the following story about the Intier's Inthes:

"Dayld Wallace was a member of congress from an Indiana district when S. F. B. Mores soled the government to give him $40,000 for the purpose of building the first telegraph line from Baltimore to Washington. Wallace was a member of the committee to which the bill providing for the apprepriation was referred, and it happened, when the matter cause up for consideration, that he was absent. The vote in committee was a tie, and so Wallace was sent for. He voted to give the inventor the $40,000, and nevertingly the bill went through.

"This bappened along toward the soid of Wallace's term, and when he went home to strive for re-election he found that the news cancerning his action on the dione telegraph appropriation bill had preceded him. A man maned William Brown; who afterward became prominent in congress, had been nominated by the Democratic and he was conducting a vigorous onuppings.

sed he was condusting a vigorous campaign.

"In those days juint attemping tours were customary, and the two candidates went from place to place through the district, asking for the veter of the people. Brown's platform consisted of only one plank. That was the criminal record of his opponent.

"He would get up before a crowd of voters and set them if they had heard how Wallace had voted to give $40,000 of the public's money to a man who proposed to transmit messages by means of a wire between Baltimore and Washington. The tidiculousness of such a thing was so apparent that Wallace's action could not be considered as a more mistake. It was stearly an outrage upon the people—a deliberate swindle.

"You may not believe.' Brown was

"Tou may not believe," Brown was in the habit of concluding, "that any men with a spark of common sense would vote away the public funds for the furtherance of such a chimerical scheme, but the gentleman is here before you. Ask him if I have told the truth or not, and let him explain his setton if he can."

AGAINST INCREASE OF TAX.

North Carolina and Virginia Tubes Manufacturers Enter Their Project A delegation of tobacco manufac-turers from Virginia and North Caro-lina is in Washington to protest against the proposed increase of the tax on tobacce from 6 cents to 12 cents per pound mys Thursday's Charlotte News. They had a long interview with the commissioner of interval Mess. They had a long interview with the commissioner of internal revenue. This official, after bearing the arguments of the manufacturers, said he was in favor of an increase from 6 to 8 cents per pound, instead of that proposed by Chairman Dingley to 12 cents per pound. It was developed at the interview that there is a proposed provision to apply the increase to all unbroken packages. The manufacturer insist that the increased tax should only be impessed up tobacco proper ore justed that the increased tax should only be imposed on tobacco upon which the tax has not been paid prior to the passage of the bill.

The Richmond Dispatch correspondent says the Virginia and North Carolina manifacturers are opposed to any increase of the tax. It is estimated that the increase of 2 cents per pound on tobacco, with the proposed increase on eigars and cigarettes, will yield about $15,000,000 of revenue per annum.
