bishop of the church.

The Val Tribe, of which his father was a chief, had come under the influence of Mohammedanism as a result of which the boy was given the name of Momolu in honor of the prophet of Islam, in which the tribal language means Mohammed. Until he was about ten years old the future bishop ran wild with his fellows in the jungle, knowing nothing of the Christian religion. Then, out of a desire that his son should receive an education and become familiar with the ways of the white man, Momolu's father entered him in St. John's Ep.

Commerce Report Stresses High Trend of Prosperity

Viewing the agricultural situation as a whole, no very marked difference appears between conditions in the fiscal year 1927-28 and the preceding fiscal year. Mr. Hoover's section said: "The crops harvested in the autumn of 1927 were in the aggregate of approximately the same magnitude as those of 1926 and larger than in the previous year except 1915 and 1925. It is true that the increase in agricultural production both over a long period of time and during recent years has been decidedly less rapid than that in the production of manufactured and mineral products. The demand for farm products, which are for the most part necessities of life, is not so great as that for manufactured goods." (Continued on page 5)

HOOVER NEARS WORLD EQUATOR

Plans for initiation of Pollywogs Into Mysteries of Ancient Cult

U. S. S. MARYLAND EN ROUTE TO GUAYAQUIL, ECUADOR, Nov. 29.—(AP)—This was a day of alternate thanksgiving and trembling aboard the battleship Maryland as the mighty craft, carrying Herbert Hoover, president-elect and his party neared the equator on its voyage to Guayaquil, its next port of call.

In consequence of the Thanksgiving holiday, the ship observed Sunday routine.

Dinner concluded, the Maryland was brought to a dead halt while Day Jones, personal agent of his majesty King Neptune, came aboard to issue subpoenas to all those who have not until now crossed the equator. There were summons to appear for initiation tomorrow on the forecastle deck where a ducking tank has been rigged up.

Jones was presented to Captain Kimberly and the president-elect formally as son-as he came over the side of the vessel; then he retired to the quarterdeck where the subpoena ceremony was enacted.

Even before his arrival, however, the "shell backs", as those who have crossed the equator before, are known were busy working on the "pollywogs" as those who have not are known. Some of these latter had been placed in the brig, others being chained up on the deck by their necks, wrists, and feet.

RUM WAR CAUSE DEATH OF MAN

Owner of Attacked Launch Says Boat Did Not Contain Any Contraband

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 29.—(AP)—One alleged rum runner was shot and his companion wounded when their launch clashed today with a coast guard boat in darkness off the South Shore of Lake Ontario. The man killed was Carl Anderson, 34, of Lewiston. The wounded man is Edmund Shar of Niagara Falls.

According to federal authorities papers were found in the dead man's pockets showing that the launch, known as the Bug, cleared from Niagara on Lake Ontario, November 28 for Wilson, N. Y., with 200 cases of ale. There was no name on the clearance papers to indicate who was in charge of the launch. Coast guardsmen, however, said they had orders to seize the Bug on sight. No ale or liquor was found.

Shar told authorities that he and Anderson, with no contraband on board, were working on the motor when the first two shots were fired. Coast guardsmen in their report said the Bug made a deliberate attempt to ram their boat.
