What Democracy Now Stands Por, is the title of a very clearly written article in the Pebruary er of Everybody's Magadine. Its author is Congressa John Sharp Williams, of pi, the Democratic tender in the House. He has served in Congress ten years and will be fifty years of age his next ay. He has experience in Stical life, is safely mature in years, has the coulidence of litical colleagues, and yet in this article on what the Democratic party stands for, he losss't mention Bryan and freeliver at all, at all !

Stanley, Jan. 23 .- Presiding Elder H. L. Atkins held guarterly conference at this place on

Mr. R. L. Ryburn of Shelby was in Stanley during the past week on business. We notice that many of Cleveland's citizens are putting Mr. Ryburn's name forward for legislative honors, for the next election and should such be the case with our sister county, most worthily will she be represented.

Mr. G. Aug Beam, also of Cleveland, was in Stauley the present week.

Miss Ella Carpenter of Stanley who has been spending some months with friends in Mooresville returned home to-day. Some of the farmers around Stanley sold their cotton this week at fourteen cents and were satisfied with the price. Some still hold out for fifteen, while others have no price at all but just hold it through curiosity. Farm work is still being pushed vigorously along the valley of Dutchman's creek. A certain editor once called this valley the "Nile of Gaston." This valley, which is wholly in Gaston county, is about ten miles in length and is much below the Catawba Pisgah Jan. 23rd.-The January cold spell holds the Piedmout in its grip. It is houses, straight, cold weather. For fifty days the ground has been frosen nearly all the time. The small grain condition is critical. The County Crop Reporter says: Wheat and oats sown seven weeks ago are just beginning to show above ground. That sown before the first of November came up all right but could not make any growth, the continuous freeze being against it. We are informed that Mrs.

Sarah Carson while poking feed through a crack in the stable to the mule had her little finger bit off. That is somewhat out of the ordinary.

better. Mrs. C. R. Carson, of Loray-ville, visited her father, J. A. Morrow, last week. Mr. C. R. Morrow, whose legs ere cut off by the Southern Railway, is spending some time with friends and relatives near Riddle's Mill, Zeno, S. C. The general health of this neighborhood is good. Pisgah school, under the efficient management of Miss Plorence Palls, is in a flourishing condition.

Robt. L. Wilson's child, who was very sick, is better.

The Rhodhlas Mills, Town and Bridge. Newton Baterprise.

We had the pleasnre of a visit last Saturday from Mr. J. H. Sigmon of Rhodhiss. He tells us that the fine iron bridge the Rhodhiss Manufacturing Company is putting across the Ca-tawba river, will be completed and ready for travel in a few weeks. It will have double tracks, so that vehicles can cross from both directions at the same time. It will cost $11,000. The company will pay the bill, but the Burke county commissioners have agreed to pay back to the company one-third of the cost in the way of taxes on the new factory which the company will build this year on the Burke side of the river. The Caldwell county commissioners have appropripted $1,500 to the bridge and may increase tuis to the same amount appropriated by the Burke Commissioners. The bridge will be free to everybody, and will be about six miles above the Horse Ford bridge. The first Rhodhiss mill is on the Caldwell side of the river, and is one of the finest and most successful mills in the State. Mill No. 2, will be on the Burke side, and will also be a large mill. The hills on both sides of the river will soon be dotted with houses, and Rhodhiss one of the busiest towns in Western North Carolina.

A CARD OF THANKS.

I take this method of extending to many kind friends my heart-felt thanks for the belp rendered me in the loss of my house and part of its contents. Ou the 23rd of last May my house was burned, and the loss would have been much greater had it not been for the faithful efforts of friends who came to the rescue in my absence from home, and were successful in saving a great deal of my household goods. For this faithful effort please allow me to thank you most heartily. But this is not all, the sympathy and love of the people were further shown by their donations, some of money and others useful articles, which were highly appreciated. not simply for its intrinsic value. but because of that which prompted it. Kind friends allow me, on behalf of myself and family, to thank you in this way for this evidence of your sympathy in this time of severe oss to me.

Sincerely,

J. M. BLACKWOOD.
