RALEIGH, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A bill to prevent students other than those studying in recognized North Carolina law schools or who are bonafide residents of the state from taking the North Carolina bar examination was passed by the senate today.

In urging passage of the bill which he introduced, Senator Clark, Democrat of Mecklenburg, deplored the existing conditions in which he said large numbers of students from other states took the North Carolina examination.

Altogether 17 state measures were passed at third reading by the senate in today's session. Although the workmen's compensation was set as a special order for tonight, the highway patrol bill replaced it when the senate was brought to order and the compensation bill put as a special order following the highway patrol bill.

STEWART GOES FOR JOHN JR.

Standard Oil of Indiana Chairman Says Opponent Wants To Rule or Ruin

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Col. Robert Stewart ripped into adherents of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who are trying to oust Stewart as head of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana in a statement mailed to stockholders tonight.

He charged his opponent with assuming a "hollier than thou" attitude toward the "great majority of the stockholders of the company" and with initiating a "rule or ruin" policy bent on securing control of the company regardless of consequence.

That anyone should still support there is any "moral issue" involved in the struggle between Rockefeller and Stewart for control of the company, he characterized as a "naive idea," and challenged the assumption "that divine guidance is vouchsafed to my opponents alone."

The statement of the Indiana company's chairman follows close on the heels of a statement from his camp in which it was claimed that Mr. Stewart now has in his possession "proxies of a great majority of the stockholders and is rapidly nearing a working majority in the stock." It was also asserted that the Stewart "proxies" include thousands of revocations of proxies originally given by Mr. Rockefeller, Jr.

Today's broadside is directed at a 72-page document issued February 19 by Winthrop A. Aldrich, brother-in-law and attorney for Mr. Rockefeller. It assails both Aldrich and Fry Lee, New York press agent, and denounces the 72 page document as "sly," "slander" and a "deception."

Petitions Request Naming Of Gurley As Fire Chief

Petitions now being circulated in the city call upon the board of aldermen to elect Assistant Fire Chief A. W. Gurley as fire chief for Goldsboro. The petitions were started by friends of Mr. Gurley when George Mabry arrived from Rocky Mount to become acting chief.

The petitions as circulated are in no way a criticism of Mr. Mabry but are simply a request to the board of aldermen that Mr. Gurley be named chief on the basis of his record with the Goldsboro fire department. The petitions will be presented to the aldermen at their next regular meeting. It was announced.

Those circulating the papers said yesterday that they had more than 150 names to their list and that they had not met with a single failure in sign.

Leslie Yelverton, for many years chief of the department, in a statement headed "to the citizens of Goldsboro," had the following to say in endorsement of Mr. Gurley:

"Why can't a local man, who is thoroughly capable, be advanced to a responsible position?"

Assistant Fire Chief A. W. Gurley has been a fireman in this city for fourteen years, two and one half as

MONEY LOST IN MISMANAGEMENT

Urge Poultry Raisers To Attend Poultry Conference Here On Friday

Thousands of dollars are lost in Wayne county each year by improper brooding of baby chicks, says T. T. Brown, assistant county agent. Many of these heavy losses could be easily prevented if the poultryman would take the time and trouble to learn the better methods in brooding and caring for the chicks.

"Therefore," he urges, "if you intend to raise any chicks at all this season you cannot afford not to go out to the Community Memorial building Friday, February 22 at 3 p. m., and attend the county-wide poultry meeting. The better methods of poultry raising, especially chick brooding and feeding will be thoroughly discussed by the three young men who attended the State college poultry short course last November, through the courtesy of the Goldsboro National Bank; Wayne National Bank; First National Bank of Mt. Olive; and the Wayne Hatchery.

"These institutions are interested in your success in poultry raising and are endeavoring in this way to bring the modern poultry practices as advocated by our State College and Experiment station to your attention in detail. Show your appreciation of their efforts by attending the meeting and inviting all your interested friends."

NEW CLUES IN KIDNAPING CASE

Police Believe Effort Was Made To Return San Francisco Baby Girl

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Discovery today of an abandoned automobile in which were found a rag doll and a quantity of candy scattered over the floor was the newest clue in the five day's search for four year old Doris Smith-Murphy, missing since Friday when she disappeared from a public playground here. Investigation disclosed that the machine had been abandoned by a man and a woman who had been accompanied by a little girl resembling the missing child.

Police disclosed this afternoon that what may have been an attempt to return little Doris to her parents was made last night. The supposed attempt was made by a man and woman who stopped an automobile before the dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Murphy, the child's mother and stepfather. A small girl resembling Doris sat between them, witnesses reported.

Apparently frightened at the approach of police, the woman, about to leave the machine with the child, sat down in the car and slammed the door. The man then drove off followed by a police machine but after a chase of several miles the car escaped down a dark street.

Continuing their check of clues contributed by scores of persons police were still searching parks and wooded hills and dragging reservoirs and a part of San Francisco Bay off the Marine district.

Give Interview Relative To Action on Zoning Ordinance

Lionel Well, G. S. Dewey, W. E. Stroud and Col. John D. Langston in interviews gathered yesterday by The News expressed themselves as not agreeing with the action of the board of aldermen of last Monday in which the city's zoning ordinance was rescinded. Each of these men is a member of the city school board. Other members of the board were out of the city yesterday or could not be reached for an interview.

"I am up in the air about it," replied W. E. Stroud, vice president and cashier of the Wayne National Bank when asked what he thought of the action of the aldermen in voting to rescind the zoning ordinance. Mr. Stroud recalled that when the proposal to place a filling station at Ash and William street was last before the board the proposal was opposed strenuously and said that there had been no change in the position as far as he knew. Erection of a station at that location would endanger the lives of children going to and from schools, he said. "We've got too doggone many filling stations, anyway," he added.

George S. Dewey of Dewey Brothers, Inc., chairman of the school board, said that he had personally
