

SENATE PASSES DEBENTURE PLAN FARM AID BILL

Fight Between Senate And House Anticipated As To Measures Pending

Debtore Plan Passed When Independent Republicans Join Democrats

EXPECT HOUSE LEADERS OPPOSE SENATE'S BILL

Whole Efforts at Agricultural Aid Now Jeopardized by Developments

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—A farm relief bill unacceptable to President Hoover because it contains the export debenture plan was passed today by the senate 54 to 33 after a full month's labor.

Both branches of Congress now have acted upon agricultural relief legislation but the greatest uncertainty surrounds its final enactment because of the sharp difference between the senate and the house on the debenture action. The president early in the session strongly objected to that method of farm relief.

The senate measure will be messaged tomorrow to the house where administration leaders are inclined to refuse the bill. They base this on contention that the senate had no right to initiate the debenture proposal, on the theory that it is revenue legislation and therefore constitutionally must originate in the house. Strong opposition to this opposition was expressed today in the senate and administration leaders have been working to prevent a deadlock.

The farm bill was passed in the senate largely by the same combination of Democrats and Republicans independent voters who voted for the debenture plan. Both Senator Simmons and Overman of North Carolina voted for it.

Most of the pending amendments to the senate bill were disposed of yesterday under the agreement limiting debate which went into effect at 3 o'clock, and little more than a vote on the measure itself, including the debenture section which has aroused the sharpest political dispute of the special session thus far, remained for today.

Republican leaders of the House, meanwhile, have decided to move for return of the Senate measure when it reaches their chamber on the ground that the debenture proposal is revenue legislation, which can be initiated only in the house. Their decision, rejecting requests of senate leaders that the measure be received by the house and submitted to a joint conference for settlement of differences, is regarded as precluding a constitutional controversy, possibly of considerable duration which will have to be settled before the task of bringing the bills passed by the two chambers into agreement can be started.

Senate leaders have clung to the hope that such a controversy could be avoided, but only a majority is required for the house to refuse to receive a senate bill and the Republican leaders of that chamber control, nominally at least 104 more votes than the Democrats, among whom the debenture advocates look for their strongest support.

Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader, has said that the Democrats would line up almost solidly in favor of the debenture plan if it was brought to a vote in the House, although many of them helped to swell the large majority by which the chamber, early in the special session, passed its measure without a debenture provision.

At that time, many Democrats in the house were inclined to favor inclusion of the debenture proposal in the tariff bill. Subsequently, senate debenture advocates have declared their intention of moving in that direction if the plan should—as administration leaders expect, be eliminated from the farm relief legislation which finally will be sent to President Hoover, whose opposition to the debenture plan made the senate dispute on that question an administration contest.

AGED NEGRO FOUND DEAD

Coroner Rules Death Is From Natural Causes and Does Not Hold Inquest

Oliver Woodard, 75-year-old Negro, was found dead at his home in Saulston township yesterday morning by neighbors who entered the home after the old man had not been seen since last Saturday. Coroner T. R. Robinson viewed the remains and decided that death was from natural causes and that an inquest was not necessary.

Saulston township citizens telephoned the office of Sheriff W. D. Grant and Deputy Sheriff John Kornegay and Coroner Robinson went to investigate the case. The old man was lying across his bed, face downward. He had taken off his shoes and placed them to one side when stricken with a fatal attack, it appeared.

Rats had eaten away a finger on the left hand to the bone.

Woodard had been seen last on Saturday when he aided in a tobacco-larn raising at a Negro by the name of Winston. He lived alone on the Jim Edmundson place in Saulston.

URGES FILING OF AIR MAIL BRIEF

Abernethy Wires The News City's Chances Depend on Action Taken

Goldsboro civic bodies should prepare a brief showing the need of this section for an air mail route and present this brief at a hearing in Washington on May 23. This is the advice of Congressman Charles L. Abernethy in a telegram to The News yesterday morning. Congressman Abernethy stated in the telegram that he thought Goldsboro's chances for a stop on a proposed Jacksonville-Richmond route were good.

"Have had an extended conference," the congressman wired The News, "this morning with second assistant postmaster general Glover relative to the establishment of air mail routes through the south and the possibilities of having one to come by Goldsboro. While there will be a general hearing here the twenty-third of the month on the establishment of new routes it is my judgment that a brief should be prepared by the chamber of commerce and other trade bodies, and to be sent on to me for filing with the department showing the reasons why Goldsboro should be on the route from Richmond, Virginia to Jacksonville, Florida."

"There will be such confusion at the hearing that I think we will fare better at this time by not sending a committee for the present.

"I am impressed with the idea that a new air mail route will be established sometime in the future from Richmond to Jacksonville and the chances of it being routed by way of Goldsboro will depend on the combined efforts and the showing which we can make. I was very much pleased with the result of my conference with Mr. Glover this morning."

250 STRIKERS ARE ARRESTED

Large Number Arrested Charged With Intimidation Then Are Freed

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., May 14.—(AP)—The more than 250 textile strikers, arrested today on charges of intimidation, were released shortly before noon after Ben Allen, county attorney general, had addressed them. They were freed without bond and Magistrate George Ryan said he did not know whether hearings would be held.

The strikers were arrested on charges of intimidation and were escorted to the courthouse square here by a company of National Guardsmen. They were not placed in jail as the jail is too small to hold that number.

There was a noisy demonstration from those under arrest as the procession wended its way to the square from the Stoney Creek highway, where the arrests were made.

At one point along the line of march some of those in custody declared their intention of proceeding to Elizabethton unguarded. One car started off but halted when Bill Fair, a guard at one of the textile mills, leveled a gun at the driver and a squad of guardsmen with fixed bayonets blocked the roads.

More than 5,500 persons went on strike here a month ago, resulting in the closing of the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff rayon plants, which, however, announced May 6 that operations were being resumed gradually.

Fair arrested a crowd of strikers, charging they were blocking the road and prohibiting workers from Gap arrested filled five automobiles, two Creek from reaching the plants. Those bused and a truck.

Fair and the strikers were violating an injunction obtained by the textile plants some time ago. Pat Taylor, a deputy sheriff, claimed Taylor was not a commissioned peace officer and had no power to arrest any person off property.

SEEK MEMBERS FOR AUXILIARY

Details of Campaign to Be Given at Legion Meeting Thursday Evening

Opening of a two weeks campaign for additional members of the American Legion Auxiliary was announced here last night. "Before the end of the two weeks, The News was told "We hope to have on the membership rolls the name of every Goldsboro and Wayne county woman who is eligible. The Auxiliary is doing an important work in conjunction with the Legion and it deserves the undivided support of everyone."

Details of the Auxiliary membership campaign will be given in full at a meeting of the American Legion at the Memorial Community Building Thursday evening at 6:30. The Legion will be host to all wives and sweethearts of Legionnaires and to Auxiliary members at a barbecue upon this occasion.

This will be the last meeting of the local post during the summer, the next meeting to be held in September. Officers are accordingly making an effort to have a large attendance for the occasion.

Discussion of the importance of adding to the membership of the Auxiliary will be one of the main topics at the meeting. A history of the Wayne Post will be given by Hugh Dorchel, past commandant of the post.

Strike Grievances Reach Senate

Binnie Green, 14 (left) and Henry Tetherow, 17, undernourished mill hands, carried their grievances into the Senate, telling tales of 60 hours per week in the textile mills at Gastonia, N. C., for which Henry earned a princely salary of $7 a week and Binnie about $4.95. As a result the Senate is conducting an inquiry into the conditions complained of.

Montgomery-Ward Company Head on Visit "Back Home"

An old iron wagon and an old iron yoke, made especially for his old blind mule by the father of George Everett, president of the Montgomery-Ward and company, will be taken back north by Mr. and Mrs. Everett when they return to their home in Chicago after a tour through several southern states. Mr. Everett told The News yesterday. The chain department store head arrived in Goldsboro Monday evening, accompanied by his wife, and spent yesterday looking over the local store, seeing friends, and journeying out to the site of old Everettsville with Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Smith, Everettsville used to be located on both sides of the present Atlantic Coast Line track which runs behind Peacherina Farm, six miles south of here. The settlement was named after George Everett's ancestors, his grandfather having been one of the first settlers in that section.

Mr. Everett told The News that he was going to use the axle, the yoke, and an old cart wheel he also found on the site of Everettsville in the construction of some original electric fixtures he is going to install in a $100,000 mansion now under construction on an eight acre estate.

"My father made that iron yoke for his old blind mule because wooden yokes just wouldn't last. The mule would run against a fence or something else and break a wooden yoke to pieces," Mr. Everett said. The old relics, which were made in the home blacksmith shop, were said to be in an excellent state of preservation.

Mr. Everett has been in Goldsboro on two other occasions when relatives in the Everettsville section died. On each former visit Mr. and Mrs. Everett were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Smith on South William street. Mr. Smith was a neighbor of Everett's father when the latter lived in the old house on South William street now occupied by Mrs. Hattie Criser, and was well acquainted with the father of the president of the Montgomery-Ward company.

When asked by The News representative what he thought of Goldsboro now as compared with the last time he was here, Mr. Everett said, "well, I think the town has improved a lot ever since I was here last and that hasn't been so very long ago. I'm going to try to get back more often now, and I hope the next time I'll be here."

There wasn't room for all of those who wanted to see the cute little folks of Virginia street school present their "A Gift for Rosalys" last night and so many had to be turned away. The Virginia street children had just such a musical play as delights the hearts of the little folks and they did their parts to perfection while happy parents and kinfolk by the hundreds looked on, admiring. The story they enacted is that of a little grad who is homeless because her tree has been cut down. This causes a great deal of worry among the fairies because only mortals can plant trees and unless another tree is planted in three days, Rosalys will die. The Sandman and two little children who have come to see the fairies dance came to the rescue and everyone is happy again.

The play last night was the second in the city schools in the observance of music week under the direction of W. L. Frederick. The children of Walnut street school will present an operetta "A Toy Pageant" at the Walnut street school this evening at 8, beginning promptly at 8. The program is as follows: Cast of Characters and Songs (Scene One—Wanda's Nursery) Estania, Fairy Queen—Yvette Turbenton. Wanda—Frances Velterton. (Scene Two) Humpty Dumpty—Nurse Dolls. A Little Rutch Garden—William Dees, Ann Stappa, Ann Morgan. Drill—Tin Soldiers. Wraggle Taggle Gypsies—Marjorie Selby, Jeanette Carter, Louise Harrington. Coming Through the Rye—Mary Simmons, Elizabeth Nail and Evelyn O'Brien. The Ferry—Eleanor McCrea, Gracie Bartlett. Sailor Life—Sailors. Humpty Dumpty—Addison Hawley. Pochabontas—Evelyn Dillon. Quaker Lady—Mary Jane Smith. Japanese—Jean Edgerton. Gold Dust Twins—Royal Spence, James Heyward. (Continued on page 7)

Late Saturday he was admitted to the hospital, but efforts to give him relief were unsuccessful and he died at 5:30 Monday morning.

HAVE NO CLUES AS TO ROBBERY

Jewelry and Cash Stolen From Home of Charles B. Miller Monday Night

No clues leading to the identity of the thief or thieves who entered the home of Charles B. Miller on West Walnut street here Monday night and stole a quantity of jewelry and $10 in cash, had not been discovered by local officers last evening. Police are said to believe, however, that the same party who entered the Miller home, also entered the home of Col. George K. Freeman in Edgewood Sunday night, escaping with a pocketbook containing a small amount of money.

A gold brooch, set with a small diamond, a diamond ring, a stick pin, jewelry case, several pins, and the $10 in cash were taken from a dresser in a downstairs bedroom at the Miller residence. Mr. and Mrs. Miller returned home late Monday night and found the window to this room open. It was thought by police that the thieves gained entrance through this window.

Both the robbery at Col. Freeman's and Mr. Miller's were believed to have occurred early in the night, probably a short time after the members of the households had gone out for the evening.

Plainclothesman "Chink" Rhodes is conducting the investigations of both cases.

In Berlin, Professor Arthur Wolf Meyer, the surgeon who performed the operation, was asked when he arrived from Italy if the former champion's wife was definitely out of danger.

"Well rather!" he said, "otherwise no power on earth would have induced me to leave Brioni."

Greets He Is Unable to Speak At Industrial And Automobile Show Week

GOLDSBORO DELEGATION VISITS HIM IN OFFICE

Previous Engagements Prevent His Accepting Invitation for Auto Show

"I am sorry that I have previous engagements which will prevent me accepting an invitation to the Industrial Exposition, but if you Wayne county folks will get busy and schedule an old fashioned picnic, stage an agricultural day and invite all the farmers from your Congressional district to join with you in the occasion, I shall be glad to come in the fall."

Thus spoke Governor O. Max Gardner in his office at the capitol, Raleigh, yesterday to a delegation of Goldsboro men who had sought him for an address in connection with the industrial and automobile show the week of May 27.

"I am going up to Washington on the 26th, with Josephus Daniels and a number of others to invite President Hoover to make a home coming address here in connection with the State Fair this fall," continued the governor.

"Then I am going to double right back to Shelby where I am to deliver the commencement addresses at two schools. One a consolidated school on the afternoon of the 28th, and then at night at the Shelby high school. My boy is president of his class at Shelby and I have had it on the books for a long time to be present to see him graduate. I shall have to spend several days at Shelby."

"I am sorry that my engagements prevent me from accepting your invitation. But I consider that in my function as governor I can be of more service in the fall. It wouldn't do any good for me to talk to farmers about their program now. They have already started their work for this year," and here the governor paused, stepped across the room to flip his cigarette into the fireplace. "I would like to talk to them this fall when they are looking ahead to the next year, and present the agricultural problem as I see it. Then their minds would be in a more receptive mood and what I might say would stand a better chance of doing some good."

"I should be glad to come in the fall if you would invite the farmers of several adjoining counties, say of your congressional district, to join in an old fashioned picnic and agricultural day."

"Well, we shall look for you in the fall, Governor" declared a member of the committee as the group took its leave.

The invitation to visit the Industrial Show here the week of May 27 had been extended by W. F. Taylor on behalf of the Wayne County Fair Association.

State Treasurer Nathan O'Berry had made an appointment with Mr. Gardner for the delegation and presented the Goldsboro men to him. They included: A. T. Griffin, E. J. Jeffers, M. Ross, Admiral Sherard, W. W. Andrews, W. C. Denmark, Mr. Taylor and Henry Bok.
