Gov. Orders Solicitor To Probe Wrecking Of Strikers' Headquarters

Charlotte Reporter Knocked Unconscious by Deputy and Action Unexplained

HOLD LORAY WORKERS WERE IN A "PARADE"

Governor's Orders Follow His Return From Trip to New York City

CHARLOTTE, April 22.—The arrest of 29 men and women strikers of the Loray mill at Gastonia and a gubernatorial protest against the recent destruction of union headquarters there by a masked mob were events along an otherwise quiet strike front today.

Returning today from New York Governor O. Max Gardner received official report of the mob violence last Thursday and at once wired Solicitor John G. Carpenter of Gastonia to use every effort to discover the identity of participants in the raid and to prosecute them.

The Loray strikers, including nine women, were jailed following a mass meeting and sheriff's officer who arrested them described it as a raid.

Tom P. Jimison, attorney for the National Workers Union denied here tonight that there was a parade and the strikers were merely returning their picket lines.

They are scheduled to be tried tomorrow on a charge of violating a city ordinance which requires permits for street parades. No resistance to the arrests was reported by police.

A Charlotte newspaper reporter who was knocked unconscious when a deputy struck him with his pistol as he entered the strike zone was the only victim of violence. He was not seriously injured. The Gaston county sheriff declined and the reporter said he was unable to explain the attack.

Five thousand textile mill workers in seven communities of North and South Carolina remained idle. Threats of an additional strike at the Calvine mill of the Chadwick-Hoskins chain failed to materialize. At a mass meeting last night employees of the mill voted to demand the reinstatement of three members of the National Textile Workers Union who had been discharged and to strike at four o'clock this afternoon if refused.

Tonight the mill was still in operation and William Sroka, representing the union, said the strike had been postponed. He would make no further statement.

Officials of the Dakota mill at Lexington, North Carolina, announced the plant would re-open tomorrow. It closed April 12, because of "overproduction and unrest among the employees."

RALEIGH, April 22.—With several of the State papers calling on him for action with regard to the course the State will take in connection with the apprehension and prosecution of the masked men who last Thursday morning broke into and demolished headquarters and the relief store of striking cotton mill operatives at Gastonia, Governor O. Max Gardner Monday faced what is admittedly a very perplexing question.

Governor Gardner was back in his office Monday after a four-day trip to New York, where he went on financial business for the State. He planned to confer Monday afternoon with Judge N. A. Towns and, executive counsel relative to the action the State will take in the investigation. So far, according to reports from Gastonia, the only persons arrested in connection with the disturbance at Gastonia last Thursday were some strikers, who, it was said, were sleeping in the strikers' headquarters as guards. Some were charged with disorderly conduct, others were freed.

By order of Governor Gardner, North Carolina National Guardsmen, who had been on duty at Gastonia for the past three weeks in connection with the textile strike there, were withdrawn Sunday and sent to their homes.

Speaking of the attack made on the strikers' headquarters, Governor Gardner said the guilty parties should be apprehended and punished.

"I have no sympathy whatever with the Communist party or with Beal and Perishoff (strike organizers at Gastonia), but in North Carolina as

ROCKY MT. MAN AT ELM STREET

Rev. Mr. Petty Preaches on "Three Ways of Living" in Series Start

ROCKY MT.—Front BB Rev. D. A. Petty, pastor of the Clark Street Methodist church of Rocky Mount, last evening began a ten-day revival service at the Elm Street Methodist church with a scholarly sermon on "The Three Ways of Living." Services will be held each morning at 9 o'clock and each evening at 7:45 during the remainder of the series. The public is invited to be present.

Special music was rendered at the service last night by the singers of the Odd Fellows Home here and by others.

The parable of the Good Samaritan gave Rev. Mr. Petty—a graduate of Duke and Yale Universities—the basis of his sermon last night. "In this parable," said Mr. Petty "we find illustrated three philosophies of life. The robbers represent one philosophy of life; and we have many in every age who make this the practical rule and theory of their lives.

"The priest and levite demonstrate a philosophy of life that is more respectable among people, but which has a most deadening influence on the life and on society. This demonstrates selfishness in high places.

"The Samaritan holds the distinction of demonstrating the philosophy of love, benevolence, charity, kindness and sympathy."

Continuing Mr. Petty cited famous men of history who had made the robbers theory their theory of life; others who had made the priest and levite theory their theory of life.

The philosophy of the Samaritan is the philosophy of Jesus, concluded the minister. "No true follower of Him can hold any other philosophy of life."

Not to Proceed With Organizing Company

RALEIGH, April 22.—Charter of the American Holding Co., Thomas O'Herry, of Goldsboro, president, and John Duncan, Raleigh lawyer, secretary, recently issued, was returned to Insurance Commissioner Dan Boney today for cancellation. Authorized capital was $250,000 of which none had been sold. The Holding company's purpose was to sell stock and organize a land value insurance company, but the plan has been abandoned.

$442,000 in New Currency To Come to Goldsboro Soon

The government's new paper money, black on the face, green on the back, and two-thirds the size of the present bills, is coming to Goldsboro soon.

Goldsboro's banks will exchange the new bills for the old. The government is planning to retire every one of the present large-size bills. It has printed about $26 in new money to be put in circulation for every man, woman and child in the country. On that basis, and on the basis of somewhat more than 17,000 as Goldsboro's present population, about $442,000 of the new bills will go to Goldsboro.

Not all this money will find its way to Goldsboro at once, however. The first step will be to replace the present-size currency carried in the vaults of Goldsboro's national banks. At the same time the government will replace in like manner the currency in the vaults of the State and other banks in the city. That work will be done by the Federal reserve bank of Richmond.

Goldsboro's bankers will be notified within the next few weeks of the details. The government is planning to use the banks in retiring the old issue. It also is planning to put the new money into circulation all over the United States at the same time. Goldsboro will get the new money as quickly as any other city.

While the government has made no

COLD COMES QUICKLY HERE

Temperature Drops Number of Degrees in Fifteen Minutes Time

A sudden fall in the temperature here yesterday about 1 o'clock led many local people to believe that hail must have struck somewhere in the county, probably in the northern part. About 12:30 o'clock, local business men were walking around in shirt sleeves, and there was even some talk by small boys of going fishing in the afternoon. Three-quarters of an hour later, a stiff northern wind was blowing a small gale across the city, and between 1 o'clock and 1:30 o'clock, thermometers showed a drop of several degrees in the temperature. A short time later a cold rain fell for a few minutes. The weather continued cold and cloudy until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the sun came out again. The air had a chilly feeling during the entire afternoon, however, giving credence to the belief that hail must have fallen somewhere nearby.

VICHULES WINS MEDAL

HONOLULU, April 22.—(AP)—Lieut. Leo D. Vichules, U. S. A., three years ago classed as one of the ten best basketball players in the United States, has been awarded the Honolulu Star-Bulletin medal as the most valuable player of the nine navy league basketball teams in Honolulu.

Mystery Blast Wrecks Strike Offices

This photo shows the wreck of the strike headquarters at Gastonia, N. C., after masked raiders wrecked it with explosives. The National Textile Workers' Union had been directing the strike at the Loray Mills. No clue has been found to identify the perpetrators.

Schools Must Learn to Talk To Taxpayers in His Language

The News Bureau Sir Walter Hotel

RALEIGH, April 22.—Better school administration, increased respect for the tax dollar, a great degree of state-mindedness, a greater willingness to cooperate with one another and a stronger belief in the possibilities of public education in the life of the state, or in the formation of a new civilization—these are the results Dr. A. T. Allen, state superintendent of public instruction, expressed the hope would follow in his opening address at the school for county superintendents and county chairmen of education opened here today for a week. Dr. Allen prefaced his address by asking the purpose of the gathering, then recounted the development of the present public school system in the state, asking the question of whether or not the public schools in the state are enjoying the full power of the supporting opinion of the public. "It has often appeared to me that there was a rising tide of sentiment that the schools were not being operated on sound principles of business efficiency. In many quarters there has sprung up a strong feeling that the schools are spending too much money, and that the taxpayers are not receiving the full benefit," said Dr. Allen, adding that he was neither trying to justify nor condemn this apparent attitude, but raising the question of the obligation of the school folks in this connection. "We must somehow learn to talk the taxpayer or the business man in terms of his own language and satisfy him that there is no waste or needless expenditure of money," he said, adding that the school people must determine that there are no leaks in order to do this. "If there is waste, we must discover and stop it. For, after all, the schools belong to the people, and they themselves will determine for themselves the kind of schools they will have for their children."

EZRA GRIFFIN WINS CONTEST

Goldsboro High School Representative Gets Unanimous Decision of Judges By unanimous vote of the judges, Ezra Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Griffin of Goldsboro, was last night selected as winner of the fifth district finals of the national and international oratory contests. Speakers from four high schools competed for the honor at the Memorial Community Building and were heard by an audience of about 125. Miss Margaret Kirkpatrick, representing the Fayetteville High School, was named as winner of second place. Others speaking last night were Archie Ward of the Lumberton High School and Miss Katie Lee Hamilton of the Princeton High School. The young people discussed various phases of the constitution and showed thorough preparation and coaching. Judges were Rev. W. O. Cone, W. F. Taylor and Derick Hartshorn. Henry R. Kirk presided over the meeting. Having been declared winner in the fifth district, young Griffin will go to Raleigh Friday to compete in the state finals. In Raleigh a winner will be selected to enter the zone finals to be held in New Orleans.

Wells to Direct Second Dramatic Institute Here

Friday and Saturday of this week the Memorial Community Building will hold its second dramatic institute this time under the direction of Charles P. Wells of New York, a producer and director of several years' experience. Mr. Wells is being sent here by the National Playground and Recreation Association. A full two-day program has been planned. Friday morning Mr. Wells will meet with members of the Wayne Community Players to discuss that club's particular problems. That afternoon he will talk on children's dramatics, of which he is one of the best known authorities in the country. In order to make his comments more interesting and instructive, a program of children's plays will be given. These he will use as examples. He will also have with him miniature stage sets, costumes and other properties which he will use in illustration. Saturday will be given over to adult dramatics. The morning session, meeting at eleven o'clock, will be for the high school dramatic club of which Miss Margaret Kornegay is director. Mr. Wells will attend the junior play Friday night and will no doubt use it

URGES SUPPORT COMMERCE BODY

L. M. Ross Speaker at Regular Monday Meeting of Kiwanis Club

The civic clubs of Goldsboro should pay more attention to aiding the Chamber of Commerce, to cooperating with it, to responding to its movements. This was the theme of a talk which L. M. Ross, manager of J. C. Penney Company here, gave before the Kiwanis club at its regular Monday night session at the Hotel Goldsboro last evening. Mr. Ross showed how important in the life of every wide-awake city is the Chamber of Commerce, and he showed just how dependent the Chamber of Commerce is on the wholehearted support of the business men of the city. He listed the accomplishments of the local organization for Goldsboro last year and told what the program is for this year. Attendance prizes were awarded to Dr. Hollingsworth and to Rev. A. J. Smith.

SINCLAIR MUST SERVE 3 MONTHS

Supreme Court Rules His Only Hope Now Is For Pardon

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—The Supreme court ruled today that Harry F. Sinclair, unless pardoned, must serve three months in jail for refusal to answer questions before the Senate Teapot Dome committee. Sinclair had appealed from a recent decision of the court which upheld the sentence of three months in jail imposed upon him, but the highest court today refused to consider that opinion. Sinclair's sentence calls for him to serve the sentence in a "common jail." It had been expected that he would be committed to the District of Columbia jail here, although there has been some speculation as to whether he might be sent to the workhouse, a few miles from Washington. The driver of the bus immediately stopped his vehicle, and with the aid of passengers placed the injured people inside. They were brought here to the Goldsboro hospital. Wooten died about two hours after reaching the hospital. Death was said to have resulted from internal injuries. The dead man is survived by a wife and several children. The funeral will be held from a local undertaking establishment Wednesday, and interment will be made in Elmwood cemetery. No charges have as yet been preferred against the bus driver. It was learned last evening.

Floyd Wooten, LaGrange Negro, Died at Local Hospital 2 Hrs. After Wreck

BERRY PICKERS WERE RETURNING TO HOMES

S. W. Johnson, Driver of Truck, Is in Hospital Here With Serious Hurts

Floyd Wooten, 27-year-old LaGrange negro, is dead, and three other persons, one white and two negroes, are in the Goldsboro hospital with serious injuries sustained in a bus-truck accident which occurred on the Goldsboro-Wilmington highway about half way between Faison and Bowden Sunday morning about 6:45 o'clock.

S. W. Johnson, white man, of Magnolia, Essie Loftin, 11-year-old LaGrange negro girl, and Tiny Hagaman, negro, also of LaGrange, are in the local hospital, where they were brought Sunday morning about 7:30 o'clock by the Wilmington-Goldsboro bus.

According to reports, Johnson, said to have been the driver of the truck struck by the bus, was the most seriously injured of the three. He has several broken ribs, and possible internal injuries. The little negro girl and the negro man were also seriously cut and bruised. Lucy Quinn, white man, of Rose Hill, sustained physical cuts and bruises, but he was able to leave the hospital yesterday morning.

According to information received here yesterday, Johnson and Quinn were bringing some strawberry pickers back from the Wallace section, to their homes in LaGrange. The truck, with the negroes in the back, was about three miles south of Faison when the bus, headed toward Goldsboro, came up behind. The driver of the bus, whose name could not be learned last evening, was forced to slow down to wait until a car going in the opposite direction, had passed.

As soon as this car went by, according to the reports, the bus driver started to swing out and go past the truck. The truck driver either turned over to the middle of the road about this time or the bus driver made his turn while too near the rear end of the truck. The front of the bus struck the rear end of the truck a glancing blow, knocking it off the highway, and over a slight embankment. Reports received here were to the effect that the truck turned over two or three times.

The driver of the bus immediately stopped his vehicle, and with the aid of passengers placed the injured people inside. They were brought here to the Goldsboro hospital. Wooten died about two hours after reaching the hospital. Death was said to have resulted from internal injuries.

The dead man is survived by a wife and several children. The funeral will be held from a local undertaking establishment Wednesday, and interment will be made in Elmwood cemetery.

No charges have as yet been preferred against the bus driver. It was learned last evening.

DISARMAMENT HOPE REVIVES

Geneva Conference Accepts in Principle Proposal of Mr. Gibson

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—New hope for a settlement of the naval disarmament question was indicated tonight by the reception accorded the statement of Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson before the preparatory disarmament commission at Geneva.

The American acceptance in principle of the French thesis came as somewhat of a "surprise" in foreign diplomatic circles but the general opinion was that the policy announced at Geneva would be extremely helpful to the commission.
