This beautiful country is full of poor people shaking with chills.

I thought if the negroes of North and South Carolina could only see it, they would come here as soon as they could get here. They could stake a pony on the grass, eat watermelons, and be happy. Some cabins in the swamp showed marks of muddy water nearly half way up the wall. At the lumber camps they live in tents.

Inked their lives together.

The church was well filled by friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The interior, especially the altar, was handsomely decorated with palms, ferns, and other potted plants. WEDDING AT DALLAS.

Marriage of Mr. Fred Rebinson and Miss Vernie Burham Wednesday Evening.

The Baptist church at Dallas was the scene Wednesday eve-uing of a brilliant social affair when Mr. Fred Robiuson, the popular and efficient superinten-dent of the Dallas Cotton Mill, lid to the marriage altar Miss Veruie Durham, one of the prettiest and most popular young ladies of that town.

The bridal party entered the of the wedding march played by Mrs. Frank Carpenter. The bride was attended by her sister Miss May Durham, and her cousin, Miss Eugenia Lewis, as bridesmaids, while Mr. Robert Lewis, of Dallas, and Mr. R. Lee Jenkins, of Gastonia, acted as ushers. The bride and groom were met at the altar by Rev. W. F. Watson, pastor of the Baptist church at Mouroe, who pronounced the words which linked their lives together.

Goed Roads vs Bad Roads.

Good Roads Bulletin There is civilization, enlightenment and economy in good roads. Good roads lead to prompt and steady attendance upon church services, school room duties, neighborly intercourse and social advancement. Bad roads lead to profanity, worry, trials and tribulations and the loss of teams, vehicles, patience, opportunities for good markets and lots of time.

A Story of Miraculous Escape From Death. P. A. Olds, in Charlotte Observer

One of the most miraculous escapes from death which ever occurred in this part of the world happened this week at a farm a few miles from Raleigh. Near an old country barn stood a great oak, which had died, but so recently that its withered leaves still furnished some shade. In the porch of the house sat a mother while a little negro nurse rolled the mother's pretty baby back and forth under the shade of the sheltering tree. Suddenly as the nurse sang and the baby cooled, the tree fell, but ing in its wreck of branches, child, nurse and carriage. One big limb pinned the girl to the earth by her dress but she was unhurt. Right and left of the carriage big limbs were broken off and driven deep into the ground, while under a sort of arch they made was the baby in the carriage, not in the least injured. The baby was actual-ly laughing.
