Negro Is Held for Harnett Sheriff on Forgery Count

Harvey Stewart, local negro, who runs a small garage in the rear of a filling station located on the eastern edge of town, was arrested here yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff J. L. Smith, and was lodged in the city jail to be held for the sheriff of Harnett county, where he is wanted on a charge of forgery. Stewart is the same negro who served a road sentence about a year ago as a result of an attempt to forge a check and get it cashed at a local bank.

According to the warrant which was sent to the local deputy by the Harnett sheriff, Stewart is charged with having secured $29.95 worth of merchandise from J. M. Pope's store at Angler, N. C., recently on a forged order purported to be from W. D. Stewart, Lillington negro, who, it is supposed, did his trading at the Pope store. The forgery was discovered, it was said, when the Lillington negro went to settle up his account.

Harvey Stewart claims that W. D. Stewart is a close relation to his, it was learned, and local officers are of the opinion that if his claim is true he may have visited his relative, learned where he did his trading, and at the same time, learned to copy the Lillington man's signature after a fashion, sufficiently, at any rate, to enable him to secure a quantity of merchandise from the strength of it.

The boy's basketball team of the Mt. Olive high school defeated the strong Clinton five in a hard fought cage contest here Tuesday night, 34 to 14, while the local girls lost to the Clinton aggregation 28 to 7. Both games were fiercely contested, but clean, throughout. Both the local boys and the girls, displayed excellent brands of basketball.

In the boy's game, Hollingsworth, for the locals, playing only half of the game, led the scoring with a total of 12 points, and Uzzie came next in the scoring column with 8 points. Jackson, for the visitors, carried off scoring honors with 8 of the 14 points scored by Clinton.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl in my early teens. I have been going with a fellow for about one year and every time I go out with him he talks about his former girl. Please advise me what to do and say when he does that. I think you are waiting.

WAITING: Pay no attention to him when he starts talking about her, my dear. He is probably trying to make you jealous and the wisest thing for you to do is take no notice of it. Simply advise him and tell him what a nice girl she is, and laugh about it—if you can. And if you keep up this course of treatment, he'll soon tire and stop.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl in my teens and go to high school. There is a boy in the same year as I am who says he thinks a lot of me. I used to consider him a very good friend, but somehow I have lost all interest in him and care nothing about him. He insists upon taking me home and going to the show and places. I hate to say no, for it hurts him badly. Should I tell him I don't care for his company? I have often tried to but just can't.

Thank you very much. PEGGY LOU.

PEGGY LOU: Of course, I can understand your not wanting to hurt the young man's feelings, my dear. But if you don't care for his company, the most tactful way out of it is to refuse his invitations. When he asks you to go out, plead a previous engagement. Do this several times and he will probably take the hint and cease his attentions.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl in my teens and have come with a boy friend for over a year. He is two years my senior. He says he loves me, but every evening when he comes over he starts talking about the boys I have come with before, and asking why they never come over. He keeps this up all evening. Really, I love him and would do most anything to be able to keep him, but this gets tiresome, listening to the same thing evening after evening. Is it because he is jealous or because he thinks it fun?

WORRIED: From your letter, I should say that the young man is rather ill-bred and at a loss for anything else to talk about. Why not drop him for a while and let him wonder what's the matter? Sometimes this will work wonders, especially as he would then realize that you don't want to listen to a parrot conversation that proves boring and monotonous.

Big Chub in Trent

About 20 pounds of bass and racoon perch were caught by Dr. P. I. Durden, Ralph English and David Reeves in a few hours time when the trio went fishing down on the Trent river Tuesday. It was learned yesterday. The "finny critters" were bling fine, it was said.

The largest of the fish, a mammoth old chub weighing six and a half pounds, was captured by Ralph English after a desperate battle and the issuance of several war-whoops. The big bass was caught with live bait, and once he was hooked, put up a terrific battle. One of the members of the party stated yesterday, "when that old chub opened her mouth, she looked like the front end of a whale."

A large racoon perch, weighing between two and three pounds was caught by David Reeves. The rest of the catch were about of an average size for such fish, it was said.

RUB your chest with Vicks before your little cold gets BIG. Vicks acts two ways at once to check the cold and prevent complications:

(1) It is vaporized by the heat of the body and inhaled for hours direct to the inflamed air-passages.
(2) It acts through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the tightness and pain.
