Senator Norris at Once Carries His Resolution Before The Senate

SENATE APPROVES BILL TO RE-APPORTION HOUSE

Signs of Breaking of Deadlock Between House and Senate on Farm Relief

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—

Sanction by President Hoover of the proposed congressional recess for the summer hinges upon the prior enactment of the farm relief bill and an agreement fixing a definite date in the fall for a vote in the senate on the tariff measure.

The president's position became known today after Senators Jones of Washington, the assistant Republican leader and Borah of Idaho, had called at the White House to present their views against any recess until the work for which the special session was called had been completed.

With signs of a breaking in the deadlock between the senate and the house on farm relief and word from Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee that at least two months will be required by the committee to get the tariff bill ready for the senate, Senator Watson of Indiana, republican leader, tonight went ahead with his plans for an all summer recess.

Senator Watson agreed with the White House stand for enactment of farm relief before the vacation and for the fixing of a definite date for a vote in the senate on the tariff bill. He would insist that recess hinge also upon an agreement for a vote in the senate on the report adjusting differences between the senate and house on the tariff before the opening of the regular session in December.

By unanimous vote, the senate agricultural committee recommended to the senate the re-enactment of the Norris resolution for government operation at the Muscle Shoals property in Alabama.

The report on this resolution was carried at once to the senate by its author, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, who said he did not believe the legislation could be enacted before the summer recess but that he would take advantage of any opportunity to have this done.

Automatic reapportionment of the house of representatives on the basis of a census every 10 years, was passed by the senate today 57 to 26 and sent to the house.

A similar proposal which has stirred up nearly 10 years of controversy between states likely to lose and those likely to gain representation was approved by the house last session and final enactment of the measure has been decided on before the summer recess.

The bill which had administration approval would direct the president to submit to congress in December two sets of computations showing the number of representatives each state would be entitled to on the basis of the new census both the system known as equal proportion and that known as major fractions.

CIVIL SUITS ARE STARTED

Complaints Filed Yesterday Seek Judgment for $10,000 Each in 2 Cases

Damage totaling $20,000 is asked in two civil actions filed yesterday in the office of Clerk of Court J. B. Hooks. Jessie Artis, negro, seeks $10,000 against the Earley Clothing Company and P. A. Watson seeks damage of $10,000 against the Mavis Bottling company.

Complaint filed by Artis alleges that Ernest Padgett and Albert Poplin, agents for Farley Clothing company, came to his home to collect for a cap; that they entered his yard went to the side of the house where he was "washing" some clothes. Having demanded payment for the cap and failing to get their money, complaint asserts, they asked the return of the cap. Artis' complaint alleges he told them he would not return it until an officer of the law ordered him to do so. Poplin then grabbed the cap, complaint alleges, and as Artis turned toward him, Padgett is said to have seized an axe and knocked him down. Artis' complaint states that he was struck twice with the axe as he lay on the ground.

The blows have injured the plaintiff's hearing and caused him to suffer great pain in the head; pain that keeps him from sleep at night, it is alleged. The suit demands $5,000 actual damage and $5,000 punitive damage.

Watson in his suit against the Mavis Company alleges that while driving a truck for the company on July 11, 1928 the steering gear on the machine went bad and caused it to run into a ditch by the road, overturning and pinning him beneath it. He sustained a broken bone in the back and permanent injuries, complaint alleges. Damage of $10,000 is demanded, claiming negligence on the part of the company in not providing a safe means of conveyance.
