FRIDAY, SEPT. 22, 1905.

The sheriffs have begun to publish their tax-gathering appointments and the time is fully come for making plans to lay aside the old straw hat of summer.

When the horseless carriage sends the horse into retirement, the English sparrow may be expected to go with him.

The Gaffney Ledger well knows that the Charlotte Chronicle's cartoon was nothing but another desperate bid for advertising at the expense of the great principle of cold storage.

Blackening the faces of new students with shoe polish isn't half so respectable a calling as blackening men's shoes with it.

Every time Dr. Winston expels a culprit for such cause he does something that is worth more than a dozen pages of declarations in a catalogue to indicate that he has dedicated himself to the task of making the Agricultural and Mechanical College a fit place for training the youth of North Carolina in the arts of the field and shop and ingenuity.

Frank Lenoir, colored, of Waynesville, was killed Friday night by being struck by a stone thrown by Howard Fleming, a negro boy 18 years old.

Rev. Charles T. Willingham, missionary to Japan, but now at home, a son of Dr. R. J. Willingham, of Richmond, corresponding secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, has been asked to supply as pastor for First Baptist church of Charlotte until a successor to the late Dr. Barron is secured.

A fire which visited the business section of Goldsboro early Sunday morning destroyed about fifty thousand dollars worth of property, before the flames were extinguished.

Grover Cleveland.

One of these days the people of the South will learn to love Grover Cleveland. There were few men in public life like him. He was above the average.

YORK AND YORKVILLE.

What's Doing Among our Neighbors Just Across the Line.

Miss Lattie Jenkins spent Sunday in Gastonia with Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Miller.

Doc West is trying to raise $20,000 with which to construct a branch line of railroad to connect with the Southern at Donalds.

Mr. F. C. Black has purchased the Lowrance house and lot on King's Mountain street.

With the warehouses built and building, Yorkville will have a standard storage capacity of about 6,000 bales.

The Victor Oil Mill will run its cotton ginners plant by electricity. It will use two 75-horse motors, one for each system of four gins.

Several prominent Yorkville ladies are circulating a petition among the ladies asking for help to remove the dispensary next Tuesday. The petition, which is being quite generally signed, is to be published.

Mr. Paul G. McCorkle of Chester, who was so badly hurt in a runaway accident some months ago, has so far recovered as to be able to be up and about again.

The election on the question as to whether or not the people of York county are to continue in the liquor business under the dispensary law takes place next Tuesday.

The promptness with which the cotton convention assembled yesterday after what was virtually a single day's notice is significant of the interest the members feel in the organization.

Mr. John Plexico, who lives about six miles southwest of Yorkville was painfully hurt yesterday by being kicked on the head by a mule. Two fingers were broken. Dr. J. D. McDowell was sent for to attend his injuries.

The Carolina Mutual Life Assurance Society of South Carolina, S. L. Miller, president and secretary, is now fully organized in York county and has commenced writing policies for all applicants who are able to come up to requirements.

Messrs. Latta Bros. have given the contract for the erection of a warehouse with a capacity of 2,500 bales. The warehouse will occupy the lot on East Liberty street next to Trinity church, and will have a frontage of 100 feet.

Table showing assessed value of the taxable property of the town of Yorkville for five years: 1900 $338,620; 1901 520,278; 1902 533,940; 1903 505,245; 1904 544,110.

The following prominent citizens are on the sick list: Congressman Finley, Mr. W. D. Glenn, Dr. D. L. Sheider, Mr. B. Frank White. All have been confined to their rooms or beds for several days past; but all hope to be up within a day or two.

There is an interesting protracted meeting in progress in Trinity church, services being held twice a day, in the afternoon and night. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. L. Stokes, is being assisted by Rev. R. S. Truesdell, pastor of the Green Street Methodist church, Columbia. Mr. Truesdell is an earnest and interesting preacher, and the attendance on the meeting is growing with each succeeding service.

As a result of Tuesday's election in Wadesboro saloons carried by a majority of fifty-three, and there was a majority of seventeen for distilleries.

R. A. Sterrett a traveling salesman, whose mother lives in Charlotte died in his room at the Spartan Inn at Spartanburg about 7 o'clock Sunday morning as the result of a self-administered dose of laudanum taken with suicidal intent. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of J. F. Floyd & Co., thence to the home of E. H. Sterrett, a brother of the deceased, where it remained until the afternoon, when the remains were taken to the home of the deceased at Charlotte. No cause is known for the deed.

INSIDE INFORMATION.

Gazette Readers Chance for Profit-Everyone Ought to Grasp this Opportunity.

To have even a simple case of indigestion is to have "inside information" of suffering that warns of serious trouble in the future, unless the digestive system is strengthened.

NEWS NOTES.

A charter has been granted for a new $300,000 mill for Charlotte. The incorporators are Messrs. E. A. Smith and A. H. Washburn, of this city, and Mr. T. G. Cox, of Taunton, Mass.

Colored girls have been substituted for white ones in the Balfour knitting mills at Henderson, in this state, says the Gold Leaf. The owners did not want to make this change but were forced to do so because they could not get white labor enough to operate the mill.

The four attendants at the State Hospital in Raleigh charged with having caused the death of Thomas Nall, a patient from Chatbam, by rough usage, were last week released on bonds of $1,000 each under habeas corpus proceedings. Their release is probably due to the fact a large number of prominent physicians testified that Nall's death was not due to rough usage but to over-exertion in attempting to escape.

The Chester Lantern says: Mrs. Sarah Jane Patrick, wife of Mr. Thomas G. Patrick, of White Oak, died at 11:30 o'clock Friday evening, Sept. 15, 1905, at the home of her brother, Solicitor J. K. Henry, in the city. She has been sick the most of the time for more than two years with pernicious anaemia and some stomach trouble. She spent several weeks in the hospital at Baltimore last year in the hope of getting relief but her case baffled the skill of the physicians.

A Winston-Salem special of the 19th says: The Carnegie Library building, the beautiful white stone structure on Cherry street, the formal opening of which had been set for Thursday of this week, was badly damaged by fire and water last night, a rough estimate placing the loss at between $1,000 and $1,500, covered by insurance. It is believed that the fire started in a wooden box in the furnace room, though nothing is definitely known as to the origin of the blaze.

A High Point special says: Gaines Wainwright, a well-known young man of Greensboro, met with a serious accident here at eight o'clock tonight. He came up on No. 29 on his way to Hot Springs, Arkansas, for treatment, and had stepped off the train to tell his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McNeeley good bye. In attempting to catch a sleeper he lost his hold and his left leg went under the car and was wound off just above the ankle, his foot remaining in the left shoe. He also sustained several bruises about the face.

There came near being a serious conflict between the citizens of Morganton and Southern railroad people last Friday and Saturday. The railway officials undertook to prevent the city laying a sewer pipe under its track. A number of railway workmen were assembled to resist the digging of the ditch. Special policemen were sworn in. The company started two trains to the scene with reinforcements. The city authorities swore in seventy-five more extra policemen, and these with shotguns guarded the men at work in the ditch. The company on hearing of this stopped its train with reinforcements, and its officials came to terms with the city and allowed the work to go on.

The Asheville Citizen says: Charles Olsen, the wrestler of renown, and Mr. B. Schoenfeld, referee in the Ono-Olsen and Ono-Frisbee bouts and director of the great New Orleans gymnasium yesterday agreed verbally to wrestle here on the night of the 29th. The news of this match will excite greater interest than the last match because the two men are known. Olsen, as is stated elsewhere in this paper, is a wrestler of note and Schoenfeld has matched Jenkins and the champion lost. The rules will be those of the American ring, no hitting or stranglings allowed, and the men will be stripped to the waist with no shirt. It will be genuine wrestling. There will be no prize but the winner will get the bulk of the gate receipts.

HONORS FOR M. WITTE.

Great Reception Planned for Him at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—A great reception will be tendered M. Witte when he arrives here, to show the appreciation in which his successful efforts to bring about peace are held by the people of this city. The reception will be under the auspices of a number of liberal manufacturers who will present an address to the envoy. The avenue leading to the Troitzky bridge and M. Witte's house will be named after the envoy as a mark of honor and his name will likewise be conferred on many schools. One of the features of the reception will be the call to be made upon the returning envoy by a deputation of women who will greet him in the name of thousands of mothers and wives, who will express to him their thanks for ending the war so that their husbands may return to them and their families.

A Unique Cook Book.

Charlotte Chronicle, 19th. Mrs. Charles Sheppard, of New-York, who spent last winter in Charlotte, and who is a sister of Mr. T. W. Wade, is compiling an autograph cook book, which will be a valuable guide to a good housekeeper. Mrs. Sheppard distributed among a number of her friends, blank sheets of fine linen paper and requested each of them to write down in minute detail any recipe she could guarantee never to fail under any circumstances, and to add at the bottom of the page her full name, address and the date at which the recipe was written.

The Authorities Failed him and He Asked the Lord's Help.

Greensboro Record. There is nothing like knowing how to go about anything to accomplish it. Sometimes we know how, but do not practice it at first, trying to beat about the bush. Prayer, we are told is the right and proper way and with strong faith never fails. This is not controverted. Sunday night in a certain church at High Point a good old brother was asked to close the meeting with prayer. He proceeded to comply, and from reports he did business from the jump. His words were something after this fashion: "O, Lord, there is a blind tiger next to my house; I have appealed to the mayor; I have appealed to the chief of police [he mentioned each by name], but they cannot or will not do a thing. Thou canst abate the evil, good Lord, and we commit it to thee. Wipe it from the face of the earth, good Lord, and let it exist no longer," and much more to the same effect.

It is said it was one of the best and most earnest prayers ever heard in High Point or anywhere else. The good brother no doubt knew he should have appealed to the Almighty in the first place; maybe he did appeal to Him—in secret; but finding his prayer unheeded, he hit upon the expedient of public prayer and it is safe to say that blind tiger will vamoose. It's not going to hang out next door to this good old man any longer. The keeper of it, after this, will be afraid lightning will strike him. And he had better be afraid.

A Rock Hill special announces that Mr. C. K. Schwarz, the present editor of The Rock Hill Record, has purchased that paper, with the complete outfit for job work, from Messrs J. G. Anderson and J. M. Cherry. Editor Schwarz came to Rock Hill a year ago from Pottsville, Pa. He is a man of indomitable push and energy and has deserved the commendation he has received for his efforts in the journalistic field in South Carolina.
