REFINITION LINAL ANALYSE

It takes an acute mind to discern and expound the intrinscies of the law. The lass which divides the lawful from the unlawful is often hard to see and barder to show. But as exos of the rednements of ultimate pal analysis there were two or three as handed down last week by an own Supreme Court which will never fairly well. In the first case Chief Justice Fair-both explains how it is that a boy between the ages of 7 and 14 and able to discern right and wrong may violate the law against gambling without be-ing guilty of such violation. Here is

STATE AID TO REGREE EDUCATION

As North Carolins has just been through an exciting campaign on State aid to institutions of higher learning and is likely to have some more of the same sort of sgitation, it is interesting to note the disposition made of the issue by the South Care liua Constitutional Convention now in

After a debate of two days and one light that body reached last Monday night a vote on an amendment to strike out the provision making the apport of the higher educational institutions mandatory upon the Legisla ture. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 65 to 49. The section as amouded says the Legislature "may" [not "shall"] make appropriations to the support of these institu-

It is a step in the line of progress, it s democratic. The State has a right to provide the necessities of education for all its citizens, that is self defense; it has no right to provide for any beyond the point up to which it can provide for all, that would be favoritism. On this subject the Greenville, S. C., News, a conservative paper and editorially a romarkably wise and safe one, says: "For our part, we would have been willing to leave the entire higher edu-cational system of the State to denom-inational and private enterprise. We have never believed the State has the right to undertake to give some of her eithens collegists and university edu-cations. The public colleges and oni-versities are relice of times and condi-tions which have goue by. There is no place or need or excuse for them now, in thus country. The State may and should put the educational nonemities within the reach of every child, but it is no part of the State's functions or daties to bestow educational inxuries. When educational opportunities were seanty men meded to train political, legislative and theological thinkers and isaders. Now the world is one hoge school house. The best thought and the ripest learning of all the ages are within the reach of stil classes of seen and women. The public schools are raising their standards higher and en-croaching upon the domain of the light institutions more and more every year. Through the public ebools we are building higher educa-tion which is put within the reach of everybody, and we should concentrate our force on them."

Speaking of the character and value of the education provided by the denominational institutions of that State, the same paper continues: "The demonstrational institutions have done wouderful work while there were no othere to do it and in the face of the most discouraging circumstances.

Charlotte Ubserver, 58h. LONDON, Nov. 19.—The latest ad-vices received from the representative of the United From in Constantinople says that the Sultan continues to be greatly alarmed over the state of af-fairs in Asia Minor, which has unques-tionably reached a point beyond his control. He spent the entire night of November 16th by the side of a tele-graph instrument in the Yildiz Palace, personally distabilize to the operator dispatches couveying instructions to the various provincing greents in Asia Minor, commanding them to spare no effort to restore order, and has anxiety to escape from the toils in which he has involved himself has within the last few days been displayed in many other ways. The lack of troops with which to suppress Kurdish outbreaks and so resuppress Kurdish bustishums of the Kurd as to guarantee order in the future in being greatly fut and the Ports may yet be conoutbreaks and so restrain the blood-thirstiness of the Kurd as to guarantee order in the future is being greatly fait and the Ports may yet be com-pelled to admit its total inshility to restore affairs in Anis Minor to the condition demanded by the powers. Further details of the recent massa-event at Kharput have been received in Constantinopie, showing that the Kurds first made an stack upon one part of the town and were repulsed by the Armenians. Infuristed at this they proceeded in a body to the Amer-ican mission quarter, where they ran-socked houses and set fire to theor, then bursed buildings including eight belonging to the ulssion itself. The Kurds were supported in their attack by the Turkish troops, who should have preserved acter. Instead of no dolme, or even attempting to do so, the troops were in the thick of the pillage and bloodshed. It is as to say upos the strength of the advisors received, that almost, if not quits, as many Armenians were killed by Turks as by the Kurds.

Carpentor's Store, Cherryville, Hoyis's Store King's Mountain Baker's Mill, Bessemer City, Pattersun School House, Crowder's Ureek, Gastonia Union Armenians were silled by Turks as by the Kurds. The authorities succeeded in protect-ing the missionaries, who took refuge in places of safety, but were powerless, even if they had the desire, to protect the other Christians. The massacre took place on Novem-ber 16. The Kardish raiders report neves many folged by the Turkish sol-Union Gullick's Store, Bethesds Courch, Wilson's Factory McAdenville Belmont, the other Christians. The massmore took place on November 16. The Kurdish raiders report says, were joined by the Turkish sol-diers, who assisted them throughout the massacre. They were more aggree-sive in many cases than the Kurds themselven. Besides joining in the seeking of the houses they did the greater part of the firing upon Amer-ican buildings, being armed with superior wenpoos. A shell was thrown into the house occupied by Dr. N. H. Barnum, of Leicester, Mass., with his family, where it exploded, but fortu-nately none of the household was burt. The raiders and their military allies showed special makes towards foreign-ers. No accurate estimate of the nam-ber of Christians killed is possible, but it is known that hundreds. If not thousands, of them were singhtered throughout the Vilayet. The value of the missionary property destroyed was probably $100,000. The American missions are being amply protected now and United States Minister Ter-rell has obtained from the Porte an order for the stationing of a guard around every bouse occupied by Amer-itenna, as well as a guard for the in-terior of each building. A Canadian missionary named Mar-tin was terribly battan and afterwards imprisoned at Fekkeh, near Padjin, where he was detained 16 hours before he was released.

Tuckase Abernethy's Store, Mountain Island, Stanley Creek, Hardin Factory,
