The goods are here with prices on them in plain figures.

We have but one price, that the lowest. Everything sold just as marked; no deviation. A child can buy as cheap as the most experienced shopper. some day they may be able to own a home in the country. We don't believe that country peo-ple appreciate their homes as much as they should, they fail to see the pleasures that surround them and when you talk about "how nice it is to live in the country" they accur to see the them and when you talk about "how nice is is to live in the country" they seem to see the dark side of the picture. Country people need to collivate a higher apparent, to of their position and should do more to make their bones attractive than they do. If they would go to work to do more along the flag of erassentiation they would go to work to do more along the flag of erassentiation they would go to work to the more along the flag of erassentiation they would go to work to do more along the flag of erassentiation they would go to work to the more along the flag of erassentiation they would go to conclude that their loss had been cast in the most pleasant plees. In traveling around over this country we often see fine large country homes built right out in the open field without a tree or bush about it. Such a place never looks confortable to us. We can't help feeling that it must be the coldest place is winter, with sothing is the way of a wind-break about it, and the notices place in the spinner with no shade around it, and the notes place in winter.

is "the cosy, vine-clad cottage, humble though it may be, set back from the road half hidden by trees" and abrubbery, with a laws of some sort of grass ('lhough it be crab grass) look-ing comf...table to occupants and inviting to the passer by. When it is to be sold, a ready buyer is more easily found for a beautiful country home than for an unsightly one and will pay more for it. A farm house without shade and fruit trees is indeed a desolate and lonely place to live and sometimes it is the cause of our boys and girls leaving the farm.

our boys and girls leaving the farm. There is no prettier spot. and no more enjoyable place to live than in a counfortable farm-house, surrounded by beautiful shade trees, and in such a home, the farmer has a happy family. The women folks have their forwers, and are contented; and the boys and girls have no desire to leave such a home. A farm house without abade trees is indeed, not as enjoyable place to five and to rear a family.

SHORT HISTORY OF WHEAT.

This month now closing, was one of our "special Topics" The discussion to be on "wheat." The discussion to be on "wheat." But as we had already printed the varieties, botany and insect pests before we omitted alto-gether. "Wheat has been known from earliest times. It is mentioned in the Old and New Testaments, was known to the R o m a n s. Mentioned by Sophocles, 495 B. C. Described by Theo. Phrastus, 300 B. C. Introduced into America in 1602. Was cultivated in Virginia by Gov. Sir William Berkley, who caused a half bushel to be planted, gift of the Earl of Shaftsbury in 1698." WHY FLANT TRUES?

Shaftsbury is 1698." WHY FLANT TAXES? The Republic, St. Louis: The destruction of our forest trees the past 25 years without reptenish-ing the waste has caused such widespread disaster, by stream and flood that our Agricultural Department at Washington has made several efforts, not only to restrain the people from such further waste, but to demonstrate its impurative needs for agriculture. It has been clearly demonstrated by scientific research, that our hand should be covered with trees from one-fourth to one-third of the are . to be fertile, and to fulfill the conditions under which farming may be carried on with success.

FARM LIFR.

"This is a time," says the Pro-gressive Farmer, "when every farmer should live at home. * * North Carolina soil will produce North Carolina soil will produce sufficient wheat for our con-sumption if properly prepared and cultivated. The man who raises his own cotton, corn, wheat and hogs is independent. He can easily and at little expense beautify his home by planting flowers, setting shade irees, etc. There are many other idvantages in farm life which ire foreign to a great extent to city life-quietude, fresh invigor-ating air, pure, wholesome water, and genuine health and Rural life Delivery.
