The dogs formerly belonged to Mr. Miles Hanna, but pow to Mr. Geo. Shuford. Bud Black down on Reid row excited the displeasure of an ebony belle by the anose of Marietta McKee. She allowed as how 'vf he wouldn't lis'n to her, ste'd go call de polloe may-be you'll lis'n to dem." Bud jamped up and out her. The polloe gave chase, but turned back for horses and dogs. The hounds, hitherto, had done poor work and were beginning to be aomething of a joke. But this time liefr work was magnificent. They strack the trail quickly and followed it with that musical successed hound in noted when he is doing good work. With unerring accuracy they followed the trail over to Mr. Mag Bradley's bars. There they huited and begas their baying after game run to cover. When the oiffort game run to cover. When the oiffort game run to cover. When the difforts dam und the tarm loft: ''Heav Lam; don't list 'em hurt me; I'H come down,'' And he came. If was a big victory for the blood hounds.
