UP-TO-DATE BAB.

TO BE FASHIONABLE WE MUST BE OPTIMISTS, SAYS SHE.

The I'm de Sicele Girl In Out of Bat Now.-Mer Poor Little Bout Disinebed -The Girl of To-Morrow Must Be More Natural-Women so Truth-Tellors.

8t. Louis Republic.

st. Look Republic.

If you want to be fashions ble just now, you must be an optimist. Everything that we connect with the word fin de siecle is out of form, anybody who is anybody says that one is vingtieme siecle. You wouldn't think the change in words would make so much difference, but it does. The fin de siecle girl was given ever to many bad habits—cigarette smoking, lolling about in tea gowns and darkered rooms, mooning over erotic poets or analytical novels, and, in fact, belonging to the subool of Aubrey Beandeley, who is eleverly enough making money at fooling the world. And up to its bent. Hy the bye, Mr. Beardsley has just added to his fame—is it fame or notoriety?—by painting a picture of the "Virgin and Child," and his conception of the Holy Mother shows her in a hooped gown of red velvet, looped with pink roses. And Loudon laughs, but still it buys his books. He has just announced that the woman who is most exquisitely shaped, or as he puts it, "divinely tall," should measure from the hip to the bend of the knee 22 inches, and from the knee to the beel 22 inches. Carriosity led me to measfrom the hip to the bend of the knee 22 luches, and from the knee to the beel 22 luches. Curiosity led me to measure a friend who is of medium height, with the result that she measured from the hip to the bend of the knee 23 inches, and from the bend of the knee 23 inches, and from the bend of the knee to the heel 18 inches, Mr. Boardsley's measurements probably cause him to to so immensely off in his drawings. About his color, I can say nothing, but I should think he needed to be treated as the Howling Swell said his uncle was, that is, "You see, dear hoy, he did not know red from black, but he went to a Johnny doctor paid his fee, and now he can see as well as anybody." That is what is needed for the Beardsley school—to go to a Johnny doctor and get its useing apparatus straightened so that their women will not look like round bathtuts put on clothes poles and bathtules put on clothes poles and topped with a tea cup and saucer.

BACK TO THE GIRLS, But to return to the girls. The fin de siecle girl liked to talk about death, about its juys, about the painful pleasures of life, and she changed her religion quite as often as she did her washerwoman, in her efforts to get one fitted to her poor little soul. Such a miserable little soul! It has been miserable little soul! It has been haggled over, put out on exhibition, its possibilities discussed by long-haired men and short-haired women until, absolutely, I doubt its being worth dedicating to anything. All the women who knew nothing talked about the delights of the unknown. And all the wise women stood off and wondered if, when Congress was over, the fool-killer would come around. But we have changed all that. The girl that is vingtleme sleele must, first of all be natural. She eats well, she enjoys herself heartily, and she finds an immense pleasure in telling the truth. Sometimes she embarrases you with her great truthfulness. She is rich in opinious about bonnets, about books opinious about bonnets, about books opinions about bonnets, about books about bables about pictures and about her soul were going from her and especially fond of an about pour age. She patronizes the youth of 20 whose father has allowed ize that it is silk: If she raises one arm to the state of the same about provided in the same about pour about the same about pour about the same about pictures and about p him to go out alone in his first dress clothes, by saying to him: "Now, my dear boy, I am ages older than yon—I am quite 28—old enough to be your mother. Let me introduce you to that nice little blonde, Miss (fiddy, who is just 17, and you two lovely young things can have a beautiful time together," That wasn't what he came for. Under his breath he wishes that Giddy girl was in heaven, and he tells Miss Theodora Truth that he would much as they were presented by Miss Davenport with a better company, better clothes and a decidedly better stage exting than any French company ever gave, but don't buy even an adnice little blonde, Miss (fiddy, who is just 17, and you two lovely young things can have a beautiful time together," That wasn't what he came for. Under his breath he wishes that Giddy girl was in heaven, and he tells Miss Theodora Truth that he would mach rather stay with her. Of course she expected this, but still, when he has acted like a goose and proposed to her, she is able to say to the woman of family: "I never tried to get him; I told him that I was older than he was; I have tried to get him; I told him that I was older than he was; I said I could be a mother, but not a sweetheart, to him, and I offered to introduce him to no end of pretty girls. But he would hang about me."

THE WAY OF IT.

THE WAY OF IT.
She of the vingtieme steele may tell the truth, but the truth, dressed or in its nudity, it as dangerous to handle as nitroglycerine. What is the consequence? You plok up your morning paper, and say: "Grackous goodness! Paul Smith, that hoy of Kitty's has married one of those Furneco girls. Why, she is at least 10 years older than he is."

The answer, a little languidly moken

The answer, a little languidly spoken is: "Oh, may dear, it is getting to be such an old story for men to marry women older than they are. The son of the richest man in the world is desperately in love with a young lady who, if we used the horrid old terms we used to, would be called an old maid, and I don't think be is 21. thate, and I don't think he is another the famous divorces married a man younger than berself by something like eight years, and, personally. I think that the idea has gotten into the heads of the Johnnies that they can save themselves time and money by marrying the woman who has had the experience which is unknown to them, and who would, in view of their them, and who would, in view of their youth, be less selfish than a young girl, and so would make the men's happiness the first consideration." I listened with a bit of surprise, because I had not credited the Johnnis with so much brains, but is it a rabbit, or which small beast, that has almost we much brain as a man? If the girl of the wingtisms siegle is writing a book, and, of course the makes some mintakes, it is on the subject of "How to Enjoy Yourself Twenty-three Hours Out of the Twenty-ture Hours Out of the Twenty-ture Hours has been led astray and induced to write a play that will cause the our-tain to go up at least once you can be pretty certain that the story involved is one of true love, and all the people in it are good and are having a good

The villain is never anything worse than the coek; but then a had cook is a villain, whose ways are secret and a villain, whose ways are secret and intenses.

Just at present the girl of the Twentieth Century is saying to herself.

"Why should I spend my dollars, good American dollars, earned by a jolly, good, generous American man, on an Italian woman who says she despises this? Oh, my dear girl I do hope you and every other woman in this country will say to yourself.

"Not a dollar shall that woman get from ma." It is an insult, you know, to our brains, for an actress to say "I despise America." (By the bys. she did not say it to me, but she is quoted by the best newspapers as having said it.) If her hatred for America is so intense, she had better extend her dislike to American dollars and remain in Italy where she will probably find greater appreciation, but where she will certainly make less money. Have a bit of courage and tell the truth. Unless you understand French or Italian very well, what is the use of paying $3 or $3.50 to listen to a weman talk in a tongue unknown to you? Take the ease of Barah Bernhardt. The papers can write all they want about her retaining her good looks, She does look better, but—it is heccuse she is fat. She objected always to stays, and the result is that when she wears a frock that sta her like a glove she manages to achieve a series of curves that may be feminine and are elderly, but they are certainly not beautiful. We are greatly given to talking what I call the tourny rot of the day. That is alang, I know, but some alang is classical.

I would be willing to bet that three-quarters of the andience who go to see Sarah or Duse do not understand one word either of them say. Mme. Bernhardt apeaks beautiful French, but she anaaks very renidly and one ther to the see and contents to the search of the sand apeaks the sautiful French, but she anaaks very renidly. Just at present the girl of the Tweecharacters the ancience who go to see Sarah or Duse do not understand one word either of them say. Mme. Bernhardt speaks beautiful French, but she speaks very rapidly, and one has to listen keenly to get each word and the full value of each word. I consider her a great actress, but—simply because Mra. Milliouaire, who belongs to two or three French classes, and who likes to make you think she is a fine linguist, pays her money and goes and laughs or celes at the proper points, why should you take your three and trot to a matines simply because it is done by her. Possibly you know the story because you saw Fanny Davenport play it, or else because you have heard Calve sing it, and then you talk about the perfect emotion of Bernhardt or Duse, and how one did not need to understand the words, their art and their soulfulness making the story intelligible! Bosh! Or, perhaps you have a smattering of the leasures. their south mess making the story in-telligible? Bosh? Or, perhaps you have a smattering of the language. In that case you weep or laugh when it is desirable, and you tell your friends how sorry you feel for them in their ignor-

SOME MORE CURRENT NONSENSE.

This nonesense about the art and the This nonesense about the art and the soul telling the is another bit of tommy rot. With a picture it is different. It tells one episode in a life, not the story of a lifetime. How in the mischlef are you to know whether the curl on a Frenchman's forehead means that he Frenchman's forehead means that he is in the depths of despair, or that he is joyful because he is going to run away with his friend's wife that night? When Sarah rustles her petticoats you listen to the fron-fron, and say:

"Oh, it is so Intense, it seems as if her soul were going from her and escaping to another and a better world."

Whereas she shakes it so you may realize that it is silk: If she raises one arm in the sir and droops her head you whisper that that is concealed love! And then if she folds har arms, you ever gave, but don't buy even an admission ticket to see Duse. Give her a chance to appreciate what America can do when a woman insults it by pronouncing her dislike publicly.

AN OPINION OF DUBE.

Perhaps my ophtion in regard to Duse and her acting is worthless, but I give my word, dreadful as it sounds, I should have had a much better time if I had spent that afternoon with "Chimmie Eadden," and I would have been in a dollar and a half. I amperfectly willing to soknowledge her areatness. If I will please anybody greatness, if it will please anybody, but she is dreadfully thresome, and though the critics are given to talking about her concealed emotion and great sorrow, she looks to me as if her liver were not quite right, and I could not be the condense of the liver were not quite right, and I could not were not quite right, and i could not but wonder what early spring medicine would be adapted to her; and whether since she goes in so strongly for realism it would be proper to send her a bottle of "Douter Diukey"s Driveiling Drink," instead of roses. Flowers fade, but the liver and its medicines are always with her. Bottler I let's he truthful and seek in the theater what we coloy and what we understand. I want an evening that makes me feel, when I get home, as if I had hed a good time, and not one where I have to strain ears and eyes to catch a little of the strange language, and grow weary during the language, and grow weary during the long waits. There are plenty people who will say, "Bab is stupid, we un-derstand French." All right; go to

she puts them on. I am told by people interested in missionary work that with one church collection went a book on physical culture to the missionary, so that to gain a convert, after reading this book, the giving of a pair of stays, which had been general, was no longer in vogue. For the last four years when a missionary was shy on souls he presented a pair of corsets to a lady from the happy land of Ma-ha-to-la-ni, after she amounced her willingness to join the sect he represented; she lastantly retired to assume the stays, which she put on over the "allogather," but during the assumption she required two of the strongest warriors in camp to pull the strings. I have always longed for a picture of the simple soul, yearning for civilization as expressed by stays, when she paraded the escap with a warrior on each side of her, the stays encircling her person, a hymn book in her hand and an apoplectic color in her face. Now, the gentle missionary offers powder and roage. The beathen lady reads the book on culture, at least some of the missionary family read it to her, and she declines to give her soul for a pair of stays, remarking, "No take stays; no she to wriggis!" But she cagerly grasps the powder and rouge, and looks almost as well as does the fashionable girl who contributed to the collection, and who puts her faith in missionaires and make-ups.

WOMAN'S SPECIAL MERDS.

puts her faith in mimionaires

A woman needs a lot of things be-sides those in the bottles and buxes on her dressing case. At this present period, when the openings are to the fore, she is certain that she needs a new bonnet.

She always needs a bunch of violets, a box of sweets, and all the agreeable things that the brain of man can inwent and the tongue of man can speak.
She needs information about the Monroe doctrine; she thinks it has something to do with baptism by immersion or sprinkling, and she also needs to know why, when messenger service is cheaper than it used to be, orris powder is just as expensive.

She needs to learn to amile and caress and even to kiss, when tired man doesn't remember that dressmakers want their bills settled within month.

She needs to be a little bit more care

She needs to be a little bit more careful about the things she says: the tongue is a divine organ, but the devil often plays upon it.

She needs to improve her mauners, to lower her voice, to laugh rather than to siggle, sud to learn to speak English undefied.

She needs to do so many things, poor soul, and she wants so many things. But I think she will get them show she is a woman, and an American.

But I think she will get them sluce she is a woman, and an Americau. I tell you that is something to be proud of, for even in the Morth Polethere is a society that has for its leader an American woman. And, go where you will, she has been before you. Sometimes she is too rapid a walker—she arrives too soun. The thing to learn, after all, is the value of medicerity—perhaps you think that has been achieved by

Br. Hott as a Husteian.

I had quite a chat yesterday with Da I had quite a chat yesterday with Dr. Mott in his new apartments in the Corcoran building. Among other things, Dr. Mott has been at work on a campaign song. He composed the chorus himself, and sang it to me yesterday. It is as follows:

"Sign-Sign-Sign the Pledge!

I had no idea the doctor was a musician. He said the air and words came to him all "at once." He somehow struck up with another musical genius uamed Sykes, who told him he could back up that chorus with fitting stanzas and music. Sykes came in yesterday with his score, and sang his part—the doctor winding up with the chorus. Sykes and the doctor are now busy fusing the chorus tune and Syke's tune, and when they trot well in harness together the doctor says he is going to send Sykes down to North Carolina to thrill the Tarheels all over the State. all over the State.

Three Hours in Jail and $500 Fine for Killing a Boy.

Washington Dispatch, 25th.

Miss Blizabeth M. Flagler, daughter of General D. W. Flagler, Chief of Ordnance, U. S. A., pleaded guilty to involuntary manufaughter in the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia to-day and was sentenced to a fine of $600 and three hours imprisonment in the district jail.

and and three hours imprisonment in the district jail.

On August 2d, Miss Fingler, who was in charge of her father's suburban residence, fired a small revolver at a small colored boy named Earnest Green, who, she thought, was stealing fruit from her father's trees. Miss Fingler has always contended that her intention was to fire in the air, simply to frighten the boy. The moment she discovered that he had heen wounded, she had him brought into the house, but he died before a physician could be secured. The young lady at once went to police headquarters, where she sucrendered and was released on bail.

Sometimes the most careful women are the most excitent. Many a women benedies hurself up to heavy our sickness—when she is hegicoting the very worst sickness—when she he he had not been our sides a surprise of the care course to a worsen, She allows a slight disease; that can course to a worsen, She allows a slight indicater to become worse, to slowly say her vitality. The little pain and the other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She goes on, with locasing suffering, until Re incompany of the seems of the forest process a drag, Rorvossmens, "slothry specific," (Ignative debarsha sees, seed litty other compliancions may acise from the derman seminary for the organis distinctly resisting. Over there years ago, the meet fire a reliable remedy five co-solied general sections of the organis complaints was recognised by Be. I., Ploron, than, as now other consulting physician as the World's Management years law, the recognition of the completion of the completion of the completion of the completion of the property of the section of the completion, the section used for recognition the most worldwide discrete proceedy the heat organism that the property is and the completion of the com

The Courts office for neet job per

MEN OF THE DAY.

The Great Rentneky quariet—Carliele Watterson, Blackbury, and McCroney. Congressman Champ Clark in St. Louis Re-public.

public.

"I don't believe that a man ever gets over being a Kantsokian. I have lived in Missouri 20 years, and I think that aren my enemies will admit that I am groud of this imperial Common-wealth and never lose an opportunity to sound her praises. Movertheless, I confess that I never think of the Kantucky bills without a stuttering in the cardiae region. ardiae region.
It is seldom indeed that the member

It is seldom indeed that the members of one party in any Legislature have the privilege of voting for four such men for United States Sensior as John G. Carlisle, Henry Watterson, Joseph C. B. Binckturn and James Bennett McCreary—all possessed of national renown and all worthy of it.

The pity of the struction is that one Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter stands as a lion across their pathway to the Senate Chamber.

Within the confines of the Bepublic it would be difficult to find four men more unlike.

No matter what one's opinion is on sliver, if he is candid is must admit that Carlisle has one of the meet brains in America. How he ever obtained such a hold on the Kentockians is an unsolved mystery, which I cheerfully commend to the consideration of psychologists. Kentuckians are the content of the continual people on the continuant, while Carlisle is cold, of crystalline intellect, without emotion himself and without power of appealing to the emotional in others.

In this regard he differs radically from every other great Kentuckian, living or dead. From the day of Manatter John Breckinnings—the first of his line—down to the present time, Keotacky orators have played on that which harp, the human heart, with master hands.

That Carlisle has great induces in the Dark and Bloody Ground—however inscribable in the great time.

That Carlisle has graat influence in the Dark and Bloody Ground—however inexplicable it may be—must be gran led. Joe Blackburn and Wat Hardin were having it all their own way last summer, when the Becretary of the Treesury shied his castor into the ring—and the world knows the results.

Henry Watterson is one of the most brilliant men that ever lived, and, like another great editor. Horses Greely, served 90 days in Congress. I doubt whether he would accept the senatorship if elected, and yet some members persist in voting for him. He is about to bury himself in Voltaire's old retreat at Geneva, Switzsrland, to incubate a biography of Abraham Lincoln which will rival in interest Buswell's "Life of Dr. Johnson."

My feeling towards him is one of personal affection. When a boy his paper was my political "vade mecum," and personal acquaintance has only increased my regard for him. Differences on the momey question cannot chill my friendship for "Maue Henry," as the Kentuckians lovingly call him. Once I had the pleasure of introducing him to an andience at Louisiaum. After the lecture, I went with him to his hotel and sat up with him till train time. Henry Watterson is one of the most

I had no idea the doctor was a musician. He said the air and words came to him all "at oncet." He somshow struck up with another musical genius named Sykes, who told him he could back up that chous with fitting stanzas and music. Sykes sentence as I delivered it."

Thou my averaging surprise that sentence as I delivered it."

Upon my expressing surprise that such a feat could be performed, he gives me an explanation. He said: "The larger the audience, the longer the speaker pauses between sentences to get his breath; and in addressing a crowd as large as that was a man naturally and necessarily stops long enough at each period for one to prompt him for the next sentence.

That evening spent with Watterson was one of the most enjoyable of my life, and that incident has been of great use to me in gauging a written appeach use to me in hauging a written speech so as to fit the time. My experience is that it requires about as hour to de liver to a large audience a speech that it takes 30 minutes to read in an ordinate. it takes 30 minutes to read in an ordinary tone of voice, to a few persons ignorance of this proportion is one of the reasons why the hummer falls on so many Longressmen in the middle of their speaches, and why so many ask the privilege of extending their remarks in the Record.

marks in the Record.

This incident may be of sarvice to the rising generation of Cicerca.

Another thing I learned by hearing Watterson's St. Louis speech, and that is that a tenor voice in cratery has greater penetrating qualities than a base voice.

It rerely fails to the lot of any man to elect two United States Senstors by one set, and yet, according to a waggish Ecutuckian, that's precisely what Blackburn did when he pulled the ear of Senstor W. E Chandler of New Hampshire. The Kastackians re-elected Blackburn for pulling it and the people of New Hampshire re-elected Chandler for having it pulled—which goes far to prove the truth of the ild Latin dicture, "De gustinus non disputandam."

A few moments before Ferry of Michigan, President pro tem of the Secute, unnounced the consummation of the S to 7 fraud. Bischburn made a speech in which he med this bitter lunguage.

"Mr. Spacker, the end has come. There is no longer a margin for argument, and manifold sparse the plea of morey, and yet there is a fitness in the hour that should not pass unbooked. To-ay is Friday. Upon that day the bavior of the world suffered eyneits ion interven two thiswan. On this Friday constitutional Government, justice, housely, fair denling, manhood and decency suffer crucifixion amid thiswas. It was in that day that this presidential fraud received its momination at the hands of the Republican pirty. It was upon that day as it recurred that every determination reacted by the bitstared, perfured, mistremits that constitute a majority of the commissions has been promutgated.

creants that constitute a majority of the commission has been promutgated to the country. It is on that day that you propose to consucement your in lquity sad folst into a place of power him whom the people of the land have spuring, coursed and rejected at the polls,"

If suything more scathing than that was ever uttered in Congress I have never common heard of it.

Black-urn has given to sundry men at divers times many hard knocks; but Bisothern has given to sungry men at divers times analy hard knocks; but he has received some exceedingly clusp thrusts himself, which be accepted with perfect using froid.

In the first race for Congress, his ep-ponent was E.I. Marshall, fully as brilliant a man, as he many colectrated williant a man as his more celebrated trilliant a man as his more celebrated brother Tom.

Once withe making a speech he stopped auddenly and in dramatic fashion, pointing to Blackburn's under law, which is moughily well developed he exclaimed: "My God, fellow citizens! If thenson had had such a weapon as that, not one of the blanked Pullistines would have escaped alive?" On another escasion he said: "Black-norm is like a swan. He swims along majestically on the surface, atterly encountries of the depths below."

But Marshall's wit and sarcasm availed him nothing. He was so discrete and lived to be Attorony Gensral of California.

no more courage. Perhaps his diguified and affable way of accomplishing things grows out of his having been Governor when only 37, and afterward Chairman of the Commissioner to the Juteruational Monetary Conference at Brussels; for we are all more or less creatures of habit and of covironment. It is an old saving that

It is an old saying that appearances It is an old saying that appearances are frequently deceptive, and no stranger looking at Goyaron Mo-Creary's cheerful face and graceful gastarts, or listening to his polished sentences, would ever support that he had had some of the most thrilling war experiences of any man in America. Yet such is the truth of history. He was the only man in Congress who had ever been confined in a penitentiary. Ordinarily men are said to the State's prison for fellow, but young McCreary was helted up for taking part in a cavairy raid, which in boldings of conjection colleged any performance in the military annals of the world, created construction in three states. world, created construction in three States and universal exclument

This was General John H. Morgan's This was General John H. Morgan's celebrated ride through Kentneky, Ludiana and Ohjo. He was the Marion of the S-mih and perhaps did more to amony the Federal armses, out their arrangements than any other man. He was singularly handsome, the Marion and the Mari watterson's St. Louis speech, and that is that a tenor voice in oratory had greater penetrating qualities than a bass voice.

Senator Doolittle of Wisconain was the most frequent speaker in that convention. His voice was a deep bass and made more noise than Watterson's temor, but as they say in shooting circles, "it didn's carry taif so far." The latter pentrated every nock and corner of that was hall with its charlon touce and made the rafters ring.

Blackburn is a fine type of physical man —light-haired. red-quatached, blue-eyed, of angulao temperament, popular with the minees, an inequaled mixer, a splendid stamper with a rich veil of humor and greater powers of investing.

Cince he was traveling on a train, when successor is Henry Clay. The reason I look as had is I have been sick for three mooths,"

It is placel, which stood him is good stead during the war, dees not fall him in Washington.

Murat, would have delighted to lead at Marenge, Austerlitz or Wagram.

One of the chivalric rouths who callisted budge him was Governor McCreary, who started in a private and came out a Licutemant Colonel.

In 1983 Margan, overestimating the endurance of man and beset and underestimating the modern facilities for concentrating troops, as well as the martial suiris of the stay-at-inmes in the Morth, when danger was trought close to their own doors, took it lote his siventaneous head to carry the war into the enemy's country. So Morgan and his men, mounted on the pick of Kentucky thoroughteds, started on their march to Fame's eternal camping ground. During the leng and perliam ride through three States his men had little time to rest. So thoroughly fatigued were they by their hardships that many of them slept saundly for miles on their horses. Governor McCoreary told me once that for many days he saver pulled his ciotims off and never once lay down to take a map, but did all his sleeping on horsebuck. He also stated the ourseus fact that so much days in July, when the perspiration comed out at every poze, their bodies were positively middy from head to foot.

Mirgan had not more than 100 men with him, one of these being Colonel McCreary, when he was captured by another Kentuckian, Colonel James Shackleford, rewarded for that exploit with a Brigadiar Generalship, and subsequently with Judgeship in the Indian Tucritory.

Morgan and ell his field officers, including General Beell Duka, Lieutenant Colonel McCreary and Captain Thomas H. Eines, now as ex-Judge of the Supreme Courb of Kentucky, were looked up for man-keeping in the Ohio Penticettary, where most of them war, on his personal parake. This tempting offer the gallant young soldier refused, countiering that its acceptance would be but a species of ill-disquised desertion. Again, he was made the victim of the lex talicats to be taken to Charleston and exposed for weaks to the tour face of the Countier of the set alone is and one picuous of the Countier of the prists in voltang for him. Any sold rereat at Geneva, Switzsrland, to in ubute a blography of Abraham Lite oin winch will rival in interest Busell's "Life of Dr. Johnson."

My feeling towards him is one of personal affection. When a boy his paper was my political "vade meoun," and personal acquaintance has only increased my regard for him. Differences on the mossy question cannot chill my friendship for "Mane Henry," as the Kentuckians lovingly call him
Once I had the pleasure of introducing him to an ancience at Louisiana.

After the lecture, I want with him to his hotel and satu with him till trais time.

During the evening I told him that I beard his speech in the great Merchants Exchange hall at St. Louis in 1876, when he was temporary chairman of the Tilden convention, and that I enjoyed it hugely.

Whereupon he said: "I will tell you as secret connected with that speech. I my speech and not enough to commit a way, it's pour monot transfer way, he takes hold the first sunder way, he takes hold of things by the smooth handle. But MoCreary service at the understance will be beautiful, onghi to thank desubtor Blackburro in the Senate galieries, as well as all other lowers of the beautiful, onghi to thank desubtor Blackburro in out thing. He was the Brackburro in a Sit, but others followed his daring exam
by, till it has come to passed.

Governor McCreary in a perfect countrate to Blackburro in looks, manners,
temperapeut and in style of oratory.
He is a most prounted bracket and bits hair is ulnok as the raven's wing.

He is no most prounded with that is successed in the great Merchants Exchange to the system of the provided with that speech. I was unexpectedly notified that I was to presside and has barely time to write a my speech and not enough to commit to the memory. I couldn't see to read to the most provided with that speech. I was unexpectedly notified that I was

to presside and has barely time to write a man of the most provided with the feeling in the success of the transmost of the su er of Maj. McKinley for the Republican press soutial naturalists, this gentleman being not only not pledged to the free coinage of silver but being in fact a mound money man. If a Republican-Populist combination should countrol the next Legislature Mr. Setler cannot give his countenance to the re-election of his colleague without enting his own words. With the Populist strength fallen away from him Mr. Pritchard could not, of course, expect to aucceed himself in the Senane, and it estating assems as though it had left him. Besides that, he is not nearly as strong with his own party as he was when elected a little over a year ago. The Holton-listile element lines made great inraces apon him. His former lutimacy with Satile and the Populists has weakened him with the staiwart Republicans, and altogether it appears that after a two-years' taste of senatorial life he is to be left in Madison. He is a very honcest, manly sort of man, too. Without great ability and with still lead and associate, Dr. Mott, as his colleague is the stenate; and this left his mountained. Ruther is figuring now on his new-found silver friend and associate, Dr. Mott, as his colleague is the stenate; and this is the feat to which his Democratic atites will be invited if the alliance is formed and ascociate at the polls.

Otaton Depocrat.

Meson. Smith and Peebles represent toology but themselves in arging moch a thing and Senstor Butler's vest pookst does not new contain as much of the populist party as it once did. The office holding element, at least, is imaging out and will knek vigorously against any policy that would tend to deprive it of office as the proposed fusion would certainly do.

Sond your address to H. E. Buckless & Co., Chiesen, and get a free sample bust of Dr. King's New Life Piffs. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and assignationally effective in the cure of Countipation and Sick Heudache. For Malarin and Liver troubles they have been proved invaluabs. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious satisfance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving base to miscanch and bewels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c, per box. Holderia is 1961 with Simmons Liver Beginster from the bestemocht, making avery room and half in the house conforts ble and yet costing very little if any name than the warming of one room with an open grate or displace.

Take Simmons Liver Regulator sow. Its just the remody for the Spring of the year to wake up the liver and discuss the whole system of the no-oursulated waste of winter high completed more Malaria in 1961 with Simmons Liver Beginster than all the discrease its lightly noof. We've had a sales of the system. Regular size 25c, per box. Holderia is our family, and it impeditudes to the system.

SPRING MEDICINE

Is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. Don't forget to take it. Now is the dime you need it most to wake up your Liver. A sluggish Liver brings on Milaria, Pewer and Ague, Rheismatism, and many other lills which shatter the constitution and wrack health. Don't forget the word REGULATOR it is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR vou want. The word REGULATOR distinguishes it from all other remedies. And, besides this, SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR is a Regulator of the Liver, keeps it properly at work, that your system may be kept in good condition.

FOR THE BLOOD take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. It is the best blood purifier and corrector. Try it and sobe the difference. Look for the RED Z on every package. You wont find it on any other specificae, and there is no other Liver femedy like SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR—the King of Liver Remedies. Be sure you get it.

de sure you get it. J. H. Beilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa

DICYCLES IN PAVOR.

St. Louis Bepublic.

Somathing about bievoles from a business and financial standpoint. Has anyone an accurate or even a fairly well-defined idea of the amount of manny invested in the business of making bloycles? Possibly vary few persons not vitally interested are cognizant of the immensity of the industry. Twenty-live millions will landly cover it. Yet that amount on the Baured up to, and it is given by men who have been engaged in the luminess, and who devoted some thought and research in arriving at the estimate. All that amount is not invested in factories that turn out bicycles only. Fart of it is in the rubber tire concerns and the factories that make bicycle appartenances and accessories.

C. W. Dickerson, in a speech before the Cycle Buard of Trade, asseverated that $12,000,000 is the amount is invested in the factories of the country that make bicycles only, and that 65 or creat of the amount is invested in the Western Status, against $5 per cent in the East. There are 150 factories, having an average capital of $10,000, and the initer average is announted the factories, having an average capital of $10,000, and many others are up in the big thousands, whilst the great only rily figure from $100,000 to $25,000.

The total product of 150 bicycle factories in the United States for the sea.

$230,000.

The total product of 190 bicycle fue-tories in the United States for the sea-son of 1895 reached the astounding figure of 457,000 machines. The fig-ures are interesting. The New Bug-land States had 24 factories and tarned out 100,000 wheels. In New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland 18 factories produced 51,000 machines. In New York State 25 factories had an aggregate output of 56,000 bicycles.

Burlington Kows.

Last winter when the cold held everything frozan fast in its clutches, we wrote about iil preparation by our people for such weather as was then upon m. The article struck a responsive chord, and the need now of warmer houses is as fully realized as it ever was. Prople generally build in warm weather and with an eye is keeping cool in summer, and such a course will not work in winter. If in building even a small house you arrange so as to close up tight under the floor an wind cannot get under, you find it much more comfertable, and better still if you can have a bacement alorly chosel, you save much fuel and suffering with cold. Aside from that there is another stem few people understand, that is the heating of a house by one fire from the issuement, making avery room and half in the house confertable and yet costing very little if any much than the warming of one room with an open grate or fireplace.

Take Simmons Liver Regulator new